Dirksen's Death Prompts Moratorium

The final silencing of Sen. Everett Dirksen's voice yesterday afternoon created a flurry of activity in the politics of the 13th Congressional District.

Rep. Eugene Schlickman of Arlington Heights sent a telegram to the other contestants for the 13th Congressional District seat, requesting a cessation of campaigning on the day of Sen. Dirksen's funeral. Dirksen had been in serious condition at Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington since last Tuesday when he underwent surgery for lung cancer.

"In recognition of the many years of service that Sen. Everett Dirksen gave Illinois and his country," began the telegram, Rep. Schlickmao told The Day, "I think those of us now in the running for the 13th Congressional District seat might pause in our endeavors on the day of his funeral to honor the commitment he made to public service and to reflect on the sacrifices demanded of those who would represent the sentiment and needs of their fellow men."

"A DAY'S moratorium in his honor seems the least we could accord him," reported Schlickman's telegram.

"I'm a personal friend of Sen. Dirksen. I've known him much longer than Eugene Schlickman has," said candidate Samuel Young of Glenview when told of Rep. Schlickman's telegram.

"I don't know yet what day the funeral is set for," continued Young, "but I'll conduct myself in a way I think is proper and not in answer to what Schlickman has said."

Candidate Alan Johnston of Kenilworth reacted similarly when told of the telegram. "I was planning to declare a moratorium myself. I wasn't intending it for others though."

JOSEPH Mathewson of Winnetka said he had not seen the telegram. "I don't know what the day of the funeral is. I don't know what our schedule is going to be for that day."

Gerald Marks of Wilmette, although he had not yet seen the telegram, said he wholly agreed with the idea. "I had suggested earlier that on the day of mourning all campaigning be dispensed with."

Car Kills Man Near Crash Scene

A Mount Prospect man, crossing Central Rd. in Arlington Heights to investigate a car accident, was himself struck and killed by a car Friday night.

The accident occured at the 1300 block of Central Rd.

Stephan Vrshek, 44 of 1802 W. Liocoln, Mount Prospect was taken to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights where he was pronounced dead. He had been struck by a car driven by Cynthia Erikson, 20, of 507 W. Algonquin Rd., Arlington Heights, police said.

Miss Erikson was taken to Northwest Community Hospital for treatment.

police said and was released Saturday.

No charges were made against Miss Erikson.

According to police, the fatal accident followed closely after another accident in which a car struck the rear of a disabled truck stopped in the east bound lane of Central Rd.

Miss Erikson told police that she had been driving westbound on Central Rd., approaching the scene of the accident, when she saw a man walk onto the roadway from the north side of the road. She told police she applied her brakes but was not able to stop in time to avoid hitting the man. The man turned away from her car, toward the accident, just before he was struck, she said.

POLICE SAID Miss Erikson's car left a skid mark of 44 feet. They estimated her speed at being 29 m.p.h.

Two policemen who had been directing traffic around the scene of the accident had just returned to their squad car when the fatal accident occured, police said.

The previous accident occured when a car driven by Sandra M. Sander of 43 N. Third, Des Plaines, struck the rear of the disabled truck of William E. Vick of Chicago parked in the eastbound lane of Central Rd., police said.

Police found Vrshek's car in a nearhy parking lot. They said he might have been investigating the accident when he was struck and killed.

Sprinkling Ban Lifted

The lawn sprinkliog ban imposed almost two weeks ago has been lifted, according to the Arlington Heights public works department.

Public Works Director Gene Willroth urged village residents to obey the village sprinkling ordinance. The ordinance allows persons with even house numbers to water their lawns on even-numbered days of the week. Odd house numbers sprinkle on odd-numbered days.

Complain of Flooding

Heavy rainfall and flooded basements last week brought complaints from residents on Yale Av. south of Euclid.

Fred Miller of 505 N. Yale and Richard Riley of 511 N. Yale, told The Day their basements began flooding soon after the rain started. Miller said his basement had 2½ inches of water, despite the efforts of both a gasoline and an electric sump pump.

According to Capt. John Benson of the Arlington Heights Fire Department, the department's rain gauge measured more than two inches of rain Thursday and more that one-half inch in 20 minutes Friday afternoon.

Riley said he recently spent $1,300 on flood control equipment, but water was rising in his basement anyway. Other residents on N. Yale had up to four inches of water in their basements.

Both Riley and Miller said the village has ignored the flood problems in the area.

"We've talked with them any number of times," Miller said, "and they say that they haven't received any flooding complaints. I've been here 15 years and every year I can expect my basement to get flooded."

"All of us have gate valves and sump pumps and it still hasn't helped," he said. "They've got to do something about this."

Flood relief for the Westgate subdivision area, where Riley and Miller live, will be coming soon. The village has already let contracts for part of a drainage project that will include a giant 72-inch storm sewer on Grove St. and a retention basin at Kirchoff and Wilke Rds.

According to Robert Peterson, of Suhr, Peterson, Peterson and Suhr, engineering firm for the project, the new detention basin and sewer system will end flooding in the area.

Peterson said existing sewers were built before the tremendous growth of the village and cannot handle runoff from a heavy rainfall.

He said the Yale sewer will be connected to the giant Grove sewer, eliminating flood-causing back-ups. The detention basin also will be connected to the Grove sewer near Yale.

Peterson described the detention basin, proposed for Kirchoff and Wilke Rds., as a large pond that will be able to hold excess runoff. He said the pond would be 11 feet deep when full.

Rob School Office

About $70 in cash was reportedly taken in a burglary late yesterday or early today at the Elementary School District 59 administration building, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

Patrolman Donald Langguth said that about $65 was taken from a safe inside a vault on the second floor of the building. The rest of the money, according to the patrolman, was taken from a soft drink machine in the first-floor cafeteria.

The intruders apparently gained access to the office by smashing a window on the east side of the building. They cut a hole in the side of the vault and pried open the safe. The soft drink machine was also pried open, police said.

"The burglary appeared to be well planned," said detective Gene Deck, who took photos of the burglary scene and dusted for fingerprints. "They had the tools to get into the vault safe and soft drink machine and they didn't bother anything else in the office."

A District 59 spokesman said the money in the safe was petty cash and large amounts of money were not kept in the office.

3 Teens Held On Drug Charge

Police, responding to a tip from an unknown female caller, arrested two young men and a girl on charges of possession of marijuana Friday night.

Arrested were John L. Schumacher, 18 of 403 N. Haddow, Arlington Heights; William J. Groh, 18 of 912 N Chicago, Arlington Heights and Vicki L. Young, 18 of 617 N. Elmhurst, Mount Prospect.

They were released on bond pending a hearing in Arlington Heights court on Sept. 19.

Police said they had received a tip from a female caller that a man had taken a bag containing marijuana into a field near Brown St. and Race Av., Arlington Heights. Police searched the field and found a bag containing a substance which they identified as marijuana.

Police said they had waited near the field. A car soon arrived at the field, they said, and a young man got out of the car and went into the field, towards the bag. He remained in the field several minutes, police said, then returned to the car and drove off.

Police followed the car until it stopped behind some offices near the intersection of Race Av. and Northwest Hwy. Police said they then approached the car and, as they approached, the occupants of the car dropped an envelop containing what was identified as marijuana from the car.

Police then arrested the occupants for possession of marijuana.

Flier Home in Vintage Plane

By Keith Brown

Buren F. (Bud) Herod is home after his 13 day trip home from California in his 1941 Taylorcraft airplane.

Bud's adventure began more than a year ago when he bought the 28-year-old plane for $1,100 while he was in the Navy. After he was discharged last March, he worked as an airplane mechanic at Meadowlark field, Weldon Gates, Calif., 25 miles south of Los Angeles, and worked in his spare time on his plane.

BUD'S FATHER, Buren C. Herod, 214 N. Pine, Mouni Prospect worked for Taylorcraft after World War II as a factory representative and was familiar with the aircraft. The doors and the wings needed rebuilding, so Bud worked on the wings in California while his father built new doors at home.

When the doors were finished they were shipped to Bud. With the engine rebuilt and the airplane in flying condition, Bud was ready to come home.

When Bud was aked why he left California he said: People out there are crazy. They live life too fast. They sleep late, party late at night and drive like maniacs."

ON AUG. 23, Bud took off from Meadowlark Field. He was scheduled to land at Chandler, Ariz., but he ran into bad weather and turned back to land at Blythe, Calif.

Without a radio or modern navigational equipment Bud was "flying by the seat of his pants." Bud followed the Colorado River until it forked but followed the wrong fork. He ran into a box canyon and when he started to turn back he noticed that a thunderstorm had followed him into the canyon. He then flew around the basin of the canyon under the storm.

Bud spent the next four days in Kearny, Ariz., making engine repairs.

While in Kearny, his old boss from Meadowlark flew to help him repair the engine. The problem was solved by using an empty 22 caliber cartridge in place of a broken nozzle in the carburetor.

BUD TOOK OFF from Kearny Aug. 29 and followed the "iron compass" (railroad tracks) to El Paso, Tex. where he was grounded another day by bad weather. That night he slept under his plane in a sleeping bag. Hotels and motels were becoming too expensive.

On Aug. 31 he was off again, but bad weather forced him to return to El Paso and another night under the plane. While he was there he discovered more carburetor troubles, but this time repaired a cracked fuel line with tape.

Bud finally got out of El Paso Sept. 1 and made it to Abilene, Tex. Then he ran into some of the worst flying weather he had ever seen. "It threw that plane all over the sky," he said.

On Sept. 2, Bud was off to Henrietta, Tex. for a visit with a Navy Buddy's parents, and the next day he was in Springfield. Mo.

SEPT. 4, THE MOST exciting day with Bud making an emergency landing on U.S. 66 just outside of Waynesville, Mo.

After dodging high tension wires, cars and trucks, overhead signs and bridges, Bud landed safely. When state police arrived they took Bud into town and waited until the weather cleared. Three hours later, the police blocked off traffic and Bud took off with a crowd of motorists cheering him.

From there it was clear flying all the way home. Bud landed last Friday afternoon at Chicagoland Field.

NOW THAT BUD is home he hopes to get a job as an aircraft mechanic. When asked if he would like to go back to the "crazy life" in California he said, "in a few years, maybe, I would like to take a handful of green grass, a bottle of clean fresh air then throw it at them, and watch them scurry for it."

"I'm real proud of the fact that he could take an old plane and make a trip like that. It goes back to the early days of aviation," said Bud's father.

"I'm just glad he finally made it home," said his mother.

Field V Named Publisher Of Sun-Times, Daily News

Marshall Field III

Marshall Field IV

Marshall Field V

Marshall Field V has been elected publisher of The Chicago Sun-Times and The Chicago Daily News effective Oct. 1, Bailey K. Howard, president of the newspaper division of Field Enterprises, Inc., announced today.

Field, 28, will be the youngest publisher of a major newspaper in the nation when he takes over the office Oct. 1. The title of publisher of the two Field newspapers has not been used since the death of Field's father, Marshall Field IV, in September, 1965.

COMMENTING ON the new publisher, Howard said: Three years ago Marshall Field began a five-year training program working in each of the 23 subsidiaries and divisions that make up our parent company, Field Enterprises, Inc. His talent, probing curiosity and diligence have given him such an excellent understanding of the business that Marshall is ready to assume the position and responsibility of publisher now. Under his creative leadership, The Chicago Sun-Times and The Chicago Daily News will each continue to develop its own distinctive, strong image, and will achieve new challenging objectives."

A year ago, on Sept. 4, 1968, Field was elected senior vice president of the newspaper division and senior vice president of the corporate division of Field Enterprises, Inc. He had been assistant to the general manager of the newspaper division since October, 1965.

In September, 1965, Field was elected to the board of directors of Field Enterprises, Inc., to succeed his late father. He now serves on the boards of directors of all subsidiaries and divisions of the corporation.

WHILE ATTENDING Harvard University, Field worked one summer in the editorial department of the Boston Globe. After graduating, he worked for Random House and later the New York Herald-Tribune. He resigned to return to Chicago after his father died in 1965.

The Chicago Sun was founded by Field's grandfather, Marshall Field III, as a morning newspaper in 1941, the year Marshall Field V was born.

In 1947, Marshall Field III acquired The Chicago Times and merged the papers into the Chicago Sun-Times a year later as a daily and Sunday newspaper.

MARSHALL FIELD IV began his career in journalism on the Chicago Sun in 1946 as an apprentice. The following year he worked on the New York Herald-Tribune. He returned to Chicago in 1948 as assistant publisher and associate editor of the Chicago Sun-Times. In 1950, at age 34, he was appointed editor and publisher of the paper.

In 1959, Marshall Field IV bought the Pulitzer Prize winning Chicago Daily News from John S. Knight, and became president, editor and publisher of the newspaper. He simultaneously held the same positions on the Chicago Sun-Times.

The Chicago Sun-Times today ranks as the fifth largest morning newspaper in the nation. In the afternoon field, the Chicago Daily News is in fourth place. The Chicago Daily News/Sun-Times Service is America's oldest auxiliary wire service, founded in 1898 as the Chicago Daily News Foreign Service. It provides Publishers-Hall Syndicate with a network of foreign and domestic correspondents anu feature writers.

MARSHALL FIELD'S professional memberships include serving on the board of directors of the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. He is also a trustee of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. Foundation.

Because of his keen interest in learning through reading, Field accepted chairmanship of the committee for National Library Week in Illinois this year. He is a member of the National Book Committee, Inc., and the Chicago Committee of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations.

In civic affairs, Field is a governing member of the Chicago Orchestral Assn.; a member of the boards of directors of the Field Foundation of Illinois, Inc., the National Boulevard Bank of Chicago and the Lyric Opera. He is a trustee of the Art Institute of Chicago and the Field Museum of Natural History.

Weber Drops Out of Race

And now there are eight.

Alban Weber of Evanston, Republican, who has been campaigning for the 13th District Congressional seat, told The Day late Sunday that he is retiring from the race and "will not at this time" endorse any other candidate.

There had been reports for several days that the official of Northwestern University would quit the 13th District race.

Weber is the third candidate to retire from the crowded 13th District race. Brian Duff of Wilmette retired from the race in July. David Roe of Glenview dropped out in August. The showdown primary comes Oct. 7.

As in the case of the other candidates, Weber said that his reason for quitting is the high cost of conducting an aggressive campaign.

The race in the 13th District's Republican primary is still jammed with a record eight candidates campaigning aggressively. They are listed here in the order which their names will appear on the Oct. 7 ballot:

John J. Nimrod, Skokie; Eugene F. Schlickman, Arlington Heights; Alan R. Johnston, Kenilworth; Samuel H. Young, Glenview; Gerald M. Marks, Wilmette, Philip M. Crane, Winnetka; Lar (America First) Daley, Chicago and Joseph D. Mathewson, Winnetka.

The Democrats have only one candidate in the race, Edward A. Warman of Skokie.

Dist. 59 to View Tentative Budget

District 59 budget committee members will discuss their tentative budget for 1970-71 at an open meeting at 7 tonight at Devonshire School, 1401 S. Pennsylvania, Des Plaines. At 8 p.m., the regular board meeting will begin.

On the agenda are reports by staff members on the opening of school; on a meeting with Mass Feeding Corp. to discuss hot hunches; on teachers, interns, and student teachers.

Board members also will discuss an evaluation of Project Wingspread held last spring, and take action on a similar proposal for the fall. Wingspread was a co-operative program for a total of 60 children from Chicago and District 59 schools, conducted with the McCormick Boys' Club, Lincoln Park and Garfield Park Conservatories. Parents who wished their children to take part signed them up for the program.

Students involved came from Frost, Forest View Elementary, and John Jay Schools in Mount Prospect, and from Einstein and High Ridge Knolls in Des Plaines.

Besides these schools, District 59 includes Low in Arlington Heights, Dempster and Holmes in Mount Prospect, Devonshire and Brentwood in Des Plaines, and Grove, Lively, Salt Creek, Ridge, Rupley, Cook, Grant Wood, Hopkins and Clearmont in Elk Grove Village.

No Certificate Means No Pay

Robert P. Hanrahan, Cook County Superintendent of Schools has warned suburban school superintendents that salaries for teachers and administrators may be withheld by Hanrahan if local district staff members do not hold "Illinois Certificates valid for their assigned positions."

"We will be examining school district reports very carefully for any irregularities," Hanrahan said.

"Proper certification of teachers and administrators is necessary," Hanrahan said, "No one can hold an administrative position who does not have a proper administrative certificate."

"Since July 1, new eligibility requirements are in effect," he said.

School officials were also told that "teachers with a high school certificate are not permitted to teach below sixth grade."

Jewelry, Cash Taken

Some $3,775 in cash and more than $3,000 worth of jewelry were among items stolen from the home of Steve Terry, 955 E. Falcon Dr., Arlington Heights late Saturday night or early yesterday morning.

Terry told police that part of the cash stolen consisted on 28 $100 bills which had been kept in an envelope taped to the underside of his dresser drawer.

Also stolen were $675 in old treasury $5 bills, $300 in half-dollars and quarters and five rings valued at $3,000.

According to police, thieves entered and left Terry's house through a basement window. While in the house, they smashed a television set and slashed a couch, police said.

The thieves also stole a gun, a set of golf clubs and clothing, police reported.

Mexican Honeymoons for Two Couples

Capt. and Mrs. William Protz

A congratulatory letter from North Africa brought an added note of happiness to the Aug. 9 wedding of the former Nancy Margaret Bang and Capt. William O. Protz of Des Plaines, who were married at noon in Our Saviour's Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Darrell R. Bang of Arlington Heights.

The parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Protz, reside in Carlsbad, N.M. However, at the time of their son's wedding they were on assignment in Morocco, Africa, with the United Nations. the Protzes' congratulatory message was read to the bride and groom at the wedding reception by Frank Buchmeier, a family friend and the best man from St. Louis, Mo. He then proposed a champagne toast on behalf of the groom's parents.

Preceding the double-ring ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Donald D. Pritz, pastor, the bride's uncle, Orville Bang of Arlington Heights, sang "O Lord, Most Holy" and "O, Perfect Love" accompanied on the organ by Paul Hanson.

FLORAL BASKETS of white gladiolus decorated the church as the bride's father escorted her to the altar.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white peau de soie, featuring an Empire waist and a detachable train edged with Venise lace. Venise lace also trimmed the neckline, hem and sleeves of the gown. Delicately gathered ruffles banded the sleeves with lace motifs and a double bow accenting the bodice. The bride's four-tiered illusion veil bouffanted from an organdy and lace orchid petalled headpiece, sprinkled with crystals and seed pearls.

The bride's bouquet was a large arrangement of custom created glamellias with curly-leaf Boston fern.

MISS LINDA LEGARE, a friend from Mount Prospect, was the maid of honor. The bridesmaid was Miss Marlys Vetter, a cousin, from Stoughton, Wis. Both wore gowns of apricot satin with overlayed chiffon skirts. Their gowns also featured an Empire waist defined with lace daisy trim, short sleeves, a rounded neckline and a chiffon panel which fell from a wide bow in the back.

Their headpieces were made of matching apricot net highlighted by seed pearls. Attached were shoulder-length veils. Their bouquets were also of apricot glamellias and Boston ferns.

Completing the bridal party were the bride and groom's brothers, who escorted the 75 guests to their seats. They are Steve and John Bang, both of Arlington Heights, and D. Craig Protz, of Roswell, N.M.

Following the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served at Old Orchard Country Club. A trio of strolling musicians played for the guests. For the occasion the bride's mother chose a sleeveless aqua sheath dress with a neckline outlined in crystal and aurora borealis heading.

UNTIL HER marriage the bride, a graduate of Prospect High School, was a service representative with Illinois Bell Telephone Company, Arlington Heights. The groom, a graduate of St. John's Military School, Salina, Kan., attended Iowa State University before beginning his career as an Army officer. He recently was stationed with the Army Air Defense Unit in Arlington Heights but is now attending the Advanced Artillery School, Fort Sill, Okla.

Following their wedding the couple honeymooned in Mexico.

Mrs. Kenneth Roberts

Former Arlington Heights resident Miss Betty Ball became Mrs. Kenneth Roberts in a candlelight ceremony at the Paradise Methodist Chapel, Phoenix, Ariz., on Aug. 29. The bride is the daughter of the W. H. Balls, Phoenix.

On her wedding day the bride wore a floor-length gown of white Gro de Londre with an Empire waistline with an English net bodice accented with Alencon lace, pearl beading and irridescents. A delicate cluster of orange blossoms held her silk illusion veiling. This was set off by a nosegay of miniature yellow rosebuds and baby's breath.

MISS BETH DAGHLIAN, a former college classmate, attended the bride. She wore a floor-length print of pale blue cornflowers on white. A large-brimmed organza hat trimmed in matching blue velvet ribbon completed her outfit.

Paul Jarvis of Arlington Heights, a fraternity brother of the groom, served as best man.

A reception for the 150 guests was held immediately after the ceremony in the home of the bride's parents.

After a honeymoon in Mexico the newlyweds will be returning to New Britain, Conn., to make their home. There the bride will complete her education at Connecticut College for Women, New London, Conn.

The groom, a graduate of Wesleyan University, received his Master's degree at Syracuse University. At present he is director of Community Development and assistant city manager of Watertown, Conn.

Young Mezzo Soprano Enjoys Lullabies Too

By Margarete Murphy

An evening of serious concert music, ranging from Handel to contemporary composers and presented with glowing vocal and dramatic skill by Mezzo Soprano Joanne Mayer of Arlington Heights and her accompanist, Kristine Latton of Portage, Wis., delighted the audience at Faith Lutheran Church Sunday evening.

It seems that only yesterday Joanne was a happy-go-lucky Arlington High School student. Joanne was guided to explore her musical talent when Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors" was presented by the choral group in school. Joanne took the part of the mother.

Many of her instructors became aware of the development of Joanne's resources, especially when she chose a repertoire of songs with striking individuality. Her voice range was tailored to the type of music she interpreted, and she also proved her lingual ability in German and Italian. The changes of mood required in singing a recitative of Handel to the gay notes of Mozart showed serious study.

However, it was Joanne, the senior at Illinois Wesleyan University, preparing to practice-teach in the Bloomington area schools, that I interviewed recently. She said that she plans to continue her vocal studies while teaching.

She has mastered the piano sufficiently to accompany herself. Laughing, she confided that she is now learning to strum the ukulele, so that she can teach her forthcoming classes.

She also voiced her independence of spirit when she stated that she does not wish to associate herself with technique, but follow her natural voice inclincations.

Joanne loves people, and, therefore, is of great help in her father's gift and metalware shop on Arlington Heights Rd. during the summer months. Recently she saw her first professional ball game and now is a confirmed Cubs booster.

In the little spare time she has, she may be lured into water skiing, swimming or tennis. Sewing is another form of relaxation as she readies her fall wardrobe.

Joanne's memories of this summer are sure to be a sea of smiling faces whom she has pleased with her rich voice But be it teaching, "Twinkle Twinkle Little Star," crooning a lullaby or enchanting an audience with opera, may her talent find the right niche.

For serious study Joanne Mayer searches out a quiet corner. Soon the Arlington Heights mezzo soprano will return to Illinois Wesleyan University to complete her senior year. (Photos by Frances Altman)

Chairman for the event will be Mrs. William McAllister, co-chairman, Mrs. Walter Kinka.

Friends of Clearbrook Center was organized to raise money for the center, with the fall brunch as the main fund raising affair.

Any information regarding tickets for the event may be secured from Mrs. William Kelly, 392-0856.

Naughty Crayon Stains

It happens every year, and this fall will be no different, but forewarned, you can be forearmed. Look for the colored crayon in the pockets of children's clothes before putting them in the laundry.

Prevention is better than cure, but if a load of clothes takes on an unwanted "tint" from a stray crayon accidentally getting into the dryer, the quick answer is to turn everything over to the professional launderer--so say the experts at the American Institute of Laundering.

Associate Newcomers to Meet

The Associate Newcomers Club of Arlington Heights will hold its regular monthly luncheon at Old Orchard Country Club on Wednesday, Sept. 10, at 1 p.m. For reservations please call Mrs. Sam Shutt, 259-5451, or Mrs. Paul Griffin, 358-1306, by Monday, Sept. 8.

Membership in the club is open to any woman who is a past Newcomer or who has lived in Arlington Heights over 18 months and has never been a Newcomer member.

A variety of activities are offered to members, such as ladies bridge, couples bridge, ladies bowling, couples bowling, ladies pinochle and golf. Also included in the activities is a "party-of-the-month" held at a different restaurant each month.

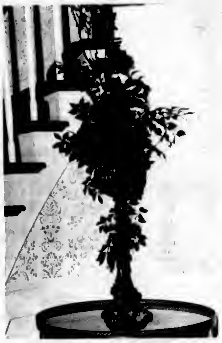
Anyone interested in becoming a member should call Mrs. James Merrick, membership chairman, at 259-4997.

Earns Degree

Patricia Faust, daughter of the Wayne Fausts of Arlington Heights, was recently awarded a Master of Science degree in the field of microbiology from Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y.

A 1963 graduate of Arlington High, Miss Faust received her Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Illinois in 1967. She is employed as a research assistant in the Microbiology Department at Cornell University.

Arrange Those Summer Roses



When you pick the last roses of summer, plan to arrange them in this most attractive way. Green foilage combined with a concentration of the American Beauty blooms near the base of a handsome container can be placed at the vantage point in a hall calling attention to fine woodwork of a curving stairway. The high ceiling area inspires the use of the extremely tall antique container. (Photo by Dolores Haugh)

Hickory, Dickory, Doc

By Catherine O'Donnell

Keith Vidmar, a first-grader at Dunton School, was bit by a mouse at school on Friday.

It's not easy to find a mouse in a modern school let along to get bit by one, but Keith managed. Keith is the son of Al and Barbara Vidmar of S. Walnut. Barbara has the knack of being in the center of the action and it she isn't around the action finds her. She wasn't even home when the biting incident happened so the name on Keith's record for the person to be notified in case of accident when a parent wasn't home was Tinn Hermann of S. Walnut also. Tinn got the job of transporting the wounded youngster to Northwest Community Hospital.

At the hospital someone in the emergency room said that he could not do anything for Keith until one of his parents could appear. Someone else told Tina, "Get the mouse."

"Get the mouse?" questioned Tina.

"Get the mouse," came the order.

PRINCIPALS OF schools are often called upon to achieve things that no one ever thought of entering in the old college text books.

Chester Raasch, principal of Dunton, spoke into the phone, "Get the mouse?"

Get the mouse," Tina said.

Where does a school principal go to look for a missing mouse? Principal Raasch started an investigation that revealed that the mouse was still near the fence of the schoolyard. Some boys had been waving it by the tail when Keith came along.

"Touch it," they told Keith, "and see if it'll bite."

Keith did and it did. The boys slammed it into the fence and it died. By this time, Keith's mother was home and she drove over to the school to get the mouse from Raasch. It was in an envelope. She placed it carefully on the seat beside her and drove to Northwest Community Hospital and marched into the emergency room, with the bitten boy beside her.

"Here's the mouse," she announced, tossing the envelope on a desk.

"What mouse?" someone asked her.

"The mouse you said we should get."

"Who said?"

"You said."

The nurse called out two doctors, "Here's a woman with a mouse." What Barbara didn't know was that the shifts had just changed and the new crew didn't know a thing about a mouse or a boy bitten by a mouse.

"What do we want with a mouse?" asked one of the doctors. Barbara explained that her son, "Keith was bitten by this mouse in the envelope; no, on the finger by the dead mouse in the envelope. Only he wasn't dead when he bitmy son."

"He was almost," said Keith.

Barbara reports that the two doctors didn't think they needed the mouse at all.

"One of them said something like, 'Anybody know where we can find a cat to give the mouse to?'" she said.

"They siad, 'Who told you to bring the mouse in?'"

"The person didn't tell me," she answered, "They told Tini Herrmann and she told me. The mouse was supposed to be examined for possible rabies."

A call was made to the pathology department.

"Get the mouse," came the order. But the mouse was gone. It had disappeared from the top of the desk. Everyone started to look for the mouse. It was a real emergency in the emergency room. Then they discovered where it had gone.

An orderly had thrown it into the garbage can outside the building.

"Get the mouse," commanded one of the doctors and the orderly went out. It wasn't the easiest thing in the world to find a mouse in the hospital garbage can, but he found it. The excitement was too much.

"What happens with the mouse?" she asked.

It would be placed in the freezer and sent downstairs on Monday morning for an examination she was told.

"Is this the funnies thing that ever happened here I asked her," reported Barbara. "She said that once a gallstone had come down from surgery and it was sent to a state lab. It came back marked "100 per cent foam rubber."

Skull Practice

By Joseph Stubenrauch

Any stranger to the suburban scene who has doubts about when the back-to-school movement gets under way does not have to consult the special clothing sales in August.

A more accurate way to keep posted is to note the surge of pre-season pigskin devotees to the local playing fields.

Our northwest suburban greens may not invite comparisons with the ones at Eton in England, honored in Wellington's comment that the battle of Waterloo was won on Eton's playing fields.

BUT THE energy and enthusiasm displayed by the lads in pre-season football workouts these recent weeks before Labor Day ought to count for much in future contests.

Watching one ardent group of young males charging strenuously at their targets, we were joined by another area resident who was awed at the way the helmeted players bashed their heads violently against the padded movable structure at the coach's command.

"Man, that's what I call real skull practice," breathed my companion.

He was right. The charge of the Light Brigade at Balaclava had nothing on the way these dedicated footballers aimed their protected noggins at the device.

LATER THEY will sit through the more sophisticated cranial torture of watching diagrams of tricky plays charted by their football teachers. This is what is more commonly known in the pigskin profession as "skull practice."

Figures reported by selective service boards about the poor physical health of many young men reporting for the draft call have alerted federal and local officials to back up the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports in its program to encourage youngsters to qualify for the Presidential Physical Fitness Award. Figures of those attending through May 31 of the 1968-69 year are more than double those of any previous year, with 135,649 girls and boys achieving the emblem and award certificate signed by the president.

There has been an encouraging sign of a trend to foster outdoor experiences.

While not all portions of the playground park programs were athletic, still the Rolling Meadows Park District 1969 summer playground set-up, just to name one area activity, concluded early in August with 875 children have participated.

The National Summer Youth Sports Program, administered by the NCAA under a $3 million contract with HEW, is one specific federally supported operation which all of us can endorse, with no reference to party or politics.

Skull practice is needed more than ever if the young student is to keep abreast of the rapid advances in the arts and sciences of our day and to master enough knowledge to handle the technological devices sprouting on every side.

We don't advocate a daily session of donning a padded headgear and projecting one's cranium to meet a hard surface.

But to toughen one's sinews and stamina, it's worth using both kinds of skill practice. But not to overdo either one.

New Pool for Wheeling High May Get Approval Tomorrow

By K. C. Radtke

The pool committee of the District 214 Board of Education Thursday night got its first look at blueprints and drawings of the proposed three-story pool building to be built adjacent to Wheeling High School.

The plans, already accepted by Wheeling village officials, await the approval of the school district tomorrow.

Ted Feineis, representing architects Orput, Orpur and Associates of Skokie, said his firm hopes to let bids this month and break ground in October. Tentative target completion date is September 1970.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS expressed some surprise at the progress of the plans presented by the Wheeling Park District. It was only in January of this year that the school board passed a resolution to cooperate in the pool's construction, and only three joint meetings have been held.

Wheeling Park District will pay for the building, estimated near $600,000, and the school district through lease arrangements will share only in the cost of the facilities used by Wheeling High School.

The 22,180-square-foot building has been designed to match the brick on the high school. It will be constructed at the southeast corner of school, connected by a 20-foot corridor between the field house and the pool, with both indoor and outdoor access between both buildings.

PROPOSED FACILITIES besides the pool include showers, public toilets, multi-purpose rooms, balcony with seating bleachers to accommodate up to 192 persons, lobby, pool office, first-aid room and guard room.

The pool will be 75 feet long and 40 feet wide and have a minimum 3-foot depth and a maximum 10-foot depth with two one-meter diving boards.

Alternate items to be considered in the over-all bidding price include a sauna room, double glaze sliding doors and various types of materials for the mechanical and filtering systems.

The sauna and multi-purpose rooms brought some objections from the school committee, but these objections were resolved when the part district re-affirmed its agreement that the school would pay only for the facilities it used.

TOM SHIRLEY, Wheeling High School principal, said he saw possibilities that the school would make use of the multi-purpose rooms when certain curricula became overloaded with students and absorbed more classrooms.

The sauna option was made part of the preliminary plans to satisfy inquiries made by businessmen, Ferdinand Arndt, superintendent of the Wheeling Park District stated.

"Our basic thinking is like that of the board," Arndt emphasized.

"We want a pool period," he said, assuring the board that other facilities were attractive alternates only if financially feasible.

Dist. 214 committee members present were: Dick Stamm, Frank Bergen, Dick Bachhuber and Board President Art Aronson. Ed Gilbert, school superintendent, and Howard Lester, district coordinator, were also present.

Representatives of the Wheeling Park District present were Bob Ross, Gene Sackett and Arndt.

DOCTOR SAYS

Fatigue and Tension Factors in Leg Cramps

W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Cramps in one or both feet or legs, often occurring after one goes to bed, are as annoying as they are common. The attacks may occur once or twice a week or several times every night. For immediate relief, most victims jump out of bed and keep on jumping, or vigorously massage their feet or legs. But what about preventing the attacks?

In a little-publicized study 10 years ago, Dr. W. B. Rawls and his co-workers used quinine, niacin, tolazoline, antihistamines, mephenesin, nylidrin and several other drugs on a series of 200 patients with cramps to see which worked best. None of these drugs when used alone gave consistently satisfactory results. Then, based on the known physiologic action of quinine and aminophylline, they decided to use these two drugs in combination and found that this treatment prevented the attacks completely in 94 per cent of the patients.

A few of the patients had to discontinue the treatment because they were sensitive to one or both drugs and developed hives, diarrhea, ringing of the ears or dizziness, but in most of those who got relief the drugs could be withdrawn after a few weeks. If the cramps did return later it could be shown that excessive fatigue or nervous tension was a precipitating factor. Another course of treatment, again gave relief. This drug, which requires a prescription is marketed under the name Quinamm.

Q—Would you say that a receptionist trained by a registered nurse for about 10 days in a doctor's office should be allowed to give shots and take blood pressures?

A—Ten days is enough time for a normally bright receptionist to learn to handle certain routine procedures but not long enough to learn to deal with unforeseen complications. She should never perform these or other similar services unless the doctor is in the office.

Q—My daughter has had a pilonidal cyst lanced twice. Is there any permanent cure for it?

A—Hair cysts at the base of the spine usually become infected and are slow to heal. The only cure is complete removal of the cyst. If any part of it is left behind a new cyst will form.

Lee Janson LISTENS TO YOU

HELPFUL ROOMMATE

Dear Lee Janson,

As soon as my roommate got "pinned," she became a different person. One night she told me what was wrong. She said that when she began wearing her boy friend's fraternity pin, he started saying, "Now it's really O.K. for us to go to bed together. After all, it's the same as being engaged."

My roommate is a very moral person. She's also very much in love. I know she wants to remain a virgin until she's married. Do you think I should tell her boy friend that he's got her all mixed up?

She's a great girl, and I want to help her be happy. Right now, though, she's a mess. I really think it would help if I talked to him, don't you?

Roomie, De Kalb

With a friend like you, who needs enemies? Keep out! This is one battle that two people, not three, need to fight out.

RELIGIOUS DROP-OUT

Dear Lee Janson,

I'm all confused about religion. Mom goes to one church, Dad to another (when he goes), my sister to still a third, and I don't go at all. My sister is engaged, so she goes with her fiance. I used to like church, but not any more. They don't seem to have anything worthwhile for high school kids. I guess I should be worried about God, and going to church, and things, but it doesn't seem very Important any more.

Drop-out, Rolling Meadows

Hey, don't give up now. The members of churches are in great turmoil these days, and some interesting things are happening. They especially need the bright ideas of young people. Hurry over, Sunday. Your church needs you.

kenneth holds classes

Bringing his new controversial treatment line of Skin Potions, Kenneth comes to Chicago next week. Kenneth will be in the Highland Room at Carson, Pirie Scott Thursday, Sept. 11 and Friday, Sept. 12, at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. each day. A reservation charge of $5 will be applied toward the purchase of any Kenneth product.

Each woman attending these sessions will analyze her own skin with the assistance of a prepared questionnaire. She will then receive a customized routine to follow for her skin type.

At these sessions Kenneth will talk about understanding the skin and its care, why it flakes or breaks out; how it is affected by the seasons; how to detect allergies: how diet and exercise affect the skin and why skin care is the most important part of beauty. Kenneth will also talk about hair and make-up trends for an "integrated look." A question and answer period will be included.

economy gourmet

You can have Pua'a-in-the-sky on Continental Airlines new Mainland/Hawaii economy flights starting Sept. 9.

A special cart-service buffet, called "Hawaiian Happytime," has been planned for economy-minded passengers and features Pua'a (pork) sausage as one of the key entrees.

"This is an area that's been neglected and overlooked by other carriers," said Phil Parrott, director of Continental's food service, "but we intend to give passengers using our economy fare special service for less than the cost of a regular box lunch. It will be a real treat as well as a fun-type service."

The Hawaiian Happytime buffet includes four different cheeses, dinner roll or bagel, fruit and a choice of three top California wines.

Continental will serve its coach and first-class passengers authentic Polynesian meals as an introduction to the kind of food served on the Islands. On the carrier's return flights, regular meals will be featured.

the art of collage

By Marily Shuman

Collage, which seems so thoroughly related to modern art, actually began 50 years ago as a fine art when painters Picasso and Broque shocked the art world by pasting pieces of paper into their paintings.

Today collage is universally accepted as a fine art, not only as a part of oil painting, but as an independent medium.

IT IS BY NO means modern. It has been a folk art for many centuries--and it is a little surprising to think that housewives 100 years ago were as busy pasting souveniers, valentines, leaves and shells into colleges as they are now. However, our modern acrylic paints and finishes have revolutionized the techniques. What was once clearly an amateur's "dust-catcher" can now he done in a professional manner--to produce a picture of lasting value.

Supports (on which to paste your collage): canvas, canvas board (may be purchased from your art supply store) or masonite. For gluing: Elmer's Glue Gesso--from the art supply store.

Scraps: medium quality magazine paper, such as Life Magazine, or assorted fabric scraps.

TO BEGIN: With a brush, coat your canvas or masonite with gesso according to directions on jar, and let dry ARRANGING YOUR DESIGN: Most persons prefer to work out a design or arrangement on paper beforehand, to serve as a guide. If this is done in pencil, you must then select a color combination. Any beginners' classes start with a collage in black, white and grey, which is the easiest way to work out a pleasing design (since you won't have to worry about colors that don't "work" together.) Try to balance your design--any art courses you have had will help you here. You may cut an ad out of a magazine and use it as your design--purely for arrangements of light and dark areas.

Decide for your first picture whether you want to cut or tear the paper. Usually it is best to use only one technique in a picture--don't combine cutting and tearing in one picture until you are sure of yourself.

TEAR OR CUT pieces of paper from magazines in shapes that follow the lines and feeling of your design. Arrange them on your canvas until all the area is covered, experimenting until you find just the color or texture that looks right to you.

Thin out the Elmer's Glue in a small pan so that it will spread easily. With a small brush, spread the glue on your canvas board in a small area at a time (remove the pieces carefully--you may even want to trace in pencil just where you want them to go on the board.) Press down firmly wherever you have glued before going on to the next area. Any changes have to he made immediately, before the glue dries. For serious mistakes, try steel wool and water--and start over.

After you have done one or two black-and-white, or monotone collages, try color. It's easier if you pick a very few related colors, or, if in doubt, take the colors used in a favorite painting or fabric. If you're an optimist, choose colors that will go well in your den, bedroom, playroom--or wherever your finished work will hang.

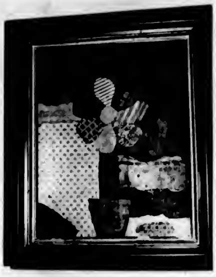
WHEN YOU ARE sure of your results, try incorporating some of your souvenirs from a trip, class, or scrapbook.

Fabric is a little harder to work with than paper, but the results are worth it. And don't be afraid of it--children's classes in collage at Countryside Art Center use fabric after several lessons with very satisfying results. The same rules apply, but it is even more important to remember to limit the colors to a few when working with various prints and stripes, in order to avoid a too-busy look

Let your collage dry, being very careful to glue down each individual scrap firmly. Then apply a coat of Elmer's Glue to the entire top surface. This will act as a varnish, hold it together, and keep the paper or fabric from deteriorating. Put on a thick coat--it may take days to dry.

FRAME YOUR COLLAGE as you would any painting.

If you are interested in further information on collage, and no classes are available, the following books recommended by Ralph Arnold will be of help: "How to Make Collages," by John Lynch, Viking Press, New York, 1961; "Collage Concepts and Techniques," by R. Blesh and H. Janis, Chilton Company, New York, 1962.



Taking a potted plant as her design, this beginner in a collage class selected scraps of material in a limited color scheme, and cut them to fit the design she planned. The rough textures were later covered with a coating of Elmer's Glue, which dries to form a clear, protective coating.

Even a beginner can produce pleasing results with a torn paper collage. Torn scraps of Japanese paper were used here in a beginner's craft class.

can parents help child gain self-confidence?

By Louise Bates Ames, Ph.D.

How do you give a child self confidence? It's a question that parents ask as much as any other, and it's a question that's hard to answer.

I, as well as most parents, welcome any clue as to what you can do. Here are suggestions by pediatrician William E. Homan, to be found in his comprehensive book for parents, "Child Sense: A Pediatrician's Guide for Today's Families" (Basic Books).

As Dr. Homan points out, every human being, child or adult, carries with him an appraisal or an image of himself. This self image consists of his idea of the way he looks and of the way he moves, of his attractiveness and of his desirability, and his own evaluation of how worthwhile or how valueless he is, of what others think of him and why, of his measure of success or failure, or his degree of goodness or badness, of his abilities and achievements, and of his total worth as a human being. It is the person he thinks himself to be.

If he regards himeself as a satisfactory persons, we say he was self confidence, or self esteem, or a good self image. If he evaulates himself as worthless, we say he has a poor self-image.

THIS SELF IMAGE is so important, says Dr. Homan, thatyou could almost use a persons' self confidence as a measure of the success or failure of his whole life. And he reports that in a recent seven year study by the National Institute of Mental Health, it was considered valid to use the child's self esteem as the sole index of his total psychological well being.

In his first years of life a child's self image is determined almost entirely by what he understands his parents' evaluation of him to be. His interpretation may not always be correct, but at any rate this is where you begin. You don't wait until your child is in grammar school or high school to try to give him self confidence. You make every effort to give him a good opinion of himself by making him think you have a good opinion of him, right from the very start.

Later on, of course, the opinions of teachers and classmates, plus his interpretation of those opinions, are included in the child's self image. If you feel that your child does lack self confidence, review the factors that have gone into the development of his personality; try to spot those that have gone astray, and then try to put them right.

SINCE, AS Dr. Homan points out, success begets success, you can, using your own good common sense, to some extent arrange situations in which your child can succeed. These can be social, academic, athletic, in music or arts most every child has ability in some lines.

But you can't put in self confidence overnight. The best time to begin is at the very beginning.

relax with yoga

To be a poised, balanced, functioning individual is a desire we all share. Most of the time we are so immersed in our hectic daily activities that we cannot unwind even with a good night's rest.

However, this need not be our lot, according to Marilyn Englund, instructor at the Northwest Suburban YMCA, Des Plaines. She is an extraordinary teacher of Hatha Yoga, whose progressive, quiet instructions make it possible for you to relax by postures and complete breathing. Through these postures (even the simplest), you will gradually achieve flexibility in your body, while slow inhalation and exhalation will relax you.

THE BENEFITS derived from the elementary exercises are just as important as those achieved later. Replacing anxiety with peace of mind will make a faithful exerciser a joyous individual.

SYSTEMS OF YOGA date back to ancient times. Sometimes people confuse them with parlor tricks. This is erroneous. The positions prescribed in Yoga are mastered through a very gradual learning process. Members in the class range from young girls to grandmothers.

One of the first postures taught is the Lotus, which enables you to take breathing and meditation exercises with excellent results. All of Yoga stresses control of body and mind (concentration and meditation), although weight loss may also be experienced.

Fall classes in yoga are available at Des Plaines and Palatine YMCAs.

Stocking fashions are going "nude" in the sheerest of textures with the blushing shade of peach as the predominant tone.

rinse in shower

Taking a trip? Rinse dripdry garments under the shower. Hang shirt, blouse or other washable items on a nonrust hanger. Turn on the shower and rinse. There is less chance of adding new wrinkles, since you do not wring them as you would if you washed them in a basin.

feminine influence on Louis XV

If the Louis the 15th period of French furniture and art were properly named it would be called "Madame de Pompadour." It was this tremendously talented woman who brought the exquisitely graceful and feminine to all the arts of the middle eighteenth century.

When the 'grand monarch' Louis XIV died in 1715, the young heir Louis XV was only five. He had little influence until 1723 when he came of age and was installed at Versailles.

It did not take the Court long to observe that the young king was not very interested in affairs of state but that he intended to follow a gay path. He neglected his wife and country for hunting, fun and women. It was not until 1742 that the king met the woman who was to stay at his side for 20 years.

Madame de Pompadour did not initiate the new style in furnishings and art but she contributed largely to its development and its acceptance. She is truly the key to understanding French taste at this period. She was a passionate collector and when she died in 1764 the public auctioneers had to work daily for eighteen months to dispose of all she had amassed.

A COMPLETE new mood was created, a mood that was light, airy and pleasant. The heavy gold and silver damask brocades were literally torn down and thrown out. The large, stately, awe-inspiring rooms were replaced by small, cozy intimate chambers decorated in gay patterns. Everything had to look fresh and bright. This madness for the new destroyed some lovely masterpieces. Many of the beautiful stained glass windows in the Gothic churches were destroyed and replaced by clear glass.

With Madame de Pompadour at the helm, fashion became dictator to the age. The enormous ponnier-shaped gowns worn by the women made it impossible to sit unless chair arms were placed further back to allow the many folds of silks to fall gracefully and not be crushed. The chairs and love seats were always upholstered in petit-point tapestry.

The period became a time of mad spending. Huge mansions were built and furnished. Fortunes were spent on pavillions. Much of the unhappiness and misery leading to the French Revolution began at this time.

Louis XV couldn't care less about politics, economics and social reform. But Louis did care about the arts. He created and encouraged exhibitions. At these exhibitions, or salons as they were called, the products of artists and artisans were shown. Up to this time collections open to the public or museums did not exist.

ROCAILLE IS the word to remember as the leading motif of the Louis XV style. It is found everywhere on jug handles, furniture, porcelain, swords, draperies and embroideries. The best description of this design is that if one took the crest of a wave and solidified it you would have Rocaille.

Later, as the Louis XVI period developed, exaggerated, ornate rocaille became rococo. Frequently these two motifs are called rococo. This is truly wrong. Rococo is not light and airy and as alive as rocaille. The period known as Louis XVI is the one that used and developed rococo.

Louis XV had a very human side. His vanity, sensuality and sloth made all things important if they catered to the individual. Things were planned for comfort. Chairs truly came into their own. Before this only the king and nobility of highest rank sat in chairs.

WHEN LOUIS XV died the world was changing. There was a love of the things of the mind and money. Change was encouraged. The middle class was beginning to assert itself. A wider market was created for all products. With this demand began the industrial revolution.

In my next article I will try to go into greater detail about some of the individual pieces of this exciting period.

Your Weekly Horoscope

By Olga

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Energy returns at last, Virgo. And it's about time. Intellectually, you will have great vitality. Use it to your own advantage, and forget about others. You owe yourself this. Zero in on your private goals.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Secret areas of your life are brought into focus in week ahead. Libra. If situation is one of mystery, Olga reminds you of Alexandre Dumas saying: "Cherchez la femme." Then after you find her, the whole series of events which will follow will be strictly up to you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): If you are single Scorp, a love affair is on the way. If married,a domestic adjustment is in the works. Either way, Olga recommends you play it by ear. Your hunches will be unusually strong, so go ahead and "wing it," Baby.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): So far this year, Sag, you've had quite a good deal of activity. During week ahead, you may experience a feeling of depression coming on. Fight it. Get out of the routine and seek diversion. Use whatever method available.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Energy will be at low ebb during middle four days of week, Cap, so don't try to overdo. You'll only make existing situation worse. You may feel cool toward those around you, especially your family. However, there is a chance that one whose ruling planet is the warm, loving Venus (perhaps a Tarus) will melt you and then leave you stewing in an emotional puddle.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): There is a burden which has been annoying you. You can no longer ignore it. Time for action. If in the process you lose something, there will soon be a replacement. Remember, "Nature abhores a vacuum."

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): There is a time and place for everything. Pisces, and you know this. There is a time to laugh and a time to cry. In week ahead, you would do well to seriously consider a fade-out as far as an existing situation is concerned. Unless of course, you enjoy crying. And Olga has a hunch that you just might.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Take nothing for granted in week ahead, Aries. Explore all lest you be in for a rude awakening. Should situation arise where "guilt" is discussed, reflect. Only then admit your share, if you feel you must, but do not make a sacrificial lamb of yourself. To do so would be sheer folly. Besides, you're really not the type you know.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Week ahead is one for finishing, completing, winding up the old and preparing soil for the new. Conflict could arise, so be prepared. You can count on one thing for sure, Taurus, you are about to enter into a most fertile period. Give your all, and you will live to enjoy the fruits of your labor.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Energy should be high on first three days of week, Gem. Cash in. Send out feelers for new ideas or plans which you have been mulling over. Intellectually, you will be light years ahead of your associates. Don't let this bog you down. They will try to grasp if you persist. Good luck!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Oh, Moonbaby, the first five days of week will be most productive. Your energy should be high, so do your thing, whatever it may be. Your emotional reactions will be deep. Your intuition keen. On last day of week, watch out for one who is a tease.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): First three days of week may be a bit maddening. Ideas will be stillborn. But don't fret, for things brighten on fourth day and continue to be rather jolly for rest of week. As far as your social life is concerned, Olga suggests you get off of your fanny and circulate. The time is excellent for romance, should you be so inclined.

menu magic with pasta

You can make menu magic with the many shapes pasta comes in today, each evolved to hold a different canned or bottled sauce.

Cook shells, bow-ties or cappalletti (little caps) until firm to the touch, according to package directions. Drain, add canned chicken broth to cover. Bring to boil, simmer three minutes and season to taste. Serve in soup bowls, topped with Parmesan cheese and chopped parsley and accompanied by crostini.

Crostini are made by trimming crusts from white bread, buttering on both sides and placing on cookie sheet. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese and bake in 375 degree oven until golden brown. Cut each slice into three strips and serve hot.

For the main course add homemade meat balls to Marinara sauce from the jar and serve with wide noodles. Or layer prepared pizza sauce with sliced mozarella and crumbled ricotta on broad lasagne noodles, prepared according to package directions. Top with grated Parmesan cheese and bake in hot oven (425 degrees) for 15 minutes. Serve hot with soup and salad on the side.

Or choose spaghetti with a jar of white clam sauce. Saute about ¼ pound chopped spinach leaves lightly in Italian olive oil with a pinch of oregano and a generous handful of chopped parsley. Transfer to saucepan and simmer with clam sauce and half-stick of butter, uncovered, until reduced in quantity by one-quarter. Pour over spaghetti, cooked according to package instructions and tossed with butter, pepper and ¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese.

give me the loafer life!

We hail the return of the soft loafer. But the '70 loafer is nothing like the handsewn, usually brown, loafer of yesteryear. The today loafer is s-o-f-t, usually in shiny crinkle patent or soft calf, and the bold handsewn stitches have given way to mini handsewn stitches or machine stitches that make even the calf look soft and crushy.

Gone, too, is the penny plug, which has been replaced by an interesting metal ornament, such as two huge gold links or four big gold links. And newer yet are those that are available on mini three-quarter-inch heels for a great streamlined look.

This fall whether you're around town, campus, or schoolyard, join the loafer life--it's great!

To Open Fashion Trunk

Marge Teal, prize chairman; Carol Norris, fashion show chairman and Shirley Hutchinson, clean-up committee chairman (from left), are among the ladies of the Women's Guild of Immanuel Lutheran Church hard at work on a fund-raising fashion show. "A Trunk Full of Fashions" will be presented at Immanuel Lutheran School, 832 Lee St., on Wednesday, Sept. 24, by Sears. A comedy fashion skit by guild members will follow the 7:45 p.m. Sears show. Tickets are available from Ruth Rateike at 824-1400, or Evelyn Moll at 824-7297. Donation is $1.50 each. All proceeds will benefit various charities and Lutheran organizations.

Skokie Civic Theatre To Hold Open Meeting

Entering its 20th year in show business, the Skokie Civic Theatre will hold an open general meeting Friday, Sept. 19, at the Skokie Fine Arts building, 10054 N. Skokie Blvd.

Members, non-members and patrons are invited to this 8:30 p.m. meeting, which will include a brief business session and drama performances by members.

Arnold Nelson, Des Plaines, is directing the season opener for the group, "Long Day's Journey into Night." Nelson is in his ninth year with the theatre.

OTHER WORKS scheduled for performance this season are "Right You Are If You Think You Are" and "Black Comedy and White Lies."

The name "Skokie" is a misnomer: members and patrons are from the entire suburban and Chicago area.

"Putting a play together takes perserverence and people," said Sylvia Friedman, president of S.C.T. "We have no prima donnas in the group. Every member, whether on stage or behind the scenes, pitches in, and to them goes the credit for our past record of excellences."

Some of the group's previous presentations included "The Women," "Rose Tattoo," "A Delicate Balance," "Take Me Along" and "Sabrina Fair."

Mrs. Friedman says that benefit performances as fund raisers for charitable groups are available. Discount prices can also be worked out for organizations that wish to purchase blocks of tickets.

Membership Chairman Esther Kosoy will give further information to those contacting her at OR 6-3112. Program Chairman Morris Fishman of Chicago is in charge of the opening meeting.

Sorority Happenings

Beginning at 8 p.m., 15 area TOPS clubs will participate in ceremonies honoring the area queens of TOPS and KOPS (Keep Off Pounds Sensibly). Queens will be crowned and given trophies. Trophies will be presented to teenage prince and princess of the clubs. The club that lost the most weight in a year will receive a plaque.

'Gourmet Cooking'

"Gourmet Cooking" will be the topic of a program to be presented Sept. 10 at the meeting of Xi Zeta Epsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. The first of the fall club year, the meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Russell Lindholm, 472 Burno Dr., Palatine.

Mrs. Ray Copeland will discuss gourmet cooking at the Wednesday meeting.

Now It's Rat Week

A cold look at the rat and its capabilities is all that anyone needs to become eager to cooperate with health officials during national Rodent Control Week set for Sept. 14 to 20.

The rat's main food sources are garbage cans, alleys and refuse dumps. Its skin is covered with heavy grease and miniscule hairs which shed readily. The rat deposits thousands of vermin wherever he prowls.

Annually, the rat bites more than 14,000 persons, most of whom are sleeping infants and small children. In stress situations, it has been known to attack adults.

SINCE RATS will move on quickly where food is not available, health authorities point out that the most effective defense against rats is a covered metal garbage can.

Health departments request that all home owners and landlords appraise garbage locations immediately and begin eliminating non-rodent proof cans.

At IMAA Convention

To Present Ikehana Exhibit

An exhibit of Ikebana, the cultural floral art of Japan, will be presented by Ikka Nakashima, president of the Chicago Society of the Ikenobo School, on Sunday, Sept. 28, from 1 to 6 p.m. at the North Park Hotel, 1931 Lincoln Park West, Chicago.

This flower arranging art has a 600-year history and has recently become popular in the United States. Under the direction of Mrs. Russell W. Christensen of Skokie, who teaches the Ikenobo styles of flower arranging, Mrs. Emil Fick, Mount Prospect, and Mrs. Robert Thiry, 9019 Embassy Ln., Des Plaines, will be among those presenting exhibits.

These ladies will also exhibit at the Judges Forum in the Ikenobo division Sept. 17 at the Glenview Methodist Church.

Williams Praises Underclassmen in Loss

Knight Varsity Rolls Jayvees, 60-8, in Scrimmage

By Linda Hamilton
Sports Editor

The Prospect varsity football team wallopped the underdog jayvees for the second time in a week Saturday night in the school's first pre-season night scrimmage, 60-8.

Don Williams, head coach of the Knights, still had hoped for a bit more from the varsity. "We weren't sharp like I expected," he said. He added he was "not favorably impressed by our performance."

"WE WERE actually more impressed by the jayvees giving us such a hard time."

Williams said that although the jayvee toughness did not show so much in the score, they proved their worth. In the first quarter the jayvees held the varsity to a standoff, not allowing them to come near the goal line.

The varsity finally got a score when Don Koehler, a bruising junior, took a handoff from Stu White and went through the right side for a long touchdown scamper. Koehler combined with white, a junior, for the second score also.

ED ANDERSON, playing at defensive halfback, intercepted a Bob Frantell pass and raced for another touchdown to give the varsity a 22-0 lead after making two of their extra point attempts good. The half ended with the score remaining a varsity shut out.

Brian Adair scored the jayvees' only touchdown on a running play.

The varsity finally came to life in the second half with Mickey Gebert making a 70-plus yard run for score and then snatching a White pass from the air for another.

KOEHLER SCORED again in the second half and then Pat Packard, a transfer from St. Viator, tallied on a long run.

Jim Dooley caught a pass from Bob Kline and shook three defenders to up the score once more. Dooley also made a good grab on a quickie and took off for some yardage.

But still Williams had been looking for more. The varsity had scored "11 or 12 times" in a scrimmage on Wednesday, every time they got the ball, and Williams had been hoping for that kind of performance again Saturday night.

"All of us were impressed by a couple of the jayvees," he said, adding that they might not be brought up to the varsity but that they looked good in that particular scrimmage.

THE KNIGHT backfield lived up to expectations, and Williams will be able to add more speed and depth to the running back situation when junior Scott Szala returns to action. Szala has an injured tendon in his elbow that is "not responding to treatment," according to Williams.

Szala says he can return to contact in a week or two, but that will have to be decided by his doctor.

"I'd like to have him back," said Williams.

WILLIAMS SAID all of his coaches were present at the game and were watching different aspects of the play. They compared notes and were to go over game films this morning.

Prospect's first game is scheduled for this Saturday evening at Glenbrook South. It had originally been scheduled for Friday night, but the date was changed because of a religious holiday. The Titans are expected to be one of the toughest teams in the Central Suburban League. Glenbrook routed the Knights last year on Prospect's home field, 19-0.

'Cats Need Pass Work; Out-Scrimmage JV's, 22-6

By Jim Stuart

The Wheeling Wildcats made their first appearance of the 1969 football season Saturday night as they whipped the Wheeling junior varsity, 22-6.

The Wildcat varsity racked up 356 total yards, but head coach Jack Liljeberg was far from impressed with the offense. "When we executed we were okay," he said, "but we failed to get tough when we got close to their goal line."

LILJEBERG ALSO pointed out a glaring deficiency in the passing attack, as showed by a total of three completions in 14 attempts. Several of the completions were called back by penalties, and as a result the 'Cats could only come up with 11 yards through the air.

Neither Scott Day nor Mike Groot was impressive throwing the ball, but weak cuts on the part of the ends were also cited as part of the problem. In addition, of course, the jayvee defensive unit knew the patterns and was hard to fool.

Tailback Dan Hull picked up the brunt of the yardage on the ground. He carried 16 times for 155 yards, including a 24-yard touchdown run. Reserve Steve Klopf added 45 yards in eight carries.

HALFBACK GARY Schweitzer looked good, although he failed to follow his blockers on several occasions. He made a long punt return to the Jayvee five yard line and had several nice runs from scrimmage.

Liljeberg was almost as pleased with the defense as he was disappointed with the offense. He singled out tackle Dean Sheridan, end Brian Janis and tackle-linebacker Bill Craighead as turning in outstanding performances, but he praised the unit as a whole.

The only jayvee touchdown came on a fluke pass that hit two receivers, and Liljeberg was not concerned about that.

"I'M USING my best 11 boys on defense," he said, "and I'll try to use as many others on offense as possible." The only two who will definitely go both ways are Hull and Craighead.

Liljeberg openly admits that the defense is ahead of the offense, and the stress this week in preparation for rugged Maine South will be on polishing the offense.

He is not about to abandon the passing game yet, and his Wildcats will be putting many footballs in the air this week in practice. Wheeling will need all the offensive tricks it can come up with to defeat the defending Central Suburban League champions on Friday.

Midget Football

Ten shut outs highlighted yesterday's play in the Mount Prospect Midget Association football league.

In the Bantam Division the Wolverines beat the Buckeyes, 6-0, the Wildcats downed the Hawkeyes, 25-0, the Illini defeated the Boilermakers, 27-0, the Badgers outscored the Gophers, 20-6, and the Spartans beat the Hoosiers, 25-6.

Members of the Boys Football Committee are C. H. Steiner, chairman; Ken Wilson, rules; Bill Kenning, officials; Bob Anderson, equipment; Larry Thorpe, publicity; Bill Schell, secretary, and Bruno Waara and Mert Taylor, all-star game co-chairmen.

Taylor is the league administrator.

Golf

Heights Cleaners picked up six points in its final match to edge Arlington Structural Steel for the title in the Arlington Heights Twilight Golf League championship.

Heights compiled a total of 109 ½ points during the season, just ½ point more than Arlington Structural Steel. Behrens Insurance was third with 105½, followed by Binzel Industries with 103½ and Crest Heating and Air Conditioning with 100½.

Charlie Kleinofen took low gross honors, while Chuck Staadt had a low net score of 31 to help his team hold its lead in the standings.

Wisman to Play For Lakeland

Larry Wisman, 18, Prospect High School linebacker and guard last season, will play football for Lakeland College near Sheboygan, Wis. this year.

The 5-8, 155-pound freshman prospect, who lives at 102 N. Forrest, Arlington Heights, made 125 tackles in four years as a Knight. He was named defensive captain his junior year on the junior varsity team.

Hersey Practice Game Grounded

The Hersey High School football team lost a battle to the elements Saturday night as the Huskie gridiron was declared too wet for their proposed inter-squad game.

"If we could have waited about a half hour longer I'm sure the field would have been ready," said Hersey head coach Len Bort. But as it was, the grass was too damp to risk a hard scrimmage with the opening game only a week away.

IT WOULD have been the first test under the brand new lights at Hersey. Instead, the team went through a short scrimmage on a practice field before dark.

No score was kept, but the varsity did manage to score two touchdowns in four plays against a junior varsity unit. The overall performance of the squad was good, according to Burt, and there were no injuries.

One of the real bright spots of the evening was the play of last year's star halfback, Skip Peterson. Burt says he is now "picking up maneuverability" to go with his great speed and should be a great asset to the strong Huskie backfield.

BURT ALSO cited an improvement in the quickness of the defensive unit, although the defense did turn in several erratic plays. This week the overall "team fire" of that group will be stressed in preparation for Friday's game with St. Viator.

On the minus side, it was learned that sophomore Andy Pancratz has a pulled tendon in his hand and will be lost for at least three weeks. At first he seemed to have a simple thumb fracture, but now his whole hand is in a cast.

The Hersey coaches are very high on the 6-8 soph, and it is hoped that he will be available for most of the conference games.

BRUCE FRASE, Hersey's "walking wounded," is still hampered by a sore foot although he did attempt a field goal in Saturday's scrimmage. He will probably miss the St. Viator contest, but he should be ready for the conference opener with Prospect.

FV Varsity Squads Battle To 0-0 Deadlock Saturday

By Mike Imrem

A stocky little sophomore who got a chance to play only because of a halfback shortage stole the show at Forest View's football intra-squad game Saturday and may have won himself a berth on the varsity squad.

Mike Pryor, a 5-6, 155-pounder, was the leading offensive weapon in a game that saw the Blacks and Whites struggle to a 0-0 tie. Mike, playing only because regular Bob Kaspar was out with a leg injury, carried the ball 17 times for 117 yards and a 6.8 average.

"WE'LL PROBABLY carry Pryor on the varsity in our first game," Falcon head coach Paul Jordan said after the game. "We've been high on him all along, but we thought he'd play jayvee ball this season. With Kaspar out and Rich Possinger unable to go full speed because of his bad back, we'll be able to keep him on the varsity for awhile."

Another back who distinguished himself was fullback John Ingo. The 5-11, 190-pound bulldozer, running for the Whites behind what was basically Forest View's second-string line, gained 87 yards in 15 tries for a 5.8 average and picked up points in his duel with Mark Ennes for the No. 1 fullback job.

"Things might change between now and Friday, of course, but right now I'd have to say Ingo's my starting fullback after his performance Saturday," Jordan said. "John's been looking real good ever since he got over that bad pulled groin injury he had. He's sound now and running well."

FOREST VIEW'S two offenses weren't really as bad as the 0-0 score might indicate, especially when it came to moving the ball on the ground. Every time either side got a march started, however, penalties set them back. The Blacks were penalized 100 yards and the Whites 65.

"Most of the penalties were for lining up wrong and for backfield in motion," Jordan said. "I told the referees before the game that I'd like them to call the game pretty close because I'd rather find out now what we're doing wrong instead of finding out in a real game."

"The penalties really hurt our offense because they prevented us from getting a sustained drive going. We've had a lot of backs injured during practice and this might have thrown our timing off, but we're just going to have to work at it and correct our mistakes."

JORDAN DIDN'T think his troops were quite quick enough or their blocking quite sharp enough to please him, but he offered a couple of reasons why this might have been so.

"It was pretty muggy out there Saturday," Jordan said. "A lot of the players played the whole game and they were probably worn down in the second half. One reason we weren't as quick as we should have been was the long grass on the field. But it will be cut before our first game so it shouldn't be a problem.

"We're happy that nobody was injured seriously in the game. I think that's an indication that we're in pretty good physical shape, and that's good to know after all the injuries that hurt us last season."

THE FALCONS open their season on the road Friday against Deerfield of the Central Suburban League. It will be an afternoon contest, beginning at 3:30.

'Just Like A Woman;' Girl Jockey Late for Race

It was all a big joke Saturday night when Barbara Ader, first woman jockey to be licensed in Illinois, was late for the second race. Barbara rode Friday night in the fourth race, coming in eighth in a 12-horse field. Saturday night she was to ride Cloncurry, a 15-1 shot. While the other horses were mounted by their jockeys and led onto the track, owner-trainer A. Kara, (plaid shirt) friend Frank Russo (foreground) and groom Wayne Harris laughingly awaited their woman jockey. (Photos by George Hamilton)

When she finally came out of the first aid room, her temporary dressing quarters, Barbara mounted amidst jeers and catcalls from the fans in the paddock area. Then the truth came out; being that she was in a different room than the other jockeys, someone forgot to tell her the race was about to be run.

A disappointing eighth in the second race Saturday night, Barbara Ader and her valet head back to the grandstand.

Female Mosquitoes Put the Bite On

There are few experiences more uncomfortable than to awaken in the night to the well-drilling bite of the ordinary house mosquito.

Sla-a-ap!!! Scra-a-atch!!!

You think you got it but you're not quite sure. Then, you hear that aggravating winged buzz again.

NEARLY EVERYONE is likely to be bitten by the mosquito. Few people are immune to the severe itching, swelling, restlessness and other inconveniences caused by this harbinger of discomfort.

Surprisingly, when you are bitten, you can be certain that it's a female mosquito since only the female is provided with the piercing mouthparts.

Stephen A. Ritt, president of Vogel-Ritt, Chicago, said the common house mosquito, whether the northern variety or the slightly different southern type, breeds in tin cans, rain barrels, garbage and trash containers, ditches, slow-moving streams, hollow tree stumps - in fact, just about anywhere you can find standing water.

THE MOSQUITO, which can live from a few weeks to several months, has a four-stage life cycle -- the egg, larva, pupa, and adult. Mosquito eggs are matured in batches of 50 to 250 after being laid on or near the water.

Several batches of eggs can be laid by one female during her life cycle. It's also important to note that a blood meal is almost always necessary to the egg production of the bloodsucking species. In warm weather, only two or three days are required for the eggs to hatch.

Throughout history the mosquito has been a disease carrier. For instance, malaria. This disease is caused by a microscopic parasite which is introduced into the human blood stream by the bite of an anopheles mosquito carrying the malaria-producing organism. The parasites destroy the red blood corpuscles causing fever-wracked illness and sometimes death.

OTHER DISEASES transmitted by the mosquito include the dreaded encephalitis, or "sleeping sickness," yellow fever, and dengue fever.

Some species of mosquito carry elephantiasis in the form of a worm invisible to the naked eye. This is a disease in which the skin becomes thick, hard, and fissured while the affected part grows enormously because of inflammation and obstruction.

Mosquito control can best be handled by public mosquito control agencies because the source of mosquito problems is usually not isolated to one home or location but is an area or regional problem. However, the homeowner can help himself by practicing a little preventive maintenance.

ACCORDING TO Vogel-Ritt, protective screening using No. 16 to 18 wire mesh will keep mosquitoes out of the house. The homeowner should also clean out roof and street gutters, sewer inlets, tires, even birdbaths and ornamental garden pools.

If there is shrubbery and vines around the property they should be pruned to allow sunlight to enter. Dark areas, such as the underside of shrubs, are natural resting grounds for mosquitoes.

Help Neighbor

Barbara Wagner, 404 E. Bryn Mawr, Roselle, believes "there is a purpose for suffering and it sometimes can "being a community together."

When Barbara's husband, Wayne, died in January, she was left not only with five children to support and raise, but also with many unpaid hospital and doctors' bills. Her husband was uninsurable having been a diabetic since he was two years old.

The people of Roselle are sponsoring a garage sale tomorrow and Wednesday at 108 E. Bryn Mawr from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. All items have been donated by neighbors and friends. Proceeds will go to the Wayne Wagner Hospital Fund.

Mrs. Wagner said, "Sometimes there is a purpose for suffering. What happened to us has become an instrument to bring a community together. We are all supposed to be like one family and I have experienced true family unity. I cannot tell you all the wonderful things people have done for us since Wayne's illness.

Scout Council Seeks Organization Support

One hundred scouting volunteers are inviting key community organizations to attend the "Together We Organize" program of the Northwest Suburban Council of the Boy Scouts of America, 2500 Dempster St., Des Plaines.

The program will be held on Sept. 24 at the Bruning Corp., 1800 W. Central, Mount Prospect and is one phase of the council's growth program which aims at having 17,000 boys registered in scouting in the northwest suburbs by the end of this year.

Community organizations from all sections of the council will participate in the program according to the council. Each organizer will act as host to potential sponsors and will follow through with organization plans for new units.

The Northwest Suburban Council hopes that 75 new Cub Scout Packs, Boy Scout Troops and Explorer Posts will be organized as a result of the program.

New 'Starter Pack'

A low cost diazo color film "starter pack" has been introduced by the Charles Bruning Co. to help businesses and schools which are considering originating visual aid materials.

The pack was specifically designed to make it economical to experiment with visual aid materials production. It provides the full range of 15 deep, rich Bruning diazo colors, four new tints, reversing film and protection sheets. The cost of the package is far less than if the materials were purchased in standard 25-sheet packs.

Eight sheets of each color and other materials are contained in the starter pack. They are identified by color tabs on separators. The entire quantity is wrapped in light-proof plastic inside a decorated corrugated carton. The flap of the plastic pouch opens automatically with the carton cover for ease of access.

The colors in the starter pack are blue, red, green, orange, violet, brown, yellow, magenta, cyan and two tones of black. Tinted sheets which develop black images are included in blue, green, pink and yellow. In addition, the pack contains sheets of reversing film which enable positive images to be reversed to negative, or vice versa.

If purchased separately in standard packages, these materials would cost about $100. The Bruning diazo color film starter pack lists for $38. The pack is available through Bruning branch offices in all major cities.

For further information on the Bruning Diazo Color Film Starter Pack, catalog No. 30-8008, write to Market Development Dept., Charles Bruning Co., division of Addressograph Multigraph Corp., 1800 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect, 60056.

Last Days Of Summer

By Darlene Mitchell

The last of lazy golden summer weather was being serenly enjoyed recently by a few visitors to the Des Plaines Division of the forest preserve district.

Day camps now over, the woods are minus the laughter and chatter of children engaging in sports and handicraft.

Many vacationers have returned to city routine, leaving empty picnic tables, with all traces of spilled soda pop, mustard and mayonnaise gone.

Wood fragrance was heavy in the air. The yellow of one-eye Susan daisies was sprinkled throughout the greenery.

The crackle of a few dried rolled-up leaves in the dusty path was a portent of fall and made each summer moment in the woodland very special.

Noah Jones fishes in the Des Plaines Division of the Forest Preserve about once a week, but gives most of the fish away. He lives in Chicago and comes out to "get away from the city."

Bits of trash necessitate continual pickup by Ed Kasper, 25 Maple, Mount Prospect in Des Plaines Forest Preserve. He recently found a wallet containing $25 which had been left behind in a picnic area; A teacher was delighted at its return.

A man from Arlington Heights took advantage of the sunny, quiet day recently to sunbathe and catch up on paperwork in Des Plaines Division of the forest preserve.

This crow makes friends quickly with the fewer number of persons using the Des Plaines Forest Preserve Des Plaines Division since summer is nearly over, and he finds slimmer pickings of goodies.

A lone soda pop bottle on a forest preserve picnic table represents the last of summer picnics.

Grandmother Alice Standfest of Arlington Heights takes grandchildren Susan and Craig Knight for a late summer outing in Des Plaines Division forest preserve. The children were allowed to have plastic flexible bottles in lieu of a squirt gun.

BUILD A SAND PIPE LINE!

By Cappy Dick

A gravity flow pipe line for sand is fun to build and use, if you have a sand pile near by. The pipe line is constructed of paper towel cores. Figure 3 shows it in use.

You may use as many towel cores as you wish, but it is important that they rest on an incline sharp enough to cause the sand to flow downward freely as a result of gravity pull. If the incline is not steep enough, the flow will be impeded, if not prevented.

The tubes are to be fastened together with tape as in Figure 2. The ends must fit snugly and care must be taken to see that no edge will act as an interior obstruction to the flow of the sand.

The first tube in the pipe line must have a hole cut into it as in Figure 1. A conical paper cup will serve as the funnel to be fitted into this hole. The dotted line in Figure 1 shows how to cut off the pointed end of the cup. If you have no such cup, a funnel can be made by rolling a cone of stout paper, glueing it to keep it in shape and cutting off the pointed end.

Figure 3 shows how the sand is poured into the funnel. A toy truck could be placed at the lower end of the tube to be filled with the sand flowing from the pipe line.

Yale Roe Lashes Out At Crane in Congress Race

Yale Roe of Winnetka, Republican candidate for congress in the 13th district's special Oct. 7 primary, spoke in Palatine Monday evening and singled out his fellow candidate, Philip Crane, for special attention.

Roe was honored at coffee given by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mathison of Palatine.

ROE GAVE his report on the first major confrontation between candidates during the campaign, Sunday at the Community Church in Glenview.

Four of the eight candidates took part. In addition to Roe, candidates Samuel H. Young of Glenview, Rep. Alan Johnston of Kenilworth and Crane of Winnetka were there.

THE GLENVIEW event was billed as a "debate" and different from the candidates nights in that the entire encounter was among candidates who questioned one another.

Mindful that he was speaking in Palatine Township in the northwest suburbs where Philip Crane has been endorsed by the GOP organization, Roe founded his report on the cross-fire with Crane.

"I challenged the statement in Crane's campaign literature which states that Crane has never been identified with a radical or group--left or right," Roe told his Palatine audience.

"To support the challenge, I produced a fund raising letter on behalf of Crane by Mrs. Phyllis Schlafly, whom John Birch Society leader, Robert Welch, endorsed as a 'very loyal' member of the John Birch Society in March of 1960," Roe reported.

Roe said .that Crane responded in a oon-controversial way, stating only that Mrs. Schlafly was a good citizen.

"I further questioned the truth of another statement in Crane's campaign literature. I refer to the statement that 'several of Don Rumsfeld's top people are supporting me.' I asked Crane to substantiate this claim, but Crane did not respond," Roe reported.

Youth Council Adopts Manual On Problems

The Arlington Heights Youth Council last night adopted a new operating manual for dealing more expediently with youthful "problems."

The manual calls for specialization in the areas of:junior high; senior high; post high; recreation ("to co-ordinate and promote the recreational needs of all youth"); employment; delinquency; and public relations.

"GET INVOLVED," council president William Burroughs told Ken Holmes, president of the Prospect High Student council. "The only way to get anything out of an organization is to put something into it."

In other action, Bob Clark, representing the Arlington Heights Jaycees proposed the establishment of a junior hockey organization.

"IT WOULD be a healthy way for boys to release enthusiasm during idle winter months," he said. "It would be an additional source for boys to see and learn discipline."

TOTAL COSTS for this winter's program were estimated at $9,000. Clark said he hopes to have some 220 youths between the ages of 8 and 14 sign up this year, and heve the enrollmet eventually climb to 500 in a few years.

Clark said the bulk of the money can be acquired by charging each youth a $30 registration fee. This would almost cover the cost of ice rental.

Zoning Board of Appeals OKs Car Wash Facility

A request for a variation in zoning to allow building of a car wash with gas pumping services was granted by a 5-2 vote last night by the Arlington Heights Zoning Board of Appeals.

William Moore, lawyer for the contract purchaser of the property, 2100 S. Arlington Heights Rd., said that there were three criteria they had to give to qualify for the variation:

--PROVE A definite hardship.

is now would not give profitable returns.

--and show that it would not make slterations in the character of the surrounding area.

MOORE SAID that the property was presently zoned residential as a holding zoned area but until six months ago had been zoned for manufacturing and that some lots in the area had recently been zoned for business.

He said that this worked a hardship on the present owner who wanted to move from his home because Arlington Heights Rd. at that location isn't a good place to raise a family.

He also said that no better place in Arlington Heights could be found for the type of facility requested because it was surrounded by business and manufacturing zonings with residentisl which was not extensively developed and mostly a holding zoned area.

SINCE THE land in the vicinity has been spproved for a shopping center and medical center recently and some of the land was zoned for manufacturing, they wouldn't be altering the neighborhood, said Moore.

He also said that since "no one with a brain in their head" would buy the property as residential, the present zoning would not bring a profitable return.

Ronald Guild, attorney for Dr. Otto Bouc of Mount Prospect, who is one of the owners of the medical center and manufacturing area, said that they would not oppose any business use but they would oppose the car wash.

NO SPECIFIC reasons for their opposition were given but they said that they didn't feel the three criteria had been met fully.

Board member Anthony Tomaso pointed out that a business zoning of the sort that Bouc wanted on the property would allow a tavern, a gas station, or an undertaking establishment which could be detrimental to a medical center.

In other action, the Board unanimously approved a request for a side yard variation at 109 N. Hickory, to allow expansion of the Grimsby-Barton Co., which makes small electrical components for the government.

Project Wingspread Grounded

Project Wingspread was grounded last night as District 59 board members turned down by a 4-3 vote a proposal which would have taken 30 children out of afternoon classes for 19 school days to participate in zoo-conservatory studies in Chicago with children from two city schools.

Children would have been selected for the progrsm from those whose parents volunteered them.

A similar progrsm for 21 District 59 students from Frost, High Ridge Knolls, and Einstein Schools took palce for four weeks last spring.

"No" votes came from Charles Stansky and Harry Peterson of Elk Grove Village, Paul Neuhauser of Mount Prospect and Harold Harvey of Des Plaines.

No Front Runner In Congress Race, Candidates Agree

By Richard Crabb

The special 13th District congressional Oct. 7 Republican primary race is to be won and lost.

This is one of the things on which a majority of the eight candidates who are still in the race agree. There are several other vital points on which contestants generally agree.

One month from today the congressional campaign comes to an end in the polling booths of the 13th congressional district. The 13th district extends across northern Cook County from the lake towns of Evanston, Winnetka and Wilmette to Buffalo Grove, Palatine and Schaumburg.

How many votes will be cast? Who will the winner be? Will the results be close? What is the effect of the Con-Con campaigns that have been going on at the same time? Have the dropouts changed the situation? Are there key issues?

HOW MANY VOTE--Most candidates would be willing to settle for a 40,000 vote total. There were 47,000 votes in the last GOP primary which was held in June, 1968, when there was a contest for governor. Estimate of votes needed to win range from 7,500 to 10,000.

WHO WILL WIN--Candidates agree that there is no out-in-front candidate. There is no one man to beat. On the average each candidate figures he has three or four adversaires he must defeat in order to win.

WILL IT BE CLOSE-- No candidate expects the winner to have a margin of more than 2,000 to 3,000 votes. Several expect the result will turn on "a few hundred votes". There are mentions of the race turning on a handful of votes--100 or less.

WHAT ABOUT DROPOUTS-- Little impact. Only two candidates have publicly mentioned them. The three dropouts--Brian Duff of Wilmette, David Roe of Glenview and Allan Weber of Evanston all reside in the eastern end of the district where candidate congestion is the greatest with little impact on the west end of the district where the big hunt is on.

ENDORSEMENTS--Except for townships with "favorite son" candidates, the value of endorsements is unknown. Even in the "favorite son" townships there is frequent talk of heavy raids from the ranks of those without endorsement.

KEY ISSUES-- there are two. They are inflation (rising cost of living) and pollution. Few expect the result to reveal any trend left or right of center. Greatest candidate concern at the beginning of September is voter apathy. There are peak areas of interest in the district the candidates generally agree. Arlington Heights, Palatine and the lake towns are the real hot spots.

CON-CON HELP OR HURT--Only those voters directly contacted or specially interested can keep the two campaigns apart. It is agreed that well over 50 cent of the citizens cannot name either a congressional or Con-Con candidate on their own.

"Con-Con even sounds like an abbreviation for congressional campaign" one candidate said.

DOWN TO THE WIRE?--Some candidates think the two-week period after the Con-Con primary is out of the way will be the golden period.

MOST UNIQUE DEVELOPMENT--The level of youth direct participation in a congressional election is of record proportions. Half of the candidates have assigned to young people a major role in the campaign activities. It is probably the first time that young people have become so deeply involved in a campaign below the presidential level. Youth participation is important and could be decisive.

BGA Endorses 3 Con-Con Hopefuls

The Better Government Assn. yesterday announced its endorsement of 3d District candidates for the constitutional convention.

Four of 16 candidates, a man and three women, received the BGA endorsement. Three of the candidates are from Arlington Heights and one is from Prospect Heights.

The women endorsed are Madeline Schroeder and Virginia Macdonald of Arlington Heights and Mary J. Carlson of Prospect Haights.

John G. Woods, former mayor of Arlington Heights was endorsed.

The Better Government Assn. endorsed all of the three women running for con-con feats in the 3d Senatorial District. Woods is one of 12 men seeking a constitutional convention seat in the district that extends from the western section of Des Plaines to the eastern section of Elgin.

The special constitutional convention primary is being held two weeks from today, Sept. 23. The four candidates in the field of 16 who received the highest total of votes will be placed on the special general election ballot.

The special general con-con election takes place Nov. 18. The two candidates receiving the highest total of votes Nov. 18 will be seated at the constitutional convention from the northwest suburbs.

Play School Has Openings

Several openings remain in Arlington Heights Park District's afternoon play school classes, according to Sharon Walton, head of the districts' play school program.

The twice-a-week afternoon sessions are limited to children who will be four years old before Dec. 2. Hasbrook, Pioneer and Recreation parks have openings for 10 children.

The 1-to-3 p.m. classes require participation of mother's on a rotating basis. Fee for the 10-week play school session is $15. Applications can be made at 255-8850.

Cars Damaged

Four new automobiles were reported damaged Monday in the parking lot of Bonnie Motors Inc., at 500 E. Northwest Hwy., Palatine.

Police said the autos were damaged when someone tossed some paint remover or acid on them. Total damage to the autos was $600.

Former Superintendent, Schools Agree on Terms

By Jan Bone

Agreement on contract terms between Dr. Donald Thomas, former superintendent of School District 59, and board members was reached Monday.

Thomas, who is now superintendent of schools in Amsterdam, N.Y., will provide up to a maximum of 20 days during the 1969-70 school year for School District 59 as a consultant, when requested to do so. He also will provide information the board, or its agents, asks him for, by phone or io writing.

Thomas' resignation as superintendent was accepted June 2 by the District 59 board. Under the terms of the 1969-70 contract he originally held, he would have received $26,000 in salary, a maximum of $1,000 for educational travel and the use of a car for school and personal business.

For these services, District 59 will pay Thomas $7,500 in 10 equal installments and pay expenses he incurs "in the performance of his duties." These expenses are not to exceed $500. The school board also will transfer ownership of a 1967 Pontiac car to Thomas.

Schools in District 59 are Low in Arlington Heights; Jay, Frost, Dempster, Holmes and Forest View Elementary in Mount Prospect; Devonshire, High Ridge Knolls, Einstein and Brentwood in Des Plaines, and Ridge, Rupley, Grove, Grant Wood, Clearmont, Hopkins, Lively, Cook, Salt Creek and Byrd in Elk Grove Village.

Village Department Guides Building Boom

Marty Munsen

Marty Munsen, Arlington Heights' building commissioner, presides over a department that last year won the Building Department of the Year Award from the Homebuilders Association of Chicagoland.

Munsen was named acting building commissioner in May after the resignation of Harold "Red" Best, long-time head of the department. In August, the "acting" part of his title was dropped, and Munsen took over the six-man department that in 1969 has issued more building permits for single-family houses than the City of Chicago.

Munsen and his five building inspectors spend much of their time in the field, performing the many inspections required by Arlington Heights stringent building code.

"We make about 27 inspections for the average house," Munsen said. He said foundations, plumbing, wiring--everything is monitored by his department during construction.

ACCORDING TO Munsen, Arlington Heights stands "near the top" in its enforcement procedures. In additional to houses, Munsen's department also inspects apartment buildings, commercial and industrial facilities and is responsbile for enforcing the village's zoning code.

Munsen, who has been with the village building department for six years, also has 20 years experience in the building trades. He said changes in construction procedures and in building codes take a long time.

"Different production methods sometimes are accepted slowly," Munsen said. "There have been changes, but the change hasn't been as drastic in the last six years as in the last 15."

For example, he said, plastic pipe and some forms of factory pre-wiring are not allowed under Arlington Heights' building code. Both plastic pipe and some forms of pre-wiring heve been recommended by several national model building codes.

Sometimes, Munsen said, builders will try to hide some code violations that would be expensive to correct.

"After you're here a while, you can usually tell," he said.

"But some mistakes are honest mistakes," he quickly added.

WHAT ABOUT bribe offers?

"I guess everybody gets offers once in a while," he said. But bribe offers are rare, he said, in a community like Arlington Heights.

"The people who live here have a stake in the community," Munsen said, and aren't interested in cheating on building codes.

The Munsen family lives at 736 N. Harvard. Marty and his wife, Virginia, have a daughter, Karen, 16, who attends Arlington High School.

High School Smoking Issue Fumes Again

By K. C. Radtke

District 214 residents buffed and puffed last night, but got no change of heart on the high school system's current attempts to eliminate the problems of teen smokers on the six campuses.

On Aug. 25 the board supported recommendations by four principals to allow smoking at designated areas of three schools and adopt an open campus policy at a fourth school.

The schools with smoking areas are Hersey, Wheeling and Forest View. Elk Grove High administrators requested and received approval for changing its closed campus to an open campus. Students may now leave the school building and grounds during their lunch period.

Elk Grove is the last of the district's six schools to adopt the open campus policy.

Students thus may smoke in certain portions of the school property or away from the campus at the four schools. They have already been smoking off campus near Arlington and Prospect high schools without the approval of administrators.

Last night's crowd apparently was prompted to attend the board meeting by a letter written by board member Frank Bergen and submitted to newspapers.

Bergen, who was not present for the entire August meeting at the time the recommendations were approved, insisted in his letter that his colleagues and Supt. Ed Gilbert had not lived up to their promises.

HE SAID THE superintendent had told citizens as early as last fall (Nov. 11, 1968) that no further smoking areas would be allowed until opinions on the cigaret issue had been expressed by parents, students, faculty and other school personnel.

Bergen, who frequently smokes at board meetings, wanted the approving board members to reconsider their action only if they would modify the previous decision.

To vote again and arrive at the same conclusion would be a waste of time, he said.

Jack Costello, a board member who opposed the recent smoking decision and who Bergen said he had hoped would help him get a reversal, was not present last night.

Despite the board's reminder that several schools had conducted surveys of concerned parties, parents still spoke from the floor against the board's lack of a uniform district policy.

What they seemed to want was a definite "yes" or "no" to end the smoking debate and more polls, even a district survey, to get every parents' viewpoint.

They charged the board with being "wishy washy," proporting "mish mash" and taking the easy way out.

"It's not the easy way out," proclaimed member Dick Bachhuber. "If you could sit here and hear this for 18 months, you'd know it wasn't the easy way out."

"We could reconsider," board president Art Aronson conceded. "But I would like to go along for awhile and maybe see the proof of the pudding one way or another."

20 Cars Join Motorcade to Rally

By Judy Ressler

About 20 cars left the Rendhurst Jewel Food Stores parking lot yesterday morning as part of a Grape Boycott motorcade to a rally in Melrose Park.

The drivers of these cars met with other cars from the north shore area. About 150 cars were gathered on North Av., near Jewel headquarters, said Lynne Heidt, of 6 Marberry, Prospect Heights.

Yale Roe, a 13th congressional district candidate, was invited to speak. He accepted the invitation, said Mrs. Heidt, but he was not at the rally.

Rep. Eugenia Chapman (D-Arlington Heights) was also at the motorcade, but Mrs. Heidt said she did not commit herself to support of the boycott.

Al Raby, Con-Con candidate, conducted the negotiations for boycott supporters with the Jewel. A public relations employe with the Jewel and two others were the only recognized representatives for that store.

Priests, nuns, Negroes, union members, housewives, farm workers and other interested persons attended the rally, Mrs. Heidt said.

"I think there was a cross section of real support," she said.

Mrs. Heidt said the speaker for the Jewel would not commit the stores to anything.

Marion Skinner, of 116 E. Dennis, Wheeling, said the people in support of the boycott were "very solid."

Mrs. Skinner said Jewel's policy is to give the customer what he wants. Pickets presented a sign at the rally to the Jewel representatives saying that about $20,000 is being lost by the Jewel in this area because they are selling grapes. Money is lost because pickets have turned customers away from shopping at Jewel stores.

CASH REGISTER tapes were taped on the sign.

After the rally, pickets marched about three blocks to a Jewel store and picketed. Mrs. Skinner and Jewel officials called traffic police.

Raby explained the position of the pickets by telling Jewel representatives and others that pickets will go to any non-violent means to rid the store of grapes.

John A. "Skip" Muller of 418 S. Lincoln, Arlington Heights, has joined Kenyon & Eckhardt, Inc., Chicago, as an account executive. A former "Jaycee of the Year," he will handle accounts with Libby, McNeill & Libby and Catherine Clark Brownberry Ovens.

Greenerfields Unlimited, the Housewife's Guru

By Frances Altman

At one time or another most women give some thought to going back to school night school, art classes, decorating, crafts or returning to college.

Last year Greenerfields Unlimited of Glenview was the answer for 235 women from 28 different suburbs, including Arlington Heights, Prospect Heights, Buffalo Grove and Long Grove.

"You will not find this type of mature coed on a campus, yet they may study harder than a student trying for the dean's list," one educator said.

GREENERFIELDS' classes combine the challenge, stimulation and quality of college courses with informality there are no tests, no grades, no competition and no pressures. Mrs. John W. Mast and Mrs. Bradley Rippel, two Glenview homemakers, started the school, which caters to the time schedules of busy mothers, three years ago.

"We felt there were many women like ourselves whose main occupations are their families and households. Yet they, too, seek an opportunity to improve and update their knowledge," says Mrs. Mast.

Marilyn Henry of Buffalo Grove and Vera Eiacher, Prospect Heights, are two homemakers who attended Greenerfields last year.

"You are really in your element there," says Mrs. Henry. The mother of two school-age children, she has taken seminars in world politics, interior decorating and finance.

"THE GREAT THING about Greenerfields is that it causes you to start thinking. I enjoyed it, and I hope to go back this fall," she said.

This year's schedule has been expanded to a "baker's dozen" courses, stimulating subjects all taught by qualified instructors.

Courses include sessions on antiques, art appreciation, music, parties and politics, two philosophy sessions, contemporary conversation, securities and investments and new this year general semantics.

Interior decorating has been the most popular course since the beginning. It is taught by John Nyman of the Ray-Vogue School of Design, who is also on the staff of Colby's Home Furniture Center. Sessions are held at the Colby's store on Skokie Blvd., Northbrook.

"THERE ARE MANY women who would like to return to college but feel their minds have been dormant too long. They are afraid they will not know how to study," says Mrs. Mast, herself the mother of three sons.

Greenerfields has tried to offer a transition or bridge a way for a woman to be both a housewife and student. Already three Greenerfields students have returned to college.

In keeping with their purpose, Greenerfields will not begin sessions until late September, allowing mothers time to get their youngsters settled back in school and their own schedules worked out. Groups generally meet once or twice a week from one to two hours in the mornings or early afternoons.

One group of ladies has been discussing philosophy since Greenerfields started. This year they still want to remain together and have decided that each week a member of the group will serve as discussion leader under their own "guru," Mrs. Nancy Robinson.

THREE HOMEMAKERS from Long Grove, Gloria Kastow, Jane Salzman and Margaret Spellman, have attended past courses.

"You can learn as much as you make yourself think," Mrs. Salzman says. She has studied interior design and political trends at Greenerfields and is anxious to rejoin the discussion groups.

Textbooks and materials are rounded up by the instructors. And as Greenerfields Unlimited is a non-profit organization, the fees charged go to pay the instructors, buy teaching materials and rent new facilities at 1740 Waukegan Rd., Glenview.

Because of the maturity of their students, Greenerfields has been able to attract many of this country's leading authorities in their fields who happen to live in the Chicago area and appreciate a receptive audience.

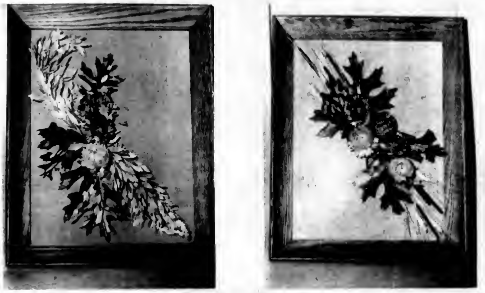
THIS YEAR Mary Meedell-Nunn, art authority and co-partner of St. Anne's Gallery, Winnetka, will lead the antiques class, and Mrs. Rene Kreer of the Art Institute of Chicago will lead the art exploration class. Dr. C. J. Curtis, professor at DePaul University, will specialize in philosophy, and Arthur Savio, a member of the New York Stock Exchange, will lead "Securities and Investments."

Other discussion leaders will be Dr. Thad Xclowski, physician and psychologist, John J. Schmitt, sales consultant, and Mrs. Mary Audrev, marriage counselor.

Greenerfields Unlimited's new schedules are now being mailed. For further information on how you can share in the joy of learning call 724-3737 or contact Mrs. Mast at 724-5244 or Mrs. Rippel at 446-6433.

The co-founders of Greenerfields, Unlimited, Mrs. Bradley Rippel, left, and Mrs. John Mast, right, show their fall schedule of classes to Mrs. Gregor Sletteland before sending them through the new addressograph. Three years ago they mailed out 2,000 handwritten letters to suburban women inviting them to attend Greenerfields' series of discussion groups and seminars especially slanted to homemakers. Since then 650 ladies have attended. (Photo by Frances Altman)

Autumn Craft



In creating these two fall plaques Mrs. Richard Foss of Buffalo Grove has shown that even Nature's most humble creations can be combined to make a striking seasonal accessory. At the left she combines wine tinted oak leaves with yellow sea oats and orange strawflowers glued on a bright orange burlap background. On the right shaded strawflowers and oak leaves are used with pencil cattails and wheat against a beige background. Both are framed in matching oak frames. All materials are currently available at most area florists and many nurseries at a nominal cost. (Photos by Altman)

Patio Party Honors Schlickman

A patio party in the lighted garden of the Elliott Johnsons', Arlington Heights, recently afforded many of their neighbors and friends an opportunity to meet Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Schlickman and informally hear Schlickman speak on the forthcoming Congressional election.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Browne, Northbrook; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Emsinger; Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson; Mr. and Mrs. Don Wetzell and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Richter. Accent on Flowers

Fresh flowes of blazing brilliance are the perfect accent for rooms decorated in quiet neutral colors, says the Society of American Florists. Neutral colors in close harmony--waxy wood furniture upholstered in creamy beige or twilight grey; rugs and fabrics in straw gold, champagne and pure white--this is one trend in home decor and furnishings today. Imagine the firey spark of red and gold zinnias or marigolds in such a setting.

Available at florist shops in seemingly endless range of sizes and vivid hues, zinnias and marigolds add a delightfully primitive touch to sophisticated surroundings. They adapt themselves well to either a formal line of design or the large and free traditional Williamsburg arrangement. The most appropriate containers, the Society points out, are of wood, pottery, or metal in neutral or earth colors.

Invitations are in the mail to the Wheeling Township Women's Republican Club's annual membership tea and reception, Thursday, Sept. 11, 2 to 4:30 p.m. at the Holiday Inn, Mount Prospect. Mrs. Lee Canfield, second vice president, serves tea after the envelopes were all addressed. Left to right, Mrs. Roy Jernberg, membership chairman, Mrs. Gerald Brask, president, and Mrs. William Conklin, vice president. All live in Arlington Heights. (Photo by Joe Stafford)

College Credit Course Offered at Countryside

Countryside Art Center of Arlington Heights for the first time will offer a course in design for college credit in cooperation with Northern Illinois University.

Beginning Design 211 will be taught by Gary Fox of the faculty of Northern Illinois. It will be held from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Monday at Countryside Gallery, 407 N. Vail. The fee for the three-credit course will be $45. It will run for 16 weeks, beginning Sept. 15.

PRIMARILY FOR those who have had little or no background in design, the course will be limited to 30 students. It will present a comprehensive study of design elements and principles, with emphasis on inventiveness in the use of various media.

A minimum of materials will be required. The course will deal mainly with visual organization, including symmetry, composition, line, plane, texture and balance the artist-designer's "tools of trade."

The course will combine studio work during class and lecture sessions.

Persons interested in Design 211 may register now at the Gallery or by calling Ruth Cournoyer at CL 9-0946.

Countryside's usual fall schedule of classes will also be held beginning Oct. 1. Children's Saturday classes and adult classes for the beginning or advanced student, both daytime and evening, are described in a brochure available at the Gallery. For further information, call the Gallery at CL 3-3005 from 1 to 5 p.m. daily except Monday.

Q-I have a hammertoe. Can it be corrected in a doctor's office or must I go to a hospital?

A-Hammertoe is an upward extension of the first joint of a toe, usually the second toe, coupled with an acute bending downward of the rest of the toe. If it is very painful it should be amputated. This should be done in a hospital.

Q-What can be done to relieve the pain of a bunion? Is operation for this usually successful?

A-A bunion rarely occurs in a person who walks several miles every day but, once one has formed, a long daily walk will not cure it. I would advise trying special shoes that relieve the pressure on your bunion but, if this doesn't work, surgery offers you the best chance for relief. The operation is usually successful, but it should be followed by exercises to restore strength to the weakened muscles if you want to prevent recurrence.

Q-What is the best treatment for a soft corn between the toes?

A-This is a form of ringworm and should be treated as such with Whitfield ointment or other ringworm remedies. Recurrences are common.

DOESN'T LIKE ANSWER

To My Many Readers:

The letter that follows is self explanatory. I can easily understand that not everyone will agree with the answers given in this column. In this particular instance, I said that I did not believe that a mother who spanked her 15-year-old girl would solve any problems. I further suggested that restrictions and withholding privileges were far better disciplinary measures than paddling. I haven't changed my mind. To be fair, I invite other mothers, and their teen daughters, to give their views on this matter. I'll print the best letters I receive.

Dear Lee Janson,

I am angry and upset at your answer to the teen-age girl, Bruised, Top and Bottom. First of all, she admits having a big argument with her mother, but later says she feels they should be able to discuss things. A big argument is not a discussion, and 10 to 1 she told her mother, in the midst of the argument, that she was too old for her to spank, at which time I would have done the same thing that mother did. Mothers are not saints, you know. As I see it, you added to the disharmony in this family by telling the girl she is right. I recall getting my last spanking at 16, and believe me, they were not a regular thing at that time and I was shocked and surprised but as I look back now I realize that the spanking made me do some serious thinking and I realized I was wrong. It was my father who gave it to me and I love him dearly. I'm extremely glad he gave me the spanking. I think you should weigh your answers more carefully since they can do a great harm in a family.

Day by Day

The Other Side

By Catherine O'Donnell

The lights are too bright, the traffic is too awful, the shady characters who roam around are too frightening and the race goes on.

These are some of the oft-repeated arguments against night racing at Arlington Park from residents from the area. It was interesting last Saturday to view the other side of the lights. The occassion was the running to the Arlington-Washington Futurity-a race with the largest purse in turfdom. It was also the second time at the races for this column writer.

My closest contact before the one day at Arlington Park four years ago was picking the name of Pension out of a desk drawer held high over my head and winning the office pool on a Kentucky Derby. Any betting I've done is based on the color of the jockey's shirt or the relation of the horse's name to someone or something I know.

WE WERE LATE starters on Saturday night and got to the track in time for the sixth race. I failed to see any of the disreputable characters. Everyone looked clean and happy. The parking lot was crowded and the attendants were patient. The reflection of either the moor on the mercury lights gave an enchanting silver blue sparkle to the pool in the center of the track. The green grass, the colors on the jockeys' silks, the smooth satin of the subdued colors of the horses, the yellow oval streak of the track created an excitement that was irresistible.

I would like to say that the races are far more glamorous under the lights. The horses loping with long strides around the raceway look like a colored television scene come to life. I must confess that every so often I looked toward Wilke or thought of Euclid with a twinge of conscience. But there wasn't time nor much inclination to wonder if all of my neighbors were sleeping fitfully because the noise we track trotters were making was too much.

I did think that everyone should go to the track and soak up some of the spectacle. The atmosphere was contagious. I bet the sixth race and lost. I picked a horse named Jammed Prince in the seventh-because the jockey wore green with a shamrock on his shirt—and lost. The eight was the Futurity and I was sure of my hunch on Irish Castle. I'm unhappy to report that the track announcer didn't even mention his name as they came charging around the turn or when the race ended.

The ninth and last race was something. There, listed in the second-last place in a field of nine was a horse called Anne P., deserved support, but I also thought of my good friend, Anne Patricia Hartigan who lives on N. Drury. I picked Anne P.

We were jumping up and down and shouting (sorry about that, Wilke friends) when I noticed this beautiful animal take off from the middle of the field and start passing the other horses.

"C'mon Annie," shouted a man nearby.

He was shouting for Anne P. who was going like the wind. Of course, she won. It must have been an 11-to-1 bet because I collected $22 and two dimes for the $2 bet.

"I won," I announced to a nice gray-haired man standing beside me.

"GRR-RR," He said, tearing up a deep red ticket.

IN THE TOWN we came from in Ohio there was a college. The townies (local residents) constantly complained about the antics of the gownies (college people). The antics and the complaints made good newspaper copy.

I visited there one weekend last month and the "townies" were preparing for the annual advent of the "gownies." The feud has never been settled. Some progress was made when a Town and Gown Club was formed. The Town and Gown brought programs of mutual interest and for certain periods there was friendly comraderie. Then a group of "gownies", student size, would steal the hands off the old church steeple clock and the tempers flared again.

It would be nice out here if there was a Town and Track club. Maybe the lights could be shaded. Maybe the traffic wouldn't look so heavy if familiar cars were in it.

Saturday was an exciting experience I would like to share. It's a great tranquilizer to snap one's finers at the cares of the day once in a while and live a little.

Besides, as Charlie Chan said, "When the inevitable is about to happen, relax and enjoy it."

Defending Champs Mash Jayvee Team in Practice

Arlington's varsity quarterback Fred Harth (15) quickly laterals the ball to teammate Terry Foy (38) just in time as a jayvee defensive man crashes through the line to try to foil the play. The varsity easily won, 33-0, Saturday in the annual nighttime scrimmage. (Photos by Tom Rowe)

By Tom Rowe

The Arlington High School varsity football squad scrimmaged their jayvee teammates last Friday night to preview the upcoming season for the Card fans. Arlington's Booster Club sponsored the activity which saw the veterans trounce the young Cardinals, 33-0.

Head coach Bob Walther seemed pleased with his team's performance, but because of the opponent, the varsity's defense wasn't tested to their fullest capabilities. Walther commented, "We couldn't run our schedule of attack, but our line fired out and played real well."

COACH WALTHER praised the running abilities of his two star backs, Terry Foy and Mike Dezonna. Both Foy and Dezonna made several long end sweeps for substantial yardage. Junior halfback Scott Douglas also "ran nicely" in Walther's words, and the quarterback duo of Fred Harth and John Kuykendall ran the ball team well in their dealings with the jayvees.

Several varsity candidates were unable to participate in the intra-squad game due to minor injures. Mike Hadley, Carl Anderson and Craig Moritz failed to play Friday's game but will be probable starters in next Friday night opener with Maine West.

The Cards will be flying into their first game of the 1969 season at quite a disadvantage due to the scrimmages held by both ball teams last week end. test was cancelled due to a lighting failure and the Maine West scouts readily enjoyed the Arlington game that same night.

THE WARRIORS replayed their game Saturday morning at their home field, though not under the watchful eye of the Cardinal scouts. Walther said, "Having Maine West see us and our inability to scout them is going to be a definite handicap; we'll he playing in the dark." Coach Walther said Maine will be "up" for this contest.

"They'll be waiting for us. Nobody knows much about their team except that they will throw a lot. They're more seasoned than our team, but I feel this will be a tight game."

Walther applauded the efforts of the jayvee squad. "They played a great first half. They held up down. It's very possible they'll have a winning team this season; they have real potential."

SEVERAL FINE plays spotted the evening though the team is not yet in its final polished form. Two fine interceptions spoiled two quarterbacks' bid for a passing attack as varsity's Tom Sayre and jayvee Don Chambers each snatched aerial bombs off the arms of the opposing playmakers. Other jayvees sparkled in their play, including Terry Ormsbee, Mike Cleveland, Steve Moore, Chuck Dillon and Scott Mudge.

Coach Tom Pitchford felt "encouraged" by his team's performance while several varsity players "showed their stuff" to the plentiful Arlington crowd. Tom Harris, Mike D'Angelo, Kevin Ellertson, Tom Lidge, Jeff Selleck and Gary Bratko all shined for the Cardinals.

After the Cards travel to Maine West, they will tangle with the Palatine Pirates at Palatine the following Saturday to open Mid-Suburban League play. Wheeling will mark the first home game for Arlington on Sept. 26, after which the Cards will go to Glenbard North for another contest.

AFTER THE Glenbard game, the Cards will have four games left; Forest View, Prospect, Elk Grove and Fremd.

Varsity halfback Sam Witt looks for daylight in Friday night's scrimmage against the jayvees. The varsity easily won the game, 33-0, as the team prepares for this Friday night's contest with Maine West.

Bruins Maul Engineers, 24-7, In Park District Playoff

The Babes' Lounge Bruins, winners of the Monday night Arlington Heights Park District Classic League, trounced Stevens Engineering of the Wednesday League, 24-7, last night in a Mount Prospect Park District playoff contest at Meadows Park.

The win was the second of the tournament for the undefeated Bruins, and it placed them in the quarter-final round. The date of the next playoff game is still undecided.

THE BRUINS amassed 28 safeties in the one-sided affair, hitting in every inning and scoring in every frame but the second. They left no doubt as to the outcome in the sixth, as they came up with 10 runs on nine hits.

Every Bruin collected at least two hits except pitcher Don Walker. Leadoff man Jim Nallen led the onslaught with five, including a double and a triple. Bob Campbell added four and Sal Novello, Paul Duvall, Don Wynerd and R. J. Nicholson each picked up three. Wyner's hits were all extra base blows, two triples and a double.

The game was actually decided in the first inning, as the Bruins scored five runs on seven hits while sending nine men to the plate. Nallen opened with a triple, Novello doubled him in, Campbell singled, Duvall doubled and Ron Leafblad singled before a single out was recorded.

AFTER RIP RAZOTCO flied out, Wynerd and Tim Prodems belted successive two-baggers for the final two tallies of the inning.

Walker allowed a run in the bottom of the first on a double and a sacrifice fly, but he then blanked Stevens until the sixth. The losers picked up three tallies in the sixth and the seventh, but by that time the Bruins were working on a 22-1 lead.

A total of 13 Bruins batted in the big sixth inning rally, with everyone crossing the plate except Nicholson. Duvall got two hits and scored twice during the explosion, Novello smashed a double and Wynerd added a big triple.

THE BRUINS collected their final two runs in the seventh. Wynerd drew a base on balls, Nicholson smashed a hit and both came in on Nallen's fifth safety. The tallies were the fifth and sixth driven in by the Bruin right fielder.

Grens Run Against Seasoned Warriors

Maine West and Elk Grove will continue their non-conference rivalry this afternoon with a 4:30 meet at the Warrior's home course. After an "expected" fourth-place showing at the Crystal Lake Invitational Saturday, Maine will be seeking to duplicate last year's 18-44 victory over the Grenadiers.

West head coach Bill Barringer said that everyone is still in tact after totaling 79 points, four less than last season's third-place Crystal Lake performance.

ASKED IF the current cool spell will have any effect on his runners, the Warrior pilot said, "If anything, it should help them. They enjoy the cool weather."

Barringer also made mention of the rain that fell over the weekend. "Our course was getting hard, like cement, but the rain has softened it up a bit. It's a pretty safe course as far as the runners are concerned.

Also vying for position for the Warriors will be seniors Steve Johnson whose best time last' season was 14:29, Bob Lidinsky (15:25), Mark Frasier (15:33), Steve Melling (15:44), Bruce Eiter (15:48), Dave Lashway (15:51), Kent Drysch (15:55) and Luke Burchard (15:58).

Lettermen from last season's frosh-soph team who are still running varsity are Dave Gilbertsen, Ken Kovar, Karl Fritscher, Tom Duntemann, Tim Watkins, Dan Billings, Don Anderson, John Ackermann, Bruce Beam, Ken Gus-

"We met some of the top teams in the state." He was referring to the fact that Evanston holds the runner-up position to cross-country state champion York High School. Proviso West, second place finishers at Crystal Lake, captured 11th downstate, while Rockford-Guilford took 17th.

SENIOR JERRY Krainik will be trying to better his best home course mark of 15:01. So far, though, Ken Kovar (10th at Crystal Lake) has set the pace.

tafson, Lloyd Mencinger, J. Olson, Kevin Wright, Jack St. John, Dean Kamin, Dave Backes, Dan Ward, Bill Detzler and Gary Williams.

THE MEET will be first of the year for Elk Grove and the Grenadiers' first under new head coach Jerry Woollard. He will run 14 men in the varsity battle, but only two are seniors.

"We're just too inexperienced and that will probably hurt us all year," Woollard says. "It'll be tough for us to open against a team like Maine West hecause it always has a good team.

"We feel however, that competing against them will be better for us than if we faced a weaker school. If we opened with a soft touch and beat them, we might think we are better than we really are when we start our conference meets."

ELK GROVE'S No. 1 man and major threat to pick up points against the Warriors is junior Jim Ottinger. Jim was the conference sophomore mile champ last spring and has been looking very good in practice the last couple of weeks.

As an example of the Grens' inexperience, Woollard is relying heavily on a pair of sophomores this season. They are Mike Bachus and Tom Ziffra, and the latter has been developing especially well so far this season.

The rest of Elk Grove's varsity squad will be made up of seniors Skip Davis and Jim Kliesner and juniors Bill Buchholz, Greg Dziem, Mark Siewert, Terry Somers, Bill Fitzgerald, Rex Gilmore, Bob Liptak, Pete Hartmann and Mark Hopkins.

TRYING TO avenge last year's 19-44 loss to Maine West in the frosh-soph meet will be Elk Grove's Larry Cyrier, Tom Boggs, Chuck Bassford, Buddy Krueger, Fred Klink, Jim Callagahan, Mark Greenberg, Len Greenberg, Bernard Czarnecki, Jeff Perry, John Artemenko, Walter Britton, Ray Ramakis, Paul Georgen and Bob Meyer.

Northwestern Picks 4 from AH

The 1969 Northwestern University football roster will include four standouts from Arlington Heights. The four are senior offensive end Bruce Hubbard, junior offensive tackle John Hittman, junior quarterback Darrell Splithoff and junior defensive back Brad Somers.

Hubbard led the Wildcats in receptions last year with 33 good for 551 yards. His two-year total of 49 receptions puts him in range of Cas Banaszek's record career total of 88.

HITTMAN HAS grown to a weight of 230 pounds from a freshman weight of 185. He was one of last year's top sophomores at tight end, but his extra weight resulted in his shift to bolster the tackles.

Splithoff is mechanically as good as any of the Wildcat quarterbacks, although he has not yet asserted himself. He still has time to fulfill the potential he showed as the top prep quarterback in Chicago three years ago.

Somers, a prep all-conference selection in three sports, relinquished a promising wrestling career to concentrate on football. He started several games as a sophomore and intercepted one pass.

Classes at Glenbrook North High School will begin Tuesday, Sept. 16, at 7:30 p.m. Prospect High School will schedule the safety series on Wednesday evenings, the first class beginning Sept. 24, also at 7:30 p.m.

THIS YEAR will he the eighth consecutive year in which the Skokie Squadron has held classes. Lectures will be given on seamanship, government regulations, navigational aids, boating equipment, open water course plotting and river piloting.

For further information on the piloting course contact Public Information officer Harmon B. Deal, 1029 Hunter Rd., Glenview.

Wheeling Runners Open Season Today

The Wheeling High School cross-country team, under the tutelage of new head coach Jerry Parsons, opened its season this afternoon in a dual meet at non-conference Glenbrook South, located at Lake and Pfingston Roads, Glenview. The meet began at 4:30 p.m.

The Titans have many new faces in their lineup, and little is known about the strength of their harriers. The meet will be a good indication of things to come for the Wildcats, who have to face tough Maine South on Thursday and travel to Maine West on Saturday for the big Maine West Center Meet.

THE CENTRAL Suburban League usually produces fine cross-country teams, so Wheeling may have their work cut out for them.

The 'Cats will be led by captain Frank Savage, who was the team's best runner last year. Parsons is expecting a lot from Savage this year, hoping that the senior letterman will help improve last year's mediocre 8-7 record.

Also counted on for Wheeling points will be John Dyson's second season in the sport, but he seems greatly improved and should help the situation immensely.

In addition, six boys up from the sophomore team could create a few pleasant surprises for the Wildcats. These are Mitchell Carlander, Bryce Deter, Terry Haeger, Frank Howard, Lewis Proudfoot and Ronald Shea.

A "MINI" WASTEBASKET!

By Cappy Dick

A cardboard shoe box can be turned into a serviceable miniature wastebasket by following today's fun-project directions for boys and girls. The completed wastebasket, brightly decorated with poster paints, appears in Figure 4.

Cut off one end of an empty shoe box as indicated by the dotted lines in Figure 1. Cut the lid down to fit and glue it to the box as in Figure 2. (the dotted line indicates the edge of the lid).

Cut a scalloped edge in a strip of construction paper that will be long enough to go around the open end of the box. If necessary, two scalloped strips may be used (Figure 3) which together will go around the box.

The final step is to decorate the entire outside with poster paints. As an alternative, sections of your favorite comic strips could be pasted all over the box to form an even more unusual decoration.

Put the wastebasket beside your desk in your own room at home.

45 STUNTS IN THIS BIRTHDAY PARTY BOOKLET!

Parents! There are 45 activity ideas for your children's birthday party's in Cappy Dick's "BIRTHDAY GAMES" booklet. To get your copy, send 50 cents in coin, plus a self-addressed, stamped envelope to CAPPY DICK'S BOOKLETS, P. O. Box 42877, Evergreen Park, Ill. 60642.

Supreme Court May Make Final Hair Length Decision

By Jan Bone

First in a Series

The proper length for David Miller's hair may be determined by the Supreme Court of the United States.

David, 17, a senior at Barrington Consolidated High School, is not attending classes this week because his shoulder-length hair violates the school's official dress code.

"He isn't suspended. He isn't expelled," said Ralph Miller, school board attorney for High School District 224. Atty. Miller, who is not related to David, said "He has been denied access to the school.

"THE MOMENT he chooses to cut his hair, he can come back and be welcomed with open arms."

The board attorney, will appear before U. S. District Judge James Parsano tomorrow morning at the Federal Building in Chicago "to resist" the request of an American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) attorney for a preliminary injunction restraining the school board and administration from interfering with David's right to register and attend classes.

Burton Joseph, the ACLU attorney, filed suit for the injunction Monday in U. S. District Court on behalf of David and his parents, the Ben Millers of 108 18th St., Barrington.

"THE MOST important thing for us," said Jay A. Miller, executive director, Illinois Division, ACLU, and no relation to David Miller or Atty. Ralph Miller, "is that while many people consider this an unimportant thing, it's our feeling that the hair length is strictly a private matter between parent and child.

"The state or a public agency such as a school board which uses tax funds, just has no business making these judgments."

"We will ask the court to declare the dress code invalid," said Joseph," and to have the court declare that this matter is beyond the power of the school to regulate.

"WE ARE bringing this action pursuant to the Civil Rights Act, and the First, Fourth, Ninth, and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution."

David's mother said her son had been stopped at "a checkpoint" when he went to register, and that school officials were measuring the lenght of sideburns.

"Last spring," she said, "David and his friends circulated a petition to have Student Council and various students be allowed to say something about the dress code. They got nearly 1,000 signatures and presented their petition to the school administration, but they never got an answer."

BARRINGTON District 224 Superintendent J. Walter Gillis told The Day that board members had been considering dress regulations since June, and the present code was adopted in August as official board policy.

"The board has adopted the position which it considers to be the correct one," said the district's attorney Ralph Miller.

"AS THE SCHOOL board attorney, I too consider it to be the correct one," Ralph Miller continued. "There are hundreds of things I would like to say, but nothing I will say. I can only suggest that you look at the length of my hair. And thank God you can look at the length of my son's hair.

"The board has not reached its decision lightly.

"You don't lightly exclude a young man from high school. College now, that's different, but we're talking about high school students.

"UNLIKE MANY public officials, members of the school board serve for no money, but for love of their community.

"These men spend incredible hours and do not get paid for it, so you have to believe they are exercising the very best judgment of which they are capable.

"That's why I feel strongly about it on their side. Our superintendent of schools has a tremendous job in a big high school system like Barrington's. All our administrative people have more than their hands full in securing the best possible education for the greatest number of students.

"I THINK the forum for this should be the courtroom—not newspapers, not school board meetings, or anything else. This is why I can't make any comments on the merits of the case.

"Its' very easy to point a finger at the public official like a school board member. He has no powers, no staff, no patronage, no financial club. He's

Park - School Plan Shelved

The possibility of a formal agreement between the Prospect Heights Park District and School District 23 regarding recreation facilities has been dropped for the time being, park district attorney John Haas said Monday.

Haas said that the matter, which he said had been discussed in detail at an earlier date, is being dropped "until we know what we have in the budget and what we can do."

The proposed agreement would provide for installation of recreation facilites by the park district at any of the School District 23 schools, for shared use by park district residents and school children.

Haas said the board had decided to wait and rent space from the school district for activities, "until we are able to enter into an agreement with the school district, and have money to provide recreational facilities for school parks."

The embryo park district's financial responsibilities have increased sharply this year with purchase of the Lions Park Pool, and board members have been striving to keep the budget within bounds.

Could be the people who oppose the use of garbage bags have been using the "see-through" kind.

Park Unit Names Commissioner

The Arlington Heights Board of Park Commissioners has elected John Edwards, 319 E. Ivy Ln., Arlington Heights, to fill the park commission spot left open when Tom McShane resigned to take a job in California.

Edwards will serve until April, 1971.

Edwards has been a park commissioner for 6 years prior to this April's election when he was defeated by McShane. Edwards who is presently serving on the Plan Commission, has a B.S. degree from the University of Wisconsin and has been an employe of U. S. Gypsum for almost 17 years.

The board picked Edwards from among seven others who were interviewed.

In other business the board approved the purchase of $9,000 in playground equipment for all the parks. The equipment includes such items as an Emerald Green Castle, a Giant Outdoor Muscle Man, a Buck-A-Bout, and a Squirrel House.

Director of parks Tom Thornton suggested that the recreation committee begin holding regular monthly meetings to discuss problems arising from the new outdoor pool.

The Arlington Heights Municipal Building's flag flew at half-staff yesterday in memory of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen. The Illinois senior senator, who died Sunday, will be buried tomorrow in Pekin.

Marks Urges Lake Water Be Available to Suburbs

By Richard Crabb

Gerald M. Marks of Wilmette, 13th District congressional candidate, and engineer and former trustee of the Metropolitan Sanitary District, said Tuesday that the Northwest suburbs can be supplied with Lake Michigan water.

In a talk made in Palatine, Marks pledged to work unrelentingly when elected to Congress to clear away the present legal barriers to use of lake water in the rapidly growing Chicago suburbs.

Prior to last week's heavy rains and this week's cooler weather, several villages in the northwest suburbs had placed limitations on yard and garden water use.

THE QUESTION of use of Lake Michigan water in the suburbs has been under study for several years. Chicago has the use of lake water and supplies water to a few suburbs, such as Des Plaines, that are immediately adjacent. Many of the western and northwestern suburbs have sought lake water but no practical means has yet been devised to make lake water available.

The Marks declaration is especially interesting in view of his engineering background and the fact that he is familiar with the failure of the suburbs to obtain lake water for a decade or more.

"The time has come, Marks told his Palatine audience Tuesday, "for the northwest suburbs to be supplied Lake Michigan water.

"We have the ability to stop pollution, stop flooding and more efficiently manage our water resources. All we need is the dedication and leadership to bring this about," said Marks.

"RIGHT NOW," explained Marks, "the Metropolitan Sanitary District diverts 1,500 cubic feet of water per second from Lake Michigan to dilute the polluted water delivered to its waterways from sanitary district treatment plants and from the overflows from flood waters.

"This amount of lake diversion is limited by a U.S. Supreme Court decree and as long as we allow the pollution and flooding to continue, there is no water available to be used for the northwest suburbs."

Marks explained that the Sanitary District treats the wastes of the entire area. Due to the degree of treatment - about 10 per cent of the wastes are returned to the waterway. The dilution water drawn from Lake Michigan helps overcome this problem so the people downstream don't have to drink polluted water?

"To overcome the limits of the Supreme Court Decree, the Metropolitan Sanitary District should start immediately to upgrade its treatment and to devise methods to stop the flooding and its related pollution.

TECHNOLOGY is available to install these improved methods as demonstrated by the Hanover Park Treatment plant" Marks said. The Sanitary District built the Hanover plant when Marks served as Chairman of the Engineering and Research and Development Committee of the Sanitary District Board of Trustees.

"Stopping the problems of flooding can be accomplished by building adequate sewers and providing storage space during periods of heavy rains," said Marks.

"Now too often peoples' basements provide the storage space rether than the sewers, treatment plants and reservoirs," Marks asserted.

Marks pointed out how the national committment to solve pollution problems doesn't compare to the committment made to the military program or even the space program.

"WHEN YOU consider we send a man to the moon and make it possible to drink his own waste water, we demonstrate we have the technology and the productive capability to solve the problem.

"However, in the past five years the Federal government has spent under 750 million dollars to fund the pollution problems and in this years budget alone there is 750 millions dollars appropriated for the ABM. Our committment to solve our water resource problem to protect our health does not compare with our other priorities and this is wrong."

What is green and scaly and comes in a box of Palmetto greens shipped from Florida to Gitta's Florist, Arlington Heights? Snakes, according to Gitta's owner, Brigitta Loris, who found the creature upon opening the box. She is keeping the snake in a glass bowl for possible use by a school biology department. Dist. 59 May OK Hot Lunches for 2 Schools

Hot lunch programs at Salt Creek Elementary School in Elk Grove Village and Dempster Junior High School in Mount Prospect may start soon if District 59 staff members can work out details.

Approval to go ahead with a year's pilot program at these two schools only was given by board members Monday if there will be no cost to the district. Allen Sparks, Harry Peterson, Richard Hess, Albert Domanico, Paul Neuhauser, and Charles Stansky said yes; board member Harold Harvey said no.

BEFORE THE program gets a final okay, Acting Superintendent Albeon Waltman plans to check with state officials to clarify whether or not District 59 can get re-imbursement from federal funds for Dempster students taking part in the hot lunch program provided by Mass Feeding Corporation of Elk Grove Village.

Still unanswered: will vending machines that sell such items as hot soup, chili con carne, and canned products have to be removed from Dempster Junior High School in order for the district to get re-imbursement. Do state officials feel that Mass Feeding Corporations' lunch provides adequate portions for junior high school children?

Without re-imbursement, District 59 could lose as much as $3,600 at Dempster Junior High School. However, full reimbursement is expected for children who participate at Salt Creek Elementary School.

HERBERT VIRNIG, president of Mass Feeding Corporation, told the board that Des Plaines District 62, which is using Mass Feeding's hot lunch program at Iroquois School, had removed vending machines for items which were "in conflict" with the hot lunch program, but still sold such items as potato chips and soft drinks through vending machines. He said this was acceptable to state officials.

Virnig said that District 59 would not lose money on the program.

School-Community Council representatives presented a letter to board members asking that the hot lunch program be made available to all four junior high schools.

Annex Bill Draws Fire

By Ben Clarke

An Illinois bill that has been passed by both houses of the General Assembly, providing for annexation of surrounded territory, is the target of objections by the Parkview Homeowners Assn. and by United Air Lines.

The bill (H. B. 1819) has been sent to Gov. Richard Ogilvie for his approval, but has not yet been signed into law.

It amends a section of the municipal code of the Illinois Revised Statutes, raising from 60 acres to 120 acres the area of a piece of unincorporated territory in Cook County that can be involuntarily annexed when wholly surrounded.

The pertinent portion of the amended section if approved would read, "Whenever any unincorporated territory containing 120 acres or less, which is located wholly or partially within any county having 1,000,000 or more inhabitants,...is wholly bounded by a) one or more municipalities, b) one or more municipalities and a river or lake, c) one or more municipalities and the Illinois State boundary, or d) one or more municipalities and property owned by the State of Illinois, except highway right-of-way owned in fee by the state, that territory may be annexed by any municipality by which it is bounded in whole or in part, by the passage of an ordinance to that effect after notice is given as provided in this section."

THE BILL provides that authorities of the annexing municipality must publish notice in a local newpaper, stating that annexation is contemplated, not less than 10 days before passage of the annexation ordinance.

The ordinance must describe the territory, and be filed with a map of the territory in the office of the recorder of deeds for the county.

Edward Branand, regional manager of community relations for United Air Lines, said that he had talked to Mrs. Georgeann Gardner, president of the Parkview Assn., but that his company had taken no action on H.B. 1819.

He would say only, "We are opposed to any legislation involving involuntary annexation."

He did add that the land at

Elk Grove GOP Names Con-Con Chairman

Kenneth Kazmar of Mount Prospect Tuesday was named Con-Con campaign chairman of the Elk Grove Township Republican organization.

The appointment was announced by Carl R. Hansen of Mount Prospect, Republican committeeman of Elk Grove Township.

Two weeks ago Hansen's township party organization became the first in the 3rd district which extends from Des Plaines to Barrington to endorse candidates for the two constitutional convention seats allotted to the northwest suburbs.

ELK GROVE Republicans endorsed Mrs. Virginia Macdonald of Arlington Heights and William Engelhardt of Inverness.

Kazmar, long prominent in the work of tha Elk Grove Township Regular GOP organization, will coordinate the campaign efforts in behalf of the endorsed candidates. Ha is currently precinct captain in Precinct 45.

"I am delighted to be named township coordinator for Mrs. Macdonald and Mr. Engelhardt," Kazmar said Tuesday.

"BOTH CANDIDATES were not only endorsed by our township organization but earlier by the Cook County Republican Central Committee. These candidates have since been endorsed by a number of other township organizations in the 3rd district."

Kazmar said that he is organizing a special group of volunteers to work for the largest possible vote from the township for Mrs. Macdonald and Engelhardt.

THE CAMPAIGN in Elk Grove Township will be centered in a series of home coffees that will extend from Des Plaines to Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove Village.

"We want as many voters in Elk Grove Township as possible to meet these candidates personally," said Coordinator Kazmar.

"THE FIRST phase of this work will begin at once in order to help Mrs. Macdonald and Mr. Engelhardt win in the primary this month. We will then extend and expand our efforts in their behalf during October and early November in order to support their candidacy in the November regular election."

"The board has spent a great deal of time on this.

THE QUESTION really is: Does the board have the power to make reasonable rules, or doesn't it?

"Once the board has approved the dress code, either it applies to all students or we don't have a dress code. We are now focusing our attention solely on the dress code subdivision which applies to haircuts.

"The handbook with the dress code included was mailed out to all students about two weeks before registration."

David and his parents expect to be in court tomorrow morning. His hair still is long. He is still not attending school.

"I think it means so much to him," said his mother. "It's a matter of principle. Your hair is no part of the learning process."

"WE'VE HAD hundreds of these complaints throughout the state of Illinois," said Jay A. Miller, the ACLU executive. "Wa took David Miller's case as a selective case. It's our hope that it will be the test case in the courts.

"The reason we're so interested," he continued, "is that this is an abuse of individual rights.

"SCHOOLS do not practice what they are teaching about the Bill of Rights.

"But schools just have a different relationship today.

"The parent has an individual relationship with his child, but schools are a fairly rigid bureaucracy.

"Rules are made that have nothing to do with individual children. Wa are forced conformity.

"If we keep going, we're going to get a population that doesn't believe in individuality, but only in authority of the state agency they're dealing with."

Fan Burns

Fire caused minor damage late yesterday on the roof of Beverly Lanes, 8 S. Beverly, Arlington Heights.

Firemen confined the blaze to a large exhaust fan. The blaze, according to firemen, was apparently caused by a short circuit in the fan's motor.

The fire went unnoticed by most of the bowlers inside the building.

Out-of-Town Artists Win

Out-of-town artists walked off with most of the prizes in Sunday's 14th annual Des Plaines Art Fair, sponsored by the Des Plaines Art Guild.

Two fishing scenes by George Sperl of Gary, Ind., won the top prize, the purchase award of tha Des Plaines National Bank. Soerl received $150 for the paintings, which will hang in the bank's conference room.

Winners were chosen in three categories, with prizes of $25, $15 and $10 being offered by the Art Guild to the top three winners. Those named for honorable mention received ribbons.

IN ADDITION, two visitors received art prizes after their names were chosen in a drawing. Mrs. John L. Means, 1061 Alfini Dr., Des Plaines, won an acrylic by Helen Van Tempera and Mrs. Joan Budris of Chicago won an oil painting by Milmi Wheeler.

Winners in the three categories were:

Oils—Naomi Sennett, Highland Park, first; Milvi Wheeler, Deerfield, second; Allan Swanson, Tolono, Ill., third; Joan Budris, Chicago and Natalie Jones, Lisle, honorable mention.

WATERCOLORS — John Runions, Oak Park, first; Ross Shellenberger, Libertyville, second; Jeanne Kramer, Des Plaines, third; Mike Daumer, Hammond, Ind., and George Sperl, Gary, Ind., honorable mention.

Mixad Media—Lorraine McClintock, Wauwatosa, Wis., ceramics, first; Linda Kussa, Des Plaines, enamel on copper, second; Lois Baldwin, Arlington Heights, metal sculpture, third; Donna Woody, Palos, oil on wood, and Joyce Schwartz, Northbrook, sculpture, honorable mention.

Judges were David Wahlgren, Robert Cobb and Kermit Lindberg of the Maine East High School faculty.

Annex Bill Protested

Algonquin and Linneman is the main company property that would be involved.

The United Air Lines property is a 72.2-acre parcel south of Mount Prospect, between Algonquin and Dempster and west of Linneman Rd., where the company's executive offices and stewardess training center is located.

MRS. GARDNER said that she had written tha governor in August, in a letter that has the approval of the Parkview Homeowners Assn. She cited her five objections to the bill:

—Municipalities can engulf an entire unincorporated residential community, 120 acres at a time.

—Legislation of this type will discourage large companies from moving to Illinois.

—Most plants of this size (up to 120 acres) operate completely independent of municipal services, therefore annexation would provide the municipality with increased tax revenue, but offer no advantage to industry.

—No provision is made that the newly-annexed territory can be provided with adequate services from the municipality. She said this would be expecially true if the annexing municipality were a small one.

—The legislation unfairly discriminates against property owners in Cook County. (H.B. 1819 provides for annexation for parcels 60 acres or less in all counties with less than one million population.)

Park Approves $40,920 Tax Levy

By Ben Clarke

The Prospect Heights Park District board Monday night approved a tax levy of $40,920 to implement the district's 1969-70 budget for the fiscal year starting July 1, 1969 and ending June 30, 1970.

The levy, a copy of which will be filed with the Cook County Clerk, listed the following items: for corporate purposes, $23,000; recreation purposes, $15,000; auditing expense, $250; lighting and pavement for streets and playgrounds owned by the park district, $1,000; and liability insurance, $1,670.

JOHN HAAS, park district attorney, noted that the 1968-69 levy was $33,000, and said that biggest increase was in the recreation account where the levy was increased 50 per cent as allowed under a new law.

Other items adding to the expense were the levies for auditing expense, lighting and paving and liability insurance. Haas said these were allowed by law but not levied last year.

BOARD MEMBER Lewis Wolthausen said that he had been contacted by a resident who said that she and others were obtaining signatures on a petition to ask county authorities for a footpath parallel to Camp McDonald Rd. on its north side, from Elmhurst Rd. to Schoenbeck Rd. for children attending the new Eisenhower Elementary School.

He said that the petitioners were seeking park district support of the plan where the proposed path would cut across the Lions Park property on Camp McDonald Rd.

Wolthausen said that he recommended support of the pathway if it could be placed across the park district's three lots within the lot line. He said he believed the land between the road's edge and a line about 17 feet in was county property.

IN A COMMITTEE report Wolthausen said that the Lions Park pool is being pumped dry so the pool bottom may be repaired.

Mrs. Rosemary Roth read a letter from Mrs. R. M. Campbell Jr. of 802 Bonniabrook Dr., expressing appreciation for the manner in which the park district swimming team and swim program was handled by pool manager Jay Magnuson.

RECREATION Director Ronald Greenberg then asked consideration of the pool manager contract for the 1970 season, noting that Magnuson was interested in the post at an increase in salary.

Board members agreed that Magnuson had done a good job, but felt the selection of a manager should be deferred until early in 1970.

GREENBERG ASKED authorization of expenditure of $200 for the district's flag football program tentatively scheduled to begin Sept. 20. An initial expenditure of $100 was allowed. Greenberg said that there was a possibility that baton lessons would also be included in tha fall recreation program.

"It's too bad that at the end of your life you have to leave with a bad taste in your mouth. After a whole life of working, to come to this!"

It's a fact reported recently by a special United States Senate task force: Three out of ten Americans 65 and older are living in poverty. Many others are desperately and bitterly close to the poverty line.

"Today's inadequacies in retirement income," the report concludes, "should be of direct concern not only to our population of aged and aging Americans, but also to those in middle age and younger."

DOCTOR SAYS

Intestines Need Food At Regular Intervals

W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q–What is meant by pulmonary edema and myocarditis!

A–Pulmonary edema is waterlogging of the lungs, usually caused by a leaky heart valve. Myocarditis is an inflammation of the heart muscle.

Q–What is an intestinal loop? What is the best treatment for it?

A–Since the intestines are about 30 feet long, they rest in the abdomen in loops a normal condition. The best treatment is to see that some food reaches them at fairly regular intervals.

Q–After an examination, my doctor wrote this on my insurance form: "Rule out melena." What does that mean?

A–Melena is blood in the stools which is black because it originates high in the digestive tract and has been exposed to the digestive juices. The commonest causes are bleeding peptic ulcer and cirrhosis of the liver with bleeding varicose veins in the esophagus. I hope your doctor succeeded in ruling it out.

Q–No matter how often I brush my teeth or use a mouthwash my breath is still bad. My dentist says it is not from my teeth. What could be the cause and what can I do for it?

A–Bad breath may be caused by chronic rhinitis, sinustis or lung disease. Some drugs taken regularly can cause it. So, if you are taking any drug, try stopping it for a week and see whether there is any improvement. Some persons in whom no other cause can be found have a chronically dry mouth due to nervous tension. In such cases learning to be more relaxed and drinking a little water several times a day will cure the condition.

In some others, all that is necessary is to exhale to the maximum two or three times a day to clear out the residual air in the lungs.

Q–Do radioactive cobalt treatments given for Hodgkin's disease cause any side effects?

A–Radioactive cobalt is similar in its effect to deep X-ray therapy. Although large doses may cause nausea, diarrhea and skin burns, great improvements in equipment and technique have enabled doctors to keep the dosage within safe limits. You should bear in mind that a life-threatening disease calls for heroic treatment and justifies greater risks than would be taken for a less serious illness.

Q-Does a ruptured blood vessel in the eye mean a slight stroke?

A-Hemorrhage into the conjunctiva or any part of the eye, when not caused by a blow, is usually associated with some hardening of the arteries. In this sense it is similar to a stroke, but in a different location as a stroke would occur in the brain.

Q-An ophthalmologist told me I had ametropia but he didn't prescribe any treatment. He just said to come back in three months. What do you advise?

A-Ametropia is a general term for an error of refraction (near-or farsighted-ness). Since no treatment was suggested, your case is probably mild. I would advise going back for a checkup at the suggested time.

Q-My mother has bilateral aphakia. What does that mean? Can anything be done for it?

A-This is a congential lack of a crystalline lens in both eyes. A person with this defect would have to wear the kind of glasses prescribed for one who has had both lenses removed because of cataracts.

Q-What would cause a cyst under the eyelid? Is surgery necessary? If neglected would the sight be lost?

A-This is generally called a chalazion and is caused by a stoppage of the duct of one of the oil glands in the lids. Small cysts will sometimes disappear with the application of hot compresses or yellow oxide of mercury ointment but, if this doesn't work, the cyst must be opened and drained. Treated or not, it is no threat to your sight.

Day Light

A Local Affair

By Joseph Stubenrauch

A campaign promise made by Governor Richard Ogilvie was fulfilled last Friday, when he signed into law a measure setting up a state department of local government affairs.

Effective Jan. 2, the new department will be staffed by about 100 employes, most of them job-holders in existing agencies, who will operate four offices: community services, research and planning, housing and buildings and financial affairs. The governor's expectation is that the new department will "promote and strengthen the cause of home rule."

ANY TIME ANY office-holder sets out to fulfill a campaign promise, especially one with a sensible goal such as this one seems to be, his action is to be applauded. Always with the voters watching to see how the actual operation works out.

Back in June, The Day reported an address by Michael J. Howlett, state auditor of public accounts, to a conference of municipal officials in Springfield during which Howlett urged more power for cities and villages so they could solve some of their problems at the local level.

He said some of the General Assembly tasks should be handled at the local level, and he deplored the tendency to look to Springfield or even to Washington for solutions for water pollution, sanitation, congestion, transportation and other details.

"To meet and solve these problems, local governments must be given the jurisdiction and the responsibility to raise the money to pay the costs, he said.

THIS TIES IN with the charge by County Commissioner Floyd T. Fulle of Des Plaines in late August that the Cook County board of commissioners is "grossly malapportioned" and the suburban area lacking representation. Among proposals aimed at remedying the situation, Fulle offered ideas about a new way of electing the officials based on population, impact of the decisions affecting the suburbs and suburban area size.

We find ourselves agreeing with all three officials on the basic principle of more home rule for the suburban area, particularly our own area which is in the midst of a tremendous growth explosion.

We find ourselves, however, nursing a reluctant fear that unless the new "Local Affairs" set-up is handled with proper impartiality, it may go the way of all organizations, no matter how well-intentioned, which eventually get absorbed into the bureaucratic structure.

PURELY AS A cautionary hint, we invite all those concerned to get and read the "Research and Development Activities of Local Governments" for fiscal years 1966 and 1967, just issued by the National Science Foundation. An excellent job, all 60 pages, complete with many statistical tables.

Also, get and read the Aug. 19 statement by Labor Secretary George P. Shultz on the Importance of Statistics in Government Decision-Making, also a prudent survey of the need for basing action on "the most competent and objective evaluation of all available evidence."

Labor, health, education and other processes are involved in the two discussions mentioned. There are many other sources which willing researchers in the Illinois Local Affairs department can and should unearth, to help guide them, and to avoid duplication of work.

How many of them know, for instance, that, excepting the National Science Foundation figures, which probably are accurate for the period, local governments performed 80 per cent of the R&D work themselves with industrial firms doing the next largest share, 7 per cent? Or that, on the other hand, local governments provided only 35 per cent of the funds for their R&D efforts while federal agencies furnished the bulk, 56 per cent?

THIS LAST figure alone should stimulate our thinking. You may have read the biting verse in the National Review quite a while back which started: "As long as you're up, get me a Federal grant..." Handouts of cash and financing by the central government are frequently well-intentioned, usually accepted gratefully, and it is easy for Big Brother to ease into the take-over spot on almost any such supported project.

Some projects, indeed, do not seem capable of being handled without an over-riding central guidance. Nobody is setting out on a crusade on a white charger these days just to be on the side of virtue, pure and simple. More than ever before, what is needed is sober, careful study of both sides of every major issue.

The matter of home rule is such an item, which calls for evaluation by officials involved as well as by taxpayers in the communities concerned.

Therefore, in certain cases, no big sprawling federal survey is called for to find out what to do about, say, mosquito abatement in this area, when we have a well-organized suburban commission already working on the problem. It might help to write a letter to some bureau on the banks of the Potomac to find out what they're doing about it in other states or cities.

A simple poll of homeowners in some communities, house by house, may tell more about how to solve a local headache such as vandalism, highway repairs or area water or air pollution than elaborate charts and surveys.

We wish the new department of local affairs a future, bright with success.

Day by Day

Little Princesses

By Catherine O'Donnell

It is most unusual in this society of ours for girls to be doing things and going places with their fathers.

Usually dear old pop is out with the Little Leaguer, coaching the Midget football team or waiting poolside for a potential Johnny Weismuller to surface.

The girls are off with Mother at scouts, shopping, camping or at various teeth straightening sessions or limb bending lessons.

Father never realizes what is happening until he answers the doorbell one night and is greeted by a high-school-size boy peering through long bangs who announces, "I came to pick up—what's her name." Pop is usually shocked into speechlessness as he realizes that time has thundered on and his little girl is now a big girl.

"And I never really got to know her," he laments.

THAT WAS ALL changed about a year ago for a large group of residents when the local YMCA started a feminine version of the Indian Guides. The new group is called the Indian Princesses and in its short existence it has grown into a large-size Indian community.

There are 15 tribes with seven or eight families in each one. The tribes consist of a father and a daughter. The father enrolls at the same time as his daughter and must attend all meetings with her. The age of the girls depends on their grade in elementary school.

The girls and their dads sit together at meetings and read the Indian Princess pledge together. The pledge gives the aims of the program 1) To be clean in body and pure in heart, 2) To be friends with my dad/daughter, 3) To love the sacred circle of our family, 4) To be attentive when others speak, 5) To love my neighbor as myself and 6) To see and preserve the beauty of the Great Spirit's work in forest, field and stream.

They meet in each other's homes and they play games, learn handcrafts, rehearse songs.

Three times a year, the dads and daughters go to one of the three campsites provided by the Y. The local Princesses were at Camp Hastings in Ravenswood this past summer.

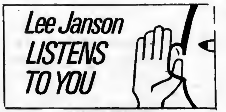
The tribes are filled with Indian atmosphere and legend. The names of the Indian Princess tribes and their chiefs are Kickapoo, Norman Patberg and the Illinois, George Wagher. (Unless otherwise noted the chiefs are all from Arlington Heights.) There is the Wapela, Al Carpenter of Mount Prospect; Sauk, Peter Kay; Apache, Roland Webb of Mount Prospect; Sioux, Jim Krezowski; Fox, Roy Nelson, Des Plaines; Chippewa, James Breedlove; Blackfoot, Vic Kahn; Flathead, Dan Krysk; Cherokee, Bruce Baily; Petoskey, Roland Delieoiere; Crow, Bard Salmon; Comanche, Len Wegryn, and Arapahee, George Studtmann of Mount Prospect.

THE FOUNDERS of the local group are Ray McDonald, Dean Thomas, Bob Carstens, Carl Hoglund of Mount Prospect, Tom Hiniger, Ron Sparks and Howard Gould. The director of the Indian and Princess Guides at the Northwest Hwy., Des Plaines, YMCA is John Eliot.

On Tuesday, Sept. 16, at Thomas Junior High and again on Wednesday, Sept. 17, at Algonquin Junior, a drive for new members will begin. Any girls who wants to join should come to the meeting with her dad.

"We will explain the program and what we hope to accomplish," Bob Carstens said. "Basically it is a busy man program. We provide a meeting place where fathers and daughters can multiply the number of things they can do together. We feel that for every father and daughter, there is a time to go places and do things together and a time to be friends."

Anyone wanting more information can call the Y at 296-3376. All girls and their dads are invited.



Lee Janson LISTENS TO YOU

HOW DO I STOP HIM?

Dear Lee Janson,

My boyfriend swears all the time. This bothers me a great deal. I never liked to hear swear words. He doesn't seem to have any other irritating faults. In fact, he's a wonderful guy, and I like him very much. I just wish he wouldn't swear so much.

Irritated, Hoffman Estates

If you won't tell him, I will. Bill, cut out the swearing. It's juvenile, and you're no juvenile.

PASSIONATE TEASE

Dear Lee Janson,

The girl I've been going out with is a tease. She pretends to promise lots of things, and then doesn't deliver. When we park, she begins necking up a storm, and then suddenly she quits. That's when I go crazy. Even though she can stop, it's not nearly so easy for me.

I haven't gone out with many girls, but I never met one like this before. How come she's so passionate if she doesn't intend to keep going? How can she change so quickly?

I really dig this chick, and I don't want to lose her. The way these nights end, though, I mean, like wow. I can't stand much more.

All Shook Up, Arlington

Like wow, is right! You're on a collision course. Quit playing "Chicken."

JUNIOR INVESTOR

Dear Lee Janson,

I've earned some money on a paper route, and I want to invest it. I've been studying about the stock market. I want to buy some stock. Can a 14-year-old boy buy stocks? Do you think this is a good idea?

Paper Boy, Mount Prospect

It's a great idea. You can't buy the stock yourself, but you and your dad or mom can get a custodian account. You and your parents should visit a stock broker to get started. You'll have more fun watching your money grow if you invest in a company which sells to the teen-age crowd.

If you like orange juice...

You'll love orange NiP

In fact, even if you don't like frozen orange concentrates, we know you'll love Orange Nip's unique blend from Florida's finest juice oranges. Slightly sweetened, too, and with added Vitamin C for extra goodness. Unconditionally guaranteed by Ben Hill Griffin.

Three Looms Keeps Mrs. Joseph Falloon Busy

Mrs. Joseph Falloon of Arlington Heights uses three looms to do various kinds of weaving.

by Lois Hutchison

A person with a hobby usually finds it provides comfort and relaxation from an otherwise hectic and busy life. But sometimes a hobby becomes part of that busy life as it leads to sharing with others the joy of the activity.

Painting, sculpturing, mosaics and ceramics are art forms which are known to most of us and have become hobbies for many people, but most are unaware that handweaving is one of the oldest of art forms. Beautiful fabrics with intricate designs can be made on a loom.

Mrs. Joseph Falloon of Arlington Heights has a talent for weaving which has led her in many directions. It all began with a summer job offered to her after her first year of teaching art.

A GIRL'S camp needed a weaving counselor, and she took the job, although she knew nothing about weaving. For two weeks Ginny spent eight hours a day with a woman who taught her how to thread a loom and make small rugs and simple linen place mats, which is what she taught the girls at camp.

After that summer teaching job, marriage and raising a family put weaving in the background for more than ten years. When Ginny's husband and two boys became involved in scouting and camping, she at last had some free time and returned to weaving through a course. She wasy busy making fabrics before the week was out. At the time she wove mats with delicate border designs, any scarves and stoles in wools of various weights and baby blankets.

The desire for a greater challenge grew stronger. Ginny joined the Michigan Weavers Guild in Dearborn, Mich., where they lived. These programs given by teachers and artists taught her the more complicated phases of what has now become her hobby.

BY THIS TIME Ginny had two looms, one a small metal table-top model which she still uses for teaching Scout troops and neighborhood youngsters the basics of weaving. The other is a 20-inch floor loowm which requires using the feet on pedals (similar to an organ) to produce the pattern on the fabric. This is called a hand loom and the art is called handweaving. The finished articles are described as handwoven.

It was on the 20-inch loom that Mrs. Falloon first attempted weaving suit material. Because of the narrow width she had to weave 11 yards of fabric. Then another of her talents, sewing, was combined with her hobby as she made herself a suit from the fabric. Since then she has made several outfits in plaid pattarns as well as plain.

Each pattern is charted on graph paper. As it is worked out, the design is placed in a book so that there is a permanent record of each project, with a swatch of fabric stapled to the record.

Once Giany created a plaid pattern for a suit out of leftover yarns. Finding she did not have enough yardage for the entire suit, she cleverly employed a third talent and knitted the sleeves and jacket back to make a striking outfit.

Aside from the fun and joy of creating something, Ginny feels that the close concentration needed for weaving is marvelous therapy.

"There is no time to think about your problems or worries because it requires intense concentration to complete the pattern without making mistakes," she said.

As her boys grew, Ginny began to spend several hours a week at the Presbyterian Village in Detroit, a home for the elderly, teaching the art of weaving in the physical therapy department where there were looms available. Even the wheelchair patients could manipulate the table looms.

ONE WOMAN who complained bitterly about the pain of exercising her leg, which had been broken, became so absorbed in the pattern of her fabric that her feet fairly danced on the loom pedals. "She was exercising without even realizing it," Giny said.

The biggest weaving project Ginny ever started began shortly after the Falloons moved to Arlington Heights. She had searched everywhere for loosely woven off-white drapes for the family room, but to no avail. Since she had acquired a third loom 36 inches wide, she decided to weave her own fabric.

Choosing a combination of white linen and yellow threads she finished 50 yards of material over a period of several months, and had it made into drapes. She does not recommend this large an undertaking, however, as it became quite boring.

WHEN ONE SON married and the other went off to college, Giany again began using her hobby to serve others. Her talent for teaching and working with the elderly has taken her to the Lutheran Home for the Aged in Arlington Heights. Under her guidance two women have learned to weave rag rugs, taking orders for them and working to size and color specifications. In two years they have made and sold more than 30 of these rugs.

This year Mrs. Falloon has pursued fuller knowledge of her craft by taking a course in weaving and stained glass at the Countryside Art Gallery, of which she is a member. On a small tapestry loom which she built herself from 90 cents worth of wood, popsicle sticks, string and glue, she has woven a vari-colored decorative tapestry which she plans to hang in her family room. When that was finished, she learned the art of making stained glass objects, something more akin to the period of time when she learned to make jewelry.

Mrs. Falloon feels, "The fascinating thing about weaving is that each article requires its own treatment, some little thing different than any other." As with every art form, there is "something very satisfying about working with your hands, creating something beautiful and pleasing."

For Young Swingers

Think Big For Fall

This handsome giant-sized vagabond handbag in glossy Merino polish, vinyl with the look of fine calf, is so right for tweeds, plaids and other autumn apparel. The bag offers five pockets for interior contents. Shiny gilt buckle re-emphasizes gloss of the bag. Costume by Don Simonelli for Modelia. Handbag by Jaclyn in black, sable, cognac and birchwood, about $9 at leading stores.

Think big, think casual, think sleek--and you have the style that's in the bag for fall '69.

The trend continues toward the casual handbag, its shape easy and uncluttered, its detailing sleek and its size more often than not tending to be bigger. From handbag creator Jaclyn comes a collection oriented to the casual mood of daytime wear for fall.

AIMED AT THE young swingers who wear the pants these days are a variety of dashing bags. Sometimes on shoulder straps, sometimes swinging from neat top handles, they are fresh and sassy in their approach and make a point of being "with it."

Starring in the pants-suit bag life is a collection of satchels in leather-look vinyl with a textured grain, ranging in size from mini to midi but always touched with such accents as buckles, belting and glossy metal trim.

Jaclyn gives a faintly foreign flavor of chic to a trio of bags destined to partner with pants, maxi coats and all of the other items of apparel that say fall '69. An oval satchel borrows its trim from the wingtips of a man's walking shoe. A long, lean bag outlines its outer pocket with perforations, adding two gilt-buckled belting straps on the vertical. A bracelet-handled handbag, almost pyramid in shape, treats its belting trim to the multistudding of tiny nailheads. In merino, a vinyl look-alike for leather with a purposely shiny sheen, these bags are ideal mates for the heathery tweeds and dull-surfaced knits of the season.

THE FLIGHT bag, too, puts in its appearance for fall, but with new and newsy mannerisms such as silver buckles, links and zippers. In the same soft yet casual feeling are the vagabonds and flat squashy bags on short shoulder straps, outfitted with removable mirrors or notebooks in their outside pockets. These bags-plus are a natural for back-to-school as well as for the twenty-plus suburbanites and career girls who like to go out fully equipped.

In the handbag world, fall fashions also come in box shapes, interpreted both in smooth leather-like vinyl and in shiny patent vinyl. For gloss and gleam, Jaclyn provides a fabulous group of fakes, including alligator, lizard, snake and monster grain as well as spit 'n polish crushed vinyl patent, perfect against the backdrop of any daytime costume.

No wardrobe is complete without the giant that can double as hand luggage. A collection of maxi bags in varied shapes and in colorful cut velvet as well as leather-look vinyl fills the fashion bill. In the luggage mood is such detailing as giant-size trunk locks, perforated trim and deliberately heavy topstitching.

DRESSIER OCCASIONS demand dressier handbags, interpreted in a group of slender bags in calf-look vinyl, their only trim their handsome frames and locks.

Attuned to autumn's colors, the Jaclyn collection stresses various shades of the brown family, from deep sable and russety cognac, to the paler toned birchwood that resembles taupe, to golden nugget, a true tan. From the most casual to the dressiest bags, black makes a strong fashion statement.

'Y' Dance Class a Hit With Adults

Not for kids, but adults who do not want to be square, the mod dance course at the Northwest Suburban YMCA in Des Plaines is tops in popularity!

According to Grace V. Hansen, YMCA Dance Director, adults love the exercise and the free style dance to rock music. It is relaxing and great fun; besides, it is a wonderful ice breaker for parties.

Mrs. Hansen has just returned from New York where she attended a national dance teacher convention. She will present all the latest and newest discotheque dances such as the "Nancy Sinatra" to her mod classes at the Y beginning Thursday, Sept. 11. These seven-week courses are open to all adults, 16 years old and up.

Eleven new ballroom classes for junior high and high school students and adults are scheduled to begin Monday, Sept. 8, Thursday, Sept. 11, and Friday, Sept. 12. Nine adult classes will be conducted on a graded system.

Four dinner dances will be held this season for adults to dine and practice their dance steps. Junior high and high school students enrolled in the dance classes may attend teen nights the fourth Saturday of each month free of charge.

For further information call the Northwest Suburban YMCA in Des Plaines, 296-3376.

Wayside Ladies to Get Acquainted

The religion study club plans an organizational meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 23, at 9:30 a.m. at the home of its chairman, Mrs. Donald Hillenmayer. Club members interested in attending should call 255-7586.

THE YOUTH STUDY club will have its first meeting Tuesday, Oct. 7, at the home of Mrs. James Pindras. Chairman, Mrs. William Hessel, has chosen the book, "Between Parent and Child" by H. G. Ginott as the subject for discussion at the first meetng.

Foliage Adds Freshness

Cut green foliage brings freshness and drama to a room at minimum expenditure of both time and money, says the Society of American Florists. If you are an apartment dweller, or have a small garden with only a few shrubs and trees, by all means get acquainted with your florist this fall and winter. He sells a wide variety of foliage and greenery at modest prices. Most cut greenery is so long lasting you'll feel your money is well spent.

Foliage with woody branches will last an astonishingly long time if you remember this one essential rule: before arranging, pound the branch ends with hammer or mallet, and scrape off a few inches of bark. This allows for maximum water intake and many days of crisp, fresh greenery.

Sale Rummage

Rolling Meadows Juniors Begin 15th Year

Beginning the 15th year of the Rolling Meadows Junior Woman's Club, Mrs. Walter Sergot, president, presented special recognitions to two members at the Sept. 8 meeting. "Outstanding Chairman" honored the ways and means chairman Mrs. Ronald Rakstang, and "Chairman of the Month" went to social and courtesy chairman Mrs. Ernest Gyenes.

Mrs. Rakstang spent many summer hours overseeing the bratwurst booth operations for the city's West Fest Days and organizing the annual Gas Pump Jamboree. These projects were the major fund-raising events for the Juniors, and provided funds for the club's philanthropies.

Mrs. Gyenes hosted a Garden Walk at her home for 70 guests. The 13th annual Garden Walk had an Italian fiesta theme.

"THERE IS NO better way to celebrate 15 years then to reward your workers," says Mrs. Sergot. "Each member has given full club support, and the club anticipates a very successful 1969-70 club year."

The Juniors are affiliated with the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs. Meetings are held during the evening hours on the second Monday of each month. Application for membership may be made by contacting Mrs. Lawrence Kellerman at 392-7571.

The House on Elm Street

By Gerry Walsh

I have lived in a city two-flat a bungalow (remember?), a huge apartment with courts, a large southern colonial with four porches, a modern six-apartment building, a Gold Coast hotel, an old grey-stone apartment, a rented room and a tent (briefly).

Then I got married and began all over again. A four-room apartment, (rent $47.50 a month), a tiny frame four-room house, an in-laws' back room, a five-tiny-room townhouse, two huge Victorian homes (70-year-old houses), a modern ranch and now a typical suburban "colonial."

So I am an "authority" on houses, due to my years of various experience. Right?

IT IS MY brother who has the degree in architectural engineering--and I say, Bah! What do you modern students, with your blueprints know? Don't tell me, I've been there.

All the exposure should lead to the question, "What is the best type of home?"

I have my answer, and I think it is a valid one for many families.

The best home for a growing family of moderate means is the "house on Elm Street." You know what that is, unless you are too young to be buying a home. It is the big, old house on a tree-lined street close to town.

It has so many advantages. The kids can walk to almost everything; it has space; it has a screened porch, which should sound pretty great to everyone in these parts after our plague of mosquitoes and rainy weekends. No home is complete without a porch. Unfortunately, modern architects don't know this! To patios I say, "Bah, humbug"; not for this part of the country.

THE "HOUSE on Elm Street" has storage space, and living space for everything and everyone, even Grandma. I actually had empty drawers and closets with a family of six, because there were eight built-in drawers plus two huge built-in cabinets in the upstairs hall. No linen closet can compete with that.

We also had five bedrooms, each with a walk-in closet. When every kid has their own room, fighting is cut in half.

We also had a real attic, dirty and cluttered, for rainy days or any boring day. It was filled with old clothes, secret hiding places, old books and old everything.

The poor neighborhood kids, who lived in expensive new homes without attics, loved that wonderful place almost more than my kids did. Some had never seen a real attic before.

I OFTEN HAD six or more little friends in this big old house, and a mother would call to inquire if her boy was there; and I would answer, "Just a moment--I'll look."

This never could happen in a new home, especially a ranch! You know who's there--they are under your feet!

Also, we had a large, old-fashioned dining-room, great for holiday dinners for the whole clan. It held an upright piano which we felt was too hideous for our 30-foot living room. At times, it held stacks of Girl Scout cookies--500 boxes!

It was used for sewing, homework and committee meetings. We never ate there, except on occasions, for we had an ample "breakfast nook"--a room that should be revived.

Our basement was a REAL basement. It was rarely cleaned. It was good for puppies, hamsters, ducks, washing, Cub Scout meetings and getting cool. Actually, the whole house was cool all summer. There was no air conditioning, but the house was shaded, three stories high and very well insulated.

TO BUY A home today that had all these features for comfortable living would cost a fortune. That house cost less than half of the home I live in today.

But then hubby was young, enthusiastic, and handy with the decorating. I valued space and comfort, and the house was a great challenge to furnish attractively.

If you can find and love a "house on Elm Street," you'll never be sorry, and your kids will remember it always.

Rep. Eugenia Chapman (D-Arlington Heights) will be the featured speaker for the Mount Prospect Business and Professional Women's Club Sept. 11 meeting to be held at the Citation Room, Carousel Restaurant. School Starts, Business Slacks Off

Movers Settle In After Busy Season

By Darlene Mitchell

The dust is settling in the northwest suburbs and all over the world from thousands uf moving van tires.

Just ending is the busiest season of the year for the transporting of household furnishings from hither to yon. Next year it may be moving the same family from yon to hither, but chances are, it will be done between May and September when children are uut of school.

"I believe the trend is for a full school year," said Don Terry, vice president of Rothery Storage & Van Co., 1300 Jefferson, Des Plaines, and 1525 Chase, Elk Grove Village. "It would be the answer for movers, also for builders, pediatricians, airlines and builders, among others."

"STAGGERED school terms would help," agreed Ed Piepenbrink, owoer of Piepenbrink Movers, Inc.; 3831 Industrial Av., Rolling Meadows. "We've tried lower rates for winter moves, which the military does take advantage of when they qualify."

Terry tells of occasions when a builder has promised that a new bouse would be ready, so the family sets the moving delivery data. "But upon arrival, the driver sees that a mud road is the only approach. He can't drive the heavy van into that, so the load must be put into storage."

More than half of all household van moving expense is paid by the husband's employer, according to Terry. "Peope just cao't afford to pay the charges," he said. "Our costs have gone up because of labor union, taxes and equipment. Twenty years ago, a good truck would cost $200. Now it's $35,000, plus over $3,000 of equipment inside."

SOME TRUCK cabs now include air conditioning and tape players. Telephones are soon to be added by Rothery, ageneies service for Atlas Van Lines, Ine. An air-ride improvement of the last five years shoots air into the shock absorbers of the truck trailer for a smoother ride.

Any device which help the moving crew to keep their cool should he of help in customer relations.

"It's a hugh emotional period," commented Terry. "The family members are leaving their friends and homa, plus the extra expenses involved."

AFTER A recent moving job, the lady of the house called the firm, Terry related, "She screamed bloody murder because a purse and green stamps whicb she said had been on a dresser were missing.

"She stopped payment on the check for our work. In a couple of days she contacted us, ready to die of embarrassment. Her elderly mother had seen the purse and apparently decided to make sure of its safe delivery. She had wrapped the purse io about 18 changes of underwear and put it in her own dresser drawer. Then the mother had forgotten about it."

Fred Bell, national sales manager of Fernstrom Moving System, 5600 N. River Rd., expressed the opinion that although there is anxiety the first time a familiy moves, it is not as bad after that.

HIS ADVICE is for people to get rid of unneeded items as soon as they know they're going to move. "Weight and miles add up to money," he said.

Bell emphasized that estimates can be misleading. "Often we are shown through a house, but are told that a certain room or two of furoiture won't be moved. When the truck arrives, these room contents are included.

"It seems that the owner intended to give the set uf bedroom furniture to a married daughter or son in the area. But they don't want the old set," Bell said.

PEOPLE OWN more furniture now, but most pieces weigh less, according to Chuck Lee, officer manager for Morgan Storage & Van Co., Inc., 1215 Rand Rd. "One of the old-type oak dressers weighed 1,000 pounds," he estimated, "but now, dressers are from 150 to 175 pounds in weight."

Lee tells a story on himself, which happened in his earlier days as a moving man. "We had the van full when the lady of the house came out with a large picture wobbling in her hands. It looked like one of those Budweiser scenes.

"It was too large for her to put in her car, and there was no room to pack it into the van, so I flipped it on top of the load.

"When we arrived at our destination, she told me she was pleased that it had traveled well, for she had just paid $3,000 for the painting at an auction."

MOVERS ARE becoming very professional these days with all sorts of furniture padding and packing equipment.

"Soma people think the men are packing too slowly - but they are taking time to do it so there is no damage," stated Terry. "The men are paid by the unit, not the hour."

The shortest moves for which moving firms are contracted, are such as the relocating of a piano from one side of a room to another. Furniture is often moved from one apartment to anuther in the same building, or to a nearby building.

INTERNATIONAL moves are everyday business. Longest moves recently have been from America to Bankok, Thailand, by Morgan; and from Anchorage Alaska to the Canary Islands by Rothery.

For overseas transfers of household goods (anywhere in the free world), the furnishings are "containerized," or packed into a truck trailer box. At the seaport, the trailer is loaded onto the ship, and wheels are removed. When the cargo is unloaded at the foreigo port, wheels are replaced, and the trailer is driven to the final destination.

Containerized storage will be used at what Terry of Rothery calls, "the first automated warehouse io the world," at 1525 Chase,, Elk Grove Village. Four levels of wooden containers will he stacked in the warehouse, by a workman operating a lift.

"PRETTY MUCH of a man operation," declared Terry. Rothery started as a horse and buggy operation in the northwest suburban area 56 years ago.

Strange cargos have included manure and a flagstone walk. Boats and camping trailers are new household additions for which provisions must be made. Arrangements are made by moving firms for pets, often air travel.

"The worst way to move is have your husband and father-in-law rent a truck and pack in your new queen size box springs and mattress," was the sad tale by a veteran woman mover. "They argued, and everyone else in the family, how to pack the box springs in the truck. The final decision couldn't hava been right, because the box springs ended up with three holes poked in by other furniture."

DESPITE SUCH complications hundreds of persons do rent trailers and trucks for moving small and large loads. "One problem is caused when people who want to hook a hig trailer on a Volkswagen," reported Gabriel Bodozian of Gabes Citgo Service, where U-Haul equipmant is located. The trucks and trailers recently had a workout when students, some married, took belongings back to college, Bodozian said.

He said that women are very price-conscious when they engage a vehicle, and that some are nervous about moving, but some look forward to it.

"MEN JUST want to get it over with," concluded Bodozian.

This was the feeling of Bob Burns, 640 Maple Ct., Mount Prospect. "About moving?" he said. "My advice is: 1. Don't move. 2. Auction off your furniture, or as a last resort, 3. have your employer move you."

Don Terry was surprised to be asked how many times he had moved. "Twice since I've been married. I hate moving, it's a pain in the neck. All that decorating..."

Students Learn Poise In United Airlines Class

Eighteen students in the Harper College dental-hygiene program are receiving 25 hours of appearance counseling this week by the stewardess training staff of United Air Lines.

The girls will learn skin care, makeup, nail and hair care, visual poise, diet and exercise and social graces in daily classes Sept. 8 - 12 at the United Air Lines Stewardess Training Center, Algonquio Rd., Des Plaines.

A "FIRST" for dental hygiene students in the United States, the content of this pilot program will be of the same character and quality as that given by United to its own stewardess trainees.

Marlio Lade, United's director of stewardess training, has been working with Frank Vandever, Harper's dental hygiene program coordinator, for the past year refining the details of the service. Final arrangemants were handled by D. V. O'Leary, United's vice-president of purchasing and stores, and Frank M. Hines, Harper College attorney.

HARPER students will pay $15 each and the college will cover the balance of the cost.

The aspiring dental hygienists will receive a makeup kit furnished by United, containing supplies for skin care, makeup and nail care.

Vandever said the program may be continued or expanded if the Harper faculty-student and United's evaluation of the service shows the arrangement to be effective in dental hygiene education.

HARPER'S dental hygiene program, now starting its second year, provides two years of training to students who must take a state examination before beginning professional work.

The dental hygieniest assists the dentist in counseling patients on oral health, making oral exams and charts, taking health histories, x-rays, and applying preventive agents to teeth.

The 18 Harper students attending the United classes are: Deborah Alexander, 714 W. Campbell St.; Linda Carlson, 836 N. Ridge Ave.; and Shirley O'Brien, 1215 N. Waterman, all of Arlington Heights.

JUDY ARNOLD, 8 Audrey Ln.; Sherry Coltman, 705 Elmhurst St.; Sue McDade, 400 S. Emerson St.; and Bev Osmond, 814 Lancaster Ave., all of Mount Prospect.

Marty Hynes, 1133 Jeannette Ave., Des Plaines; Marian Anderson, 1350 S. Plum Grove, Palatine; Pat Burger, 361 Newport Rd., Hoffman Estates.

Suanne Andersen and Anne Dahleen, both of Winfield, Ill.; Marian Bauer, Elmwood Park; Linda Haffey, Great Lakes, Ill.; Karen Koch, Waukegan.

Carolann Kohler, Northbrook; Nancy McCarthy, Park Ridge; and, Mary Nikos, Elmhurst.

Is Working Wife A Paying Proposition?

By Carltoa Smith and Richard Putnam Pratt

Some unheralded philosopher once said that the two most overrated things in the world were sex and home cooking. He could just as well have made that three things and added the working wife to the list.

We have nothing against wives, bless 'em, and we happen to be among those who think wives carry more than their share of the world's burdens, even when they stay at home. But there is a lot of evidence to show that ton many families think that the easy way out of financial difficulties is to send mom back to work at some job that pays cash money.

ON THE FACE of it, putting mom on someone's payroll seems like the ideal answer to a money shortage.

Suppose she can't earn more than $90 per week. Just think what a difference $90 could make when the family had that much extra to spend, week in and week out.

And that's precisely where the rub comes. The family just won't have an extra $90 each week, or anything like it. The truth is that mom will be above average if she gets to keep more than $2 of every $5.

Impossible, you say. Not at all. Let's analyze a typical situation and see where it leads:

MR. HUNTER is a factory foreman and earns $10,000 a year. He and Adele Hunter have three children when Adele takes a job paying $90 a week, or $4,680 a year.

When Mrs. Hunter gets her first pay check, she finds that withholding taxes, Social Security and other payroll deductions average $21.11 per week, leaving $68.89 in take-home pay. In other words, the $90 per week has already shrunk to less than $69.

Soon Adele discovers she has new expenses, all brought on by her decision to work. She has to pay for transportation to and from work, lunches, part-time child care, clothing, grooming and other miscellaneous expenses. The total puts another $23.50 dent in her weekly pay.

Soon Mrs. Hunter discovers that she is spending 10 to 15 per cent more on food than she did before she began work.

SHE KNOWS where the leak is, too. For one thing, she no longer has the tima to hunt for bargains; she has to buy what's there and get on with it. She knows also that she is relying more heavily on prepared foods, now that she has so little tima to cook. And, of course, there are those occasional restaurant meals when she is just too tired to face a stove at all.

Add all these together, and we find that Adele's now left with a weekly net of $45.39, or $2,360.28. Still not too small a sum if it were all spendable income. But come tax time, the Hunters find that, even with withholding deductions, they still owe $477.20 in city, state, and federal income taxes on their joint return.

She has $1,883.08 left to show for a year's work. Perhaps even that is enough to let her feel that working is worthwhile. But it is a far cry from the $90 a week that launched the idea in the first place.

So You Want to Be...

Private Industry, Government, Education Need Economists

Economists are concerned with the problems which arise in using limited resources of land, raw materials, manpower and manufactured products to meet people's many unsatisfied wants.

Some may analyze the relation between supply of and demand for goods and services and the ways in which goods are exchanged, produced, distributed and consumed; some are concerned with such practical problems as the control of inflation, prevention of depression and the development of farm, wage, tax and tariff policies; others develop theories to explain causes of employment and unemployment or the ways in which international trade influences world economic conditions, and still others are engaged in collection and interpretatioo of data on economic problems.

Some economists are teachers in colleges and universities and as researchers in government agencies, private industry and nonprofit organizations.

MOST ECONOMISTS in the federal government are in the fields of agriculture, business, labor economies, or international trade and development. They may plan and carry out studies involviog the collection of basic data in these fields, use these and other data to analyze the need for changes in government policy, assess the economic condition of the nation, write reports on their findings and present these reports before policy-making bodies.

Economists employed by business firms provide management with information to be used in making decisions on such matters as the markets for and prices of company products, recommendations regarding government policies affecting business or international trade, the advisability of adding new lines of merchandise, opening new branch operations or otherwise expanding the company's business.

All must have a thorough grounding in economic theory, economic history and methods of economic analysis. An increasing number of universities also emphasize the value of mathematical methods of economic analysis. Since many beginning jobs for economists in government and business involve the collection of data, a thorough knowledge of basic statistical procedures is usually required.

A BACHELOR'S degree with a major in economics is sufficient for many beginning research jobs in governmant and private industry, although persons employed in such entry jobs are not always regarded as professional economists. Io the federal government, candidates for entrance positions must have a minimum of 21 semester hours of economics and three hours of statistics, accounting or calculus.

The master's degree is generally required for appointment as a college instructor, although in large schools graduate assistantships often are awarded to superior students working toward their master's degree. In many large colleges and universities, completion of all the requirements for the Ph.D. degree, except the dissertation, is necessary for appointment as instructor.

In government or private industry, economists holding the master's degree can usually qualify for more responsible research positions than are open to those having only the bachelor's degree.

Economists interested in overseas assignments will find training in other social sciences, as well as advanced training in economics, very helpful. For some positions with the U.S. Department of State, considerable experience is also required.

EMPLOYMENT of economists will increase very rapidly through the 1970s. Colleges and universities will need hundreds of new instructors to handle rapidly increasing aorollments and to replace economists who retire, die or transfer to other fields.

Private industry is expected to employ many more economists and employment ol economists at the federal, state and local levals also will increase rapidly.

Income figures are now being updated, but according to the National Science Fouodation's National Register of Scientific and Technical Personnel, the average (median) salary of economists employed by colleges and universities was $11,750 in 1966. Economists employed by business and by oonprofit organizations averaged $15,300 and $16,200, respectively. Salaries of economists engaged io the managament or administration of research programs averaged $17,500 annually.

More information can be obtained from the American Economic Association, Northwestern Uoiversity, 629 Noyes St., Evanston, Ill. 60201.

Additional information on employment opportunities in economics and related fields is given in the following publications:

"Careers in the Foreign Service," U.S. Department of State, Publication 7924, Washington, D.C. 20520.

"Overseas Assignments," Agency for International Development, Washington, D.C. 20523. Free.

'Cats Stymied in GBS Run

A Wildcat rooter cheers on sophomore Bryce Deter during yesterday's Glenbrook South meet. Deter finished fourth in his first varsity contest. (Photos by Jim Stuart)

By Jim Stuart

Wheeling High School dropped its first cross-country meet of the season yesterday, 23-26, to a balanced Glenbrook South team on the winners' course. The Wheeling sophomore squad gave the visiting crowd something to cheer about, however, as they defeated the Titan sophs, 21-41.

Wheeling's Frnnk Savage was easily the meet medalist, running the 2.75-mile course in 14:46, a full 24 seconds faster than second-place Vito Salerno of Glenbrook South.

WILDCAT SOPHOMORE Bryce Deter, running in his first varsity contest, finished a strong fourth behind Brian Hendee of Glenbrook South. Junior John Johnson, the only other Wheeling runner who placed in the top 12, finished eighth.

Rounding out the Wheeling scoring were John Dyson in 13th place and Dale Stonebraker in 14th. Finishing out of the money for the 'Cats were Mark Frystak, 17th, and Gary Hildebrandt, 18th.

Meet medalist Frank Savage of Wheeling puts out his finishing kick to win meet at Glenbrook South.

In spite of the rather lopsided score, head coach Jerry Parsons was not overly despondent. He knew he could count on Savage, and he was pleased but not particularly surprised at the fine showing of young Deter.

He was somewhat disappointed at the races run by seniors Dyson and Stonebraker, who had been running fairly even with Deter in practice.

"IF THOSE two had kept up with Deter in this meet like they have been," said Parsons, "the whole outcome would have been changed." He also looks for improvement from Frystak, who is only a junior.

The sophomore meet was almost the exact opposite of the varsity encounter, with Glenbrook South producing the first-place winner but Wheeling coming up with places two through five and eight out of the first 11.

Titan Don Gregory won the meet with a time of 11:43 for the two-mile course. The top runner for Wheeling was Jeff Smith, who ran a 12:02, followed closely by Bart Bell with a 12:05.

WILDCATS MIKE Schuster, Steve Wilhlem and Glenn Larsen finished fourth, fifth and seventh, respectively, to round out the Wheeling scoring. Other Wheeling sophomores were Ron Shea, eighth, Vince Allendorf, 10th, and Joe Bucalo, 11th.

Wheeling will entertain Maine South tomorrow at 4:30 in the first home meet of the season. Saturday the 'Cats will participate in the big Maine West Center Meet.

Bell, Gawlik Wage Continuing Battle At Hersey C-C Meet

Mid-Suburban League foes Hersey and Forest View and outsider Lake Zurich compete in a double-duel meet this afternoon beginning at 4:15 at Hersey.

Forest View coach John Heeoan is optimistic about the meet despite injuries to two of his better runners, senior Ryan Maly and junior George LaVigne. He hopes his top two men, senior Bob Bell and junior Kevin Sarni, can lead the rest of the Falcon squad to a victory.

"I'D LIKE TO see us take both first and second," Heenan said. "I'm sure Bell is a top competitor who can take first. Sarni, if he gets psyched up and puts out, can be right up there, too."

Heenan got some 11th hour help for the meet, the season opener for the Falcons, when Crnig Henderson reported to the team earlier in the week. Henderson is on Forest View's track team and Heenan thinks he can help his harriers.

"He's not in bad shape for only being out a couple days," Heenan said. "He has a real good attitude and should be a big help to us later in the season."

AL SCHMANKE, like Maly and LaVigne, has been bothered by injuries this season but Heenan thinks he can score for the Falcons today. Schmanke has been looking good in practice the last couple of days and Heenan is hoping he forgets the pain in the heat of battle.

Hersey coach Art Steele is also optimistic, although he is somewhat concerned about Bell, whom he considers a fine runner.

Steele looks for a good battle for first place between Bell and his own Greg Gawlik, who he says is coming along fine in practice. Gawlik was hurt for a good part of last season, but he is apparently showing no ill effects.

"GAWLIK DEFINITELY has a chance to win this meet, the way he has been going lately," said Steele. "Several other boys should be right up there, too."

Those others include juniors Ed Rieger, Brinn Zimmer and John Cherphaus and sophomore Frank Walsworth. Cherphaus did not letter last year but has been looking good in practice.

Also running for the Huskies will be Larry Inman and Mel Cranmer. All seven should get a good workout in preparation for Saturday's Maine West Center Meet and the first conference meet at Arlington on Sept. 16.

STEELE SUMS up his situation by saying, "We have had absolutely no injuries and the attitude among the boys is great. We're ready to go."

Attitude Should Lift Lions From Cross -Country Cellar

By Linda Hamilton

Sports Editor

Owen Fox's cross-country squad has nowhere to go but up this year after St. Viator finished in the cellar of the Chicagoland Prep League last season.

"We probably shouldn't have been there," said Fox, who explained that injuries to some key runners forced his team down the ladder. "We started out real strong," he said, but then the team ran out of steam when confronted with the injury bug.

FOX REPORTS that all of his runners are all healthy at present, and although the team is rather small, he sees only St. Ignatius and St. Patrick's as teams to be reckoned within the league.

St. Viator's first meet will come next Tuesday when they travel to Glenbrook South. Fox figures Glenbrook "shouldn't be too tough," but the Titans won their first meet of the year, 23-36, over Wheeling.

The Lions began their formal practice the day after Labor Day, and this late start mey have hurt. "I can tell you this - we're not in shape." Fox added, however, that the team has been "running a lot of miles" in order to get into better shape.

FOX CAN count on four returning lettermen, one a junior, to help bolster an otherwise small squad. Steve Schlickman, the junior, and seniors Raul Gnwrys, Mike Lins and Ed Plaza, will be leading non-letter winners Bob Immen and Ed Condon and probably some sophomores around the course.

Immen is a junior and Condon a sophomore. Fox says Immen has "come quite a way" as a C-C man. "He's one of our better runners." Condon will definitely be starting on the varsity also, said his coach.

"I have no outstanding runners," said Fox. But he is still optimistic about the team's chances. "I'm very happy as far as attitude goes," he said. Fox claims that this year's squad has the best attitude of any he's coached. "They have a lot of determination."

THE LIONS are to run in eight non-conference meets, and Fox considers Notre Dame as "undoubtedly" the best of the non-league foes. They will also run in the Niles East Invitational on Oct. 4.

Fox attributes the small size of his team to recruitment. "We haven't recruited the freshmen as well as we'd like to," he said. However, Fox figures that problem can be licked and he started recruiting Wednesday.

Another problem is that some of the boys who had intended to come out missed their physical examination and can't run until they have one.

ARMED WITH desire instead of wealth of experience and a better recruiting policy to aid in future years, the Lions are well on their way to climbing out of the cellar.

Once-Feared Cardinal Runners Drop Double-Dual at Evanston

By Tom Rowe

The Arlington High School cross-country team opened the 1969 season with a double loss yesterday, as the Cardinal harriers fell both to Evanston and Homewood-Flossmoor in a double dual contest.

Arlington's Scott Barnet crosses the finish line after winning the sophomore cross country meet at Evanston yesterday. Barnet's time was 14:45. (Photos by Tom Rowe)

Arlington's 38 consecutive dual meet winning streak was broken by the powerful Wildkit and Viking squads as the Cards fell 27 - 30 and 19-41. The sophomore Cardinals triumphed in their match, but the youngest runners from Arlington dropped their meet, 23-33 to the Vikings.

LEADING THE varsity pack into the chute was Dave Ingraham from Evanston who covered the 2.75 mile course in a record breaking time of 13:27. Not far behind was Arlington's star, Scott Butler, who chugged in with a 13:31, four seconds behind Ingraham.

Coach Bruce Samoore was pleased with Butler's time and said he "ran a good race." He went on to say, "Scott has great potential; I haven't worked him like I could, so he'll improve."

Card Scott Teuber trotted in with an seventh place finish with a 14:12 clocking, less than a minute behind the leader. John Curtin placed 12th place with a 14:32 and Mike Splitt and Mike York sewed up the 18th and 19th positions, respectively.

On the sophomore level, Scott Barnet ran an excellent race to cop the top honors. Barnet ran the course in a fine time of 14:45. Completeing the one-two sweep for the Cards was Mark Werking, who jogged in second with a 15:06 timing. Fourth position was snatched by Arlington's Jim McGrath in 15:16, and Tom Jarm sprinted home in 15:37 for his six place finish to aid in his team's victory.

COACH SAMOORE will have quite a decision to make this week to determine who will run on the varsity level in Saturday's big invitational meet at Maine West. Samoore noted "Three sophomores had better times than the fourth and fifth place varsity runners.

I've got the problem of whether to gamble and keep the boys down on the sophomore level and have them run together and develop a togetherness spirit and hope they all will report out for the team next year or to bring them up to the varsity. We lose 80 per cent of our boys between the sophomore and junior years and this would be a big gamble.

"I really think thet varsity experience would help in the long run and would make them stronger runners in their junior and senior years."

Samoore concluded, "I've got a big decision to make and I've got to make it soon. I've got lots to think about."

ON THE FRESHMAN level, Ton Holub grabbed third place as he ran the 1.84 mile course in 10:46. Placing fifth was Dave Trembly who was clocked in a fine time of 10:58. Seventh position honors were taken by Cardinal Bruce Lenhart, who covered the distance in 11:14.

After the Maine West Center meet this Saturday, Arlington will host their first home run of the young season as the Hersey Huskies travel to the field at Pioneer Park.

John Curtin of Arlington has a dejected look yesterday after the Redbirds lost a double dual cross-country meet at Evanston.

Grens KO'd Three Times at West

By Mike Imrem

Maine West's harriers tuned up for Saturday's big Maine West Center meet by sweeping to victories on the varsity, sophomore and freshman levels against the Elk Grove Grenadiers on the Warriors' home course yesterday.

Maine West's winning margins were 18-45 in the varsity meet, a perfect 15-50 in the sophomore meet and 20-43 in the freshman meet. The Warriors lost only one of the top seven spots in the varsity and freshman battles and none in the sophomore contest.

"I WAS very pleased with our showing against Elk Grove," Maine West head coach Bill Barringer said after the meet. "We were looking for a lineup for our Center meet and this meet helped because we ran it on the same course we'll be using Saturday.

"We feel that last Saturday's Crystal Lake Invitational against schools like Evanston, Proviso West and Rockford-Guildord and then the Elk Grove meet on the Center course was good preparation for us."

Bespectacled Ken Kovar proved once again he is the Warriors' No. 1 man. The little junior grabbed first place against the Grens with a good time of 14:58 over the 2¾ mile course.

"KOVAR RAN a fine race and was very deserving of the victory,'' Barringer said. "That time is pretty good when you consider nobody was pushing him. He had to do it all himself."

Steve Johnson grabbed second for the Warriors with a time of 15:08, followed by Elk Grove's only man among the top 14 finishers, Jim Ottinger. The Grenadiers' prize junior turned in a clocking of 15:23.

Kevin Wright took fourth for the Warriors at 15:25, followed by teammates Tim Wntkins at 15:29, Jerry Krainik at 15:31, Don Anderson at 15:36 and Tom Duntemann at 15:39.

ELK GROVE'S best after Ottinger were Mike Bachus in 14th place with a 16:21, Tom Ziffra in 19th with a 16:48, Greg Dziem in 27th with a 17:06 and Jim Buchholz in 35th with a 17:40.

Dean Kamin won the sophomore meet for Maine West with a clocking of 16:14. Dan Long (16:18), John Fisher (16:54), Tony Winder (17:06), Steve Henderson (17:10), Jim Woodward (17:18), and Gary Willinms (17:21) followed in that order. John Artemenko posted the best time for Elk Grove with an 18:20 good for 10th place.

One of the brightest spots in the meet for Elk Grove was Tom Boggs' first-place finish in the freshman meet. The first-year man posted a time of 12:24 over the two-mile course to beat Maine West's Dan Schlesser by four seconds.

MAINE WEST'S Steve Palazzola (12:59), Tom Vnn Vleet (13:01), Scott Watkins (13:04), Roger Glaze (13:18), Scott Sedlack (13:21) and Steve Mennella (13:38) took the next six places. Elk Grove's Chuck Bassford took 11th with a 13:57 clocking.

Tom Bastable With Northern Varsity Team

Former Wheeling High School football star Tom Bastable of Arlington Heights is currently playing split end for Doc Urich's Northern Illinois University varsity.

Urich was pleased with Bastable's performance in last Saturday's inter-squad game. Some of his catches in that scrimmege were reminiscent of Huskie great John Spilis, who is now with the Green Bay Packers, according to his coach.

Boys Football Begins Saturday

The Arlington Heights Boys Football League will begin its season this Saturday at Recreation Park and Pioneer Park.

All games in the three leagues will be played at these two sites this year with four games scheduled at each field every Saturday through Oct. 18. The season concludes with all-star games for each league on the Arlington High School field on Sunday, Oct. 26.

EACH TEAM plays six games. A feature of this year's schedule in the Junior and Varsity leagues, which have six teams each, is that final game opponents will be determined by league standing. Each team will play every other team once, and on the final day the teams in first and second will play.

In the four-team Senior League, a double round-robin will be played; each team playing the other teams twice.

Candidates Always Ready for Photos

Being a 13th district congressional candidate is both difficult and expensive, but it's interesting work. Basically it is a massive enterprise of meeting people from the gal at the switchboard at Western Electric in Rolling Meadows to Ron Santo, the Cubs star third baseman. Matters will continue this way right up to and including Oct. 7 when the special 13th District primary takes place.

Candidate Eugene F. Schlickman of Arlington Heights meets Janet Dalbey of Evanston, immediate past president of the Illinois Young Republicans.

Candidate John Nimrod (right) of Skokie had the pleasant experience just before the Cubs left on the current road trip of having third baseman Ron Santo star stop at the Nimrod headquarters to exchange good wishes Nimrod for a Cub victory in the National League race and Santo for a Nimrod victory in the 13th District race.

Candidate Joe Mathewson of Winnetka, pleasantly surrounded by the "Mathewson Maidens" to plant a tree in Arlington Height's Pioneer Park.

Candidate Philip Crane (left) of Winnetka takes time out to visit with William F. Buckley, Jr., television's foremost conservative commentator who expressed the hope that Crane would be the next congressman from the 13th District. "I regard Phil Crane's candidacy for Congress one of the most exciting Republican events of 1969," said Buckley.

WIN A ZEROID, A "PLANET ZERO" ROBOT, IN CONTEST!

By Cappy Dick

Boys and girls! Today's puzzle contest offers you a new chance to win a Zeroid, the mechanical man from the mythical "Planet Zero."

This robot, which stands six and a half inches high, can walk like a mechanical man, grab with its claws, perform chops with its arms and do other amazing things, is a creation of the Ideal Toy Corporation. Five Zeriods will be awarded as the national prizes in todays contest, one to each boy or girl who submits one of the five neatest and most original correct entries from any of the cities where this column is published.

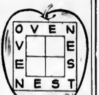
To qualify for a chance to win a Zeroid, a contestant must first win a local prize. In today's contest this will be an ocean liner whistle. Ten of these will be given away, one for each of the 10 neatest and most original correct puzzle solutions received from young readers in The Day's circulation area. Entries winning these pocket-size, three-tone plastic whistles will be entered in the national judging.

Contestants must solve the puzzle in the picture above where a word-square four letters wide and four letters high appears on the side of the apple. Four letters are missing. If the proper letters are printed in the blanks, the entire square will read the same from left to right as from top to bottom.

The word for the second row (both hoirzontal and vertical) is something that shows the direction of wind. The word for the third row is the plural of the last part of a story.

When you believe you know how to complete the square correctly, clip it out, paste it on a piece of paper, print the missing letters in the blanks and print your name, age, address and Zip number beneath the picture. Decorate your entry in a neat, original way, using paints, crayons or cut-outs. Finally address it to Cappy Dick's Midweek Zeroid Contest at The Day and mail it no later than midnight of day after tomorrow.

Names of the prize winners will be announced here and their awards will be sent to their homes by mail. Judges' decisions will be final. All entires become Cappy Dick's property; none can be returned.



TOMORROW: Directions for making a new guessing game!

2 Boys Injured In Bike Mishap

By Sinda Lander

Two boys were injured last night, one seriously, in a bicycle accident at a construction sita in Evergreen Park, Arlington Heights, police reported.

Injured were Steve Rudnik, 15, of 225 S. Gibbons, Arlington Heights and Michael Todd, 14, of 507 S. Waterman, Arlington Heights. They were taken by ambulance to Northwest Community Hospital where they were admitted.

A hospital spokesman said Rudnik suffered a possible concussion, a possible fracture of his left leg and an injury to his left knee whila Todd suffered bruises. Both boys were in good condition, the spokesman said.

According to police, the accident occured at a mound of earth in the park at the 300 block of Gibbons. Police said Rudnik and Todd were riding their hikes down the hill when Rudnik struck a hole at the base of the hill and was thrown from his hike. Todd, following Rudnik, swerved to avoid the hole and struck some wires strung close to the ground.

MRS. GEORGE Cooper of 318 S. Gibbons, the first adult at the scene of the accident, said both boys were lying on the ground, groaning in pain when she arrived. Todd had become intangled in his bike, sha said. Rudnik claimed he had been thrown 20 feet, she said.

Because of the darkness, Mrs. Cooper said, the boys probably could not see the hole as they rode down the hill.

Mrs. Cooper said she had been told by workmen at the park that the hill would be permanent.

Residents often have complained about hazards at the construction site, Mrs. Cooper said.

On Aug. 11 three boys accidently started a steam roller used in construction at the park.

Planners Reject Permit For Drive-In Restaurant

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission last night denied approval of a rezoning request for a McDonald's restaurant on the west side of Arlington Heights Rd. north of Palatine Rd.

In moving denial of the request, Commissioner James McGrath said a proposed car wash at the Palatine-Arlington Heights recently was turned down because of traffic congestion problems in the area.

"If we approve this tonight," McGrath said, "we're going to find it difficult to deny another request for an auto laundry in two months."

McGrath's motion to deny was carried by a 6-to-3 vote.

The property proposed for the drive-in restaurant, now unincorporated, consists of four lots, located at 110 E. Palatine Rd. and 1914, 1916 and 2000 Arlington Heights Rd.

THE REZONING request, to business (B-2) with a special use permit for a drive-in facility, was offered in anticipation of a request for annexation, according to William Moore, attorney for the petitioner.

The proposed restaurant, Moore said, is a "substantial departure" from McDonald's restaurants presented in the past. He said that it would have sit-down capacity for 70 persons, as well as 109 parking spaces for cars.

Moore said McDonald's has dropped its "golden arches" sign and hidden all heating and air blower equipment on the roof. The restaurant building would have 670 square feet of seating area and be set back 108 feet from the property line, Moore said.

"We are attempting to make this as attractive to the surrounding area as wa can," Moore said.

Moore said the restaurant would not create the same traffic problems as the recently turned down car wash.

"We're very much aware that you're extremely concerned about traffic and the patterns which are evolving in this area," Moore told the commission.

He said the McDonald's facility would not be as close to tha Palatine-Arlington Heights Rd. intersection as the car wash and would have "an extraordinarily large amount of off-street parking."

"Sooner or later, the bottleneck at this intersection is going to be cleared," Moore said.

WHEN QUESTIONED by Commissioner Alice Harms, Moore replied that no traffic study for the proposed restaurant has been made. Mrs. Harms said a traffic study is required before a special use permit can be issued for a drive-in restaurant.

Moore said there is "great demand" for McDonald's restaurants in the village. He said the McDonald's at Wilke and Northwest Hwy. last year had sales of $500,000. Annual sales of the proposed restaurant would be $500,000 to $750,000.

Moore said the developers of the restaurant also own a site on Rand Rd. across from Northgate shopping center. He said the alternate site, zoned B-5 and unincorporated, might have to be used if the annexation and rezoning couldn't be obtained from the village.

'Heritage Poet' Honors Dirksen

The latest of many patriotic poems written by Col 'fred Stein, 63, known as America's Heritage Poet, eulogizes the late Senator Everett McKinley Dirksen.

Remembering that The Day carried a story about him on Jan. 22, 1968, Stein offered the poem this week for its first printing.

Stain for many years has conducted a one-man crusade to elevate American ideals and has, for his work, been commended by scores of notable persons, including J. Edgar Hoover, astronaut John Glenn and Chicago Fire Commissioner Robert Quinn.

He also has been featured on television and radio broadcasts and has been the subject of several articles in various publications.

Stein considers himself a man with a mission--to inspire his fellow men to improve society. His sole occupation is writing his poems and getting them printed on hand-outs of his own design. He personally has given copies to Glenn and the late President John F. Kennedy. Many copies also have gone to boys clubs, schools, penal and other types of institutions.

He runs his operation from a boarded up building at 2421 Roosevelt Rd., Chicago, and supports his work, a dog and a cat and himself solely on donations.

THE "HERITAGE Gallery of Americana" amassed by Stein includes tributes to police, firemen, different branches of the armed forces, school drop-out prevention, anti-communism, the U.S.O., Mothers Day, Thanksgiving, the American Legion, and eulogies on John F. Kennedy, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Adlai Stevenson, Rogers Hornsby, Robert Frost and House Speaker Sam Rayburn.

All Stein's poems "stress education in ethics, civic duty and patriotism for mental, moral and national health."

His honorary titla, "colonel," was coaferred upon him by the United States Air Force 501st recruiting detachment, Sector C, after using two of his Air Force poems for recruiting.

Stein's first name is Alfred, but he abbreviates it to 'fred.

The following tribute to Dirksen is entitled: "The Significance of Standards like Dirksen's; May they help shame and uplift The Low!":

Our Farewell and A "Thank You!", Ev Dirksen, more Men of Your Standards we need;
True Zealots with Reason, Perspective and Say, would we but have more to heed!
And say it you could and say it you did with Eloquence, Resonance too;
throughout United States History
Your Impact's been equalled by few.
And Our Craven who brazen: "I won't get involved"...
ON Dirksen's Involvement might dwell, while how Dirksen stressed Civil Responsibility might A Lesson to Freeloaders tell!
So now though you've gone, may Such Teachings go on and Help Goldbrickers change to adhere to such Do and such Dare as had Dirksen and The Standards Ev Dirksen held dear.

Officials Pay Tribute to Dirksen

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Macdonald of Arlington Heights headed a group of persons from the northwest suburbs who went to Pekin today to join thousands of other citizens of Illinois in paying final respects to Sen. Everett Dirksen.

Mrs. Macdonald served as director of woman's activities in the campaign for Sen. Dirksen's reelection that came to a climax 10 months ago with his return to the U. S. Senate.

THE MACDONALDS made the trip to the small Pekin cemetery with Sam Dean of Wayne, the DuPage county man who headed up men's activities in Sen. Dirksen's campaign last fall.

Most of the 13th district congressional candidates paid tribute in their remarks Tuesday and Wednesday to the man who is regarded by many as the greatest Illinois man in the U.S. Senate since Sen. Stephan A. Douglas

Samuel H. Young of Glenview expressed a personal grief, saying,

"I HAVE HAD the good fortune to have known Sen. Dirksen for more than 20 years. I came to have a tremendous respect for his capacity and his rare judgment. In my opinion, history will indicate he has been one of the very distinguished political leaders of the 20th century."

Joseph Matthewson, 13th district congressional candidate from Winnetka, also had a personal acquaintance with Sen. Dirksen. Yesterday he sent Mrs. Dirksen a message, a part of which read,

"I HAD THE opportunity to know him when I was a reporter in Washington and later when I was a member of Gov. Ogilvie's staff.

"The senator joins the ranks of great Illinois men who have shaped the growth of the United States. The perpetual light of history will shine upon him for his dedicated service to our country. There will never be anyone quite lika him in our time and his loss now at a critical period of American life is tragic."

THE DIRKSEN services brought about many changes in mid-week political events. Tha Wheeling Township Women's Republican Club is holdings its annual membership tea at the Holiday Inn In Mount Prospect his afternoon.

Mrs. Brooks McCormick, national committeewoman from Illinois, and Mrs. Mary McDonald, Cook County chairwoman, had accepted invitations to be present before the death of Sen. Dirksen.

ACLU Asks Court to Ban School Hair Length Rule

(Second in a Series)

David Miller, 17-year-old senior at Barrington Consolidated High School, says he was refused permission to register and attend classes because of the length of his hair.

This morning, Attorney Burton Joseph, on behalf of the American Civil Liberties Union, was to appear before Judge James Parsons in U. S. District Court and ask for a preliminary injunction restraining Barrington High School, its board and administrativa staff members, from interfering with Miller's right to register and attend classes.

MILLER AND his parents, the Ben Millers, 108 18th St., Barrington, filed a suit Monday against the Barrington School Board and its members, and against various administrative officials. The suit asks $300 in actual damages and $100,000 in punitive damages.

Joseph says he is asking the court to declare the school's dress code invalid, and to prohibit the school board from regulating student dress.

J. Walter Gillis, superintendent of Barrington Consolidated High School District 224, told The Day that the board had discussed dress codes since June, and had adopted its coda in August.

HERE IS the dress coda of Barrington High School, quoted in full from the 1969-70 student handbook. The preface says: "This book has been reviewed and approved by the Board of Education, District 224."

"An institution or group, in order to function and achieve the purpose for which it is organized, must establish governing principles with which members are required to comply. This is true, whether it is a nation, a business organization, a social organization, or a high school.

"In this way, the particular organization can operate without disruptions that interfere with the achievement of its purpose and objective.

"In the best interest of the school population and the school system, reasonable standards of behavior and dress are required so that the educational process and program may be carried out in an orderly fashion.

"The standards of appearance and dress stated here reflect what is generally recognized and accepted by the community as appropriate for young men and women in attendance. Their sole purpose is to assume that the high school program is conducted in a fashion that best serves the overall interest of the school populace, the educational system, and the community.

"In this, the student is expected to respect the rights, privileges, and interests of others, his fellow students, his faculty and adminstration, his community, and their school system--and to conduct himself accordingly.

"Students and their parents are expected to be familiar with these standards, and observance is their responsibility...

"Tha appropriateness of dress is a subject on which opinions can and do vary.

"We wish there were no need for a dress code, but it is believed a minority of students

Mrs. Macdonald Leads Con-Con Candidates

By Richard Crabb

Mrs. Virginia Macdonald of Arlington Heights, candidate in the 3rd District for a Constitutional Convention seat in the Sept. 23 primary, this week has become the most widely endorsed Con-Con candidate in Illinois.

Wednesday the Barrington Township Republican Organization announced its endorsement of Mrs. Macdonald and William Engelhardt of Inverness.

Tuesday evening the Palatine Township GOP Organization endorsed their candidacy.

THERE IS no record in the state's 58 Con-Con districts of any other candidate having even approached the wide endorsement given the Arlington Heights woman. She has now been endorsed by one or more organizations in every township in the 3rd District with more than 15 precincts in the district. In addition, Mrs. Macdonald has received county, area and state level endorsements.

The endorsements have come in a period of only 18 days. It was the Elk Grove Township Republican Organization that started it all when it endorsed Mrs. Macdonald Aug. 25. Other GOP townships organizations of the 3rd district have since endorsed her candidacy in this order: Schaumburg, Wheeling, Hanover, Northfield, Palatine and Barrington. Earlier Mrs. Macdonald had been endorsed by the Cook County Republican Central Committee. She has been endorsed by the state-wide watchdog organization, the Better Government Assn., and by the Chicago Daily News. The most recent acclaim came last evening from the Elk Grove Business and Professional Women's Club where Mrs. Macdonald spoke.

SINCE ENTERING the campaign in mid-July, Mrs. Macdonald has made herself available for talks five or six days a week. She is emphasizing a face-to-face type of campaign.

She wants to be known personally by the greatest possible number of citizens in the 3rd District. She also wants to get the most possible views of individuals about what they think the Constitutional Convention should accomplish.

Mrs. Macdonald has since the beginning of her public appearances been asking those whom she meets oo answer a standard set of questions. Questions include such matters as what the convention should do about an income tax, selection of judges, home rule, electing the governor and lieutenant governor on the same ballot and numerous other.

SHE IS tabulating the views given her. In this way when she begins work in the convention she will be in a position to know what are the desires and thinking of the people she represents on most big issues.

Mrs. Macdonald will run against 15 other candidates in the 3rd District Con-Con primary Sept. 23. The individuals getting the highest total of votes in the primary will be placed on the ballots for the general con-con election to be held Nov. 18. The two individuals getting the highest total of votes Nov. 18 will be awarded the two seats in the Constitutional Convention allotted to the northwest suburbs in the 3rd District.

The Constitutional Convention will open in Springfield Dec. 8.

George McGovern of South Dakota. In the center is Lt. Governor Paul Simon of Illinois. Warman is unopposed in the Democratic primary and will face the Republican winner in the special general election Nov. 25.

BOLI will also consider revised plans and cost estimates for the Greenbrier trunk sanitary sewer project.

All-Steel Building Goes Up in Industrial Park

An all-stainless steel industrial building, the first of its kind in the Midwest, is nearing completion in the Arlington Industrial and Research Center at the north end of Arlington Heights.

Cincinnati-Forte Co.'s new plant is one of seven facilities now located in the industrial park, being developed by Kenroy Inc. The building, which will house Cincinnati-Forte's corporate office and manufacturing facilities, will replace the company's existing office and plant in Niles.

CINCINNATI - FORTE makes processing equipment for metals distributors.

The Arlington Industrial and Research Center, started five years ago, is "having no problems whatsoever" signing up firms, according to Ralph Gerstenfeld, Kenroy's vice president for industrial parks.

Gerstenfeld said the park attracts labor from Buffalo Grove and "all the way from Milwaukee." He said Kenroy plans a 200-acre expansion of the park.

Honeywell Corp., WEXI Radio and RCA Service Co. are some of the plants that have already located there, Gerstenfeld said.

The village of Arlington Heights is negotiating with Kenroy for the purchase of a north side fire station site in the industrial park.

Board to Review Plans for School

The School District 25 Board of Education will meet tonight at 7:30 at Patton School, 1616 N. Patton, Arlington Heights, to review the architect's plans for a new school.

All-Steel Building Goes Up in Industrial Park

An all-stainless steel industrial building, the first of its kind in the Midwest, is nearing completion in the Arlington Industrial and Research Center at the north end of Arlington Heights.

Cincinnati-Forte Co.'s new plant is one of seven facilities now located in the industrial park, being developed by Kenroy Inc. The building, which will house Cincinnati-Forte's corporate office and manufacturing facilities, will replace the company's existing office and plant in Niles.

CINCINNATI - FORTE makes processing equipment for metals distributors.

The Arlington Industrial and Research Center, started five years ago, is "having no problems whatsoever" signing up firms, according to Ralph Gerstenfeld, Kenroy's vice president for industrial parks.

Gerstenfeld said the park attracts labor from Buffalo Grove and "all the way from Milwaukee." He said Kenroy plans a 200-acre expansion of the park.

Honeywell Corp., WEXI Radio and RCA Service Co. are some of the plants that have already located there, Gerstenfeld said.

The village of Arlington Heights is negotiating with Kenroy for the purchase of a north side fire station site in the industrial park.

Board to Review Plans for School

The School District 25 Board of Education will meet tonight at 7:30 at Patton School, 1616 N. Patton, Arlington Heights, to review the architect's plans for a new school.

The school is to be named Berkley and will be located west of the new Rand Junior High, at Waverly and Arlington Heights Rds.

The architect's report also will cover new construction at Olive and Dunton schools as well as the plans for the proposed Berkley school.

The 1969 to 1970 enrollments and the projections for the total enrollment by the end of this school year will be reviewed.

Berkley will be a non-hallway, non-classroom school comprised of four square wings set around a main learning center (library). Each wing will house four classrooms, each classroom having folding walls, so that two, three or all four class-rooms in any of the wings can be opened and joined together in multiple combinations.

Only the gym (multi-purpose room) and the arts and crafts rooms located together in one wing will be made with stable, non-folding walls.

The opening enrollments for the 1969 to 1970 school year will be presented.

According to the figures for opening enrollments, enrollments increased on opening day this year by 231 students over last year. A total of 9,821 students were enrolled at the start of the 1969-70 school year. A total of 9,590 were enrolled on opening day of the 1968-69 school year.

By the end of last year, 9,850 students had enrolled in District 25 schools, according to estimates in the report this year 10,087 should be enrolled by the end of the school year.

Junior high enrollments increased by 240 students over the summer of 1969 while kindergarten-to-fifth grade enrollment decreased by 269 students during the summer.

Schools in District 25 are Dryden, Dunton, Dwyer, Greenbriar, Ivy Hill, Kensington North, Olive, Park, Patton, Ridge, Westgate, Wilson, Windsor, Miner Junior High, South Junior High, Thomas Junior High and Rand Junior High.

Improvements Board to Air Road Plans

The Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements (BOLI) tonight will consider improvements to Kennicott Av. north of Northwest Hwy. at an informal hearing.

The village board last week instructed BOLI to revise the street width plans to protect trees along Kennicott. The proposed street width of 37 feet should be reduced to 31 feet, the board said.

BOLI will also consider revised plans and cost estimates for the Greenbrier trunk sanitary sewer project.

Single -Family Dwelling Building Permits Lag

Arlington Heights issued fewer single-family residence building permits in August than it did in July of this year or in August of 1968.

In August, 36 permits for single-family residences were issued down from 56 issued in July and 45 issued in August 1968.

According to Marty Munson, Arlington Heights building commissioner, the August decline reflects both a regular seasonal drop and a general slowdown in building in the area.

"Sometimes there's a dip in single-family permits in August," Munson said. "It picks up again in September because builders want to finish things like concrete pouring before the cold weather."

ACCORDING TO the Bell Federal Savings Survey of New Building, housing construction delcined 12 per cent in the Chicago area during July, compared to the same month in 1968.

Munson said construction of single family houses has declined recently in the northwest suburban area. He said total value of building permits issued remains high because of commercial, industrial and apartment buildings.

THE VALUE of all building permits issued last month by Arlington Heights was $2.57 million, compared to $1.93 million in August, 1968.

Arlington Heights still leads the Chicago area suburbs in value of single-family permits issued this year, according to the Bell Savings survey. The survey lists 478 permits valued at $14,684,400 for the first seven months of 1969.

THE VILLAGE ALSO leads the suburbs in value of permits issued for apartment units this year. Through the end of July, permits were issued for 325 units with a total value of $4,180,000.

In the Chicago suburbs, the number of apartment unit building permits dropped 28 per cent in July, compared to July 1968. Permits issued for apartments in unincorporated Cook County jumped from 110 in July of last year to 456 this July.

July was the third consecutive month that the number of permits issued for houses and apartment units in the Chicago area declined. Permits for houses dropped 25 per cent compared to July 1968, from 2,023 to 1,527.

Student Teachers Get 1st Taste of Classroom

This Monday 30 new student teachers will begin receiving classroom instruction in education at School District 25's Dunton School, Dunton and Cypress Sts., Arlington Heights, between 1 and 3:30 p.m. every afternoon for one school semester.

The teachers have already begun assisting teachers in classrooms in District 25 and schools in Wheeling and Palatine, ten in each school system, according to Bob Boos, director of administrative planning for school District 25.

THE STUDENT teachers, who all have degrees in non-educational fields will be fully certified teachers after one semester of student teaching and 17 hours of classroom study (the state of Illinois requires only 16 semester hours of classroom study in education to certify a teacher).

Boos said, this is an experimental program federally funded by the Educational Programs Development Act, (CEPDA) which supplies funds for programs to train new teachers.

O. A. Candeleria, superintendent of School District 30 in Northbrook, a former teacher in School District 25 and a resident at 1604 N. Belmont, Arlington Heights is the EPDA project director in charge of handling the finances and screening the applicants for the program in this area

DR. BARNEY Berlin of Loyola University, and John Beck of Chicago State College form a two man board of directors for the program to act as liaison between the new teachers and the six colleges giving credits for participation in the program.

The Six colleges giving credits are Loyola, Chicago State, DePaul, Concordia, Northeastern State, and Roosevelt all in Chicago.

Antibacterial Soap Helpful for Acne

W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q-My daughter, 9, has pimples on her forehead. I have used several remedies without any results. Although she doesn't eat much sugar or fats, her skin is very oily. What do you advise?

A-The latest reports on acne indicate that washing the face with an antibacterial soap is an important part of the treatment, especially in persons with oily skin. In addition, the antibiotic, tetracydin, with or without a cortisonelike drug is helpful. This treatment controls but does not eure the condition. Dietary restrictions are of little or no importance.

Q-Last week my daughter, 5, broke out with a rash over most of her body. There were no other symptoms. The doctor said it was caused by a virus. The rash lasted a week, then went away without her having taken anything for it. What kind of virus could have caused it?

A-Children are prone to rashes due to unidentified viruses. In some cases a mild attack of measles, German measles or scarlet fever (not a virus disease) is the cause.

Q-My daughter, 6, has some tiny red spots on her hands and forearms. Could they be anything serious?

A-Your daughter may have a form of purpura due to a deficiency of vitamin C, an allergy or a low blood platelet count. How serious it is would depend on the cause.

Q-My grandson, 3½, has had mastocytosis for two years and it seems to be spreading. Do you know of any cure for this?

A-Mastocytosis, also called urticaria pigmentosa or mast cell disease, is a chronic skin disorder of unknown cause. No effective treatment is known.

Q-Recently several children here became paralyzed from the neck down and died. The diseases mentioned were polyneurities and Guilliain-Barre syndrome. Is there any connection between the two? Are they contagious or hereditary? Can they strike both young and old? Is there any cure?

A-Guillain-Barre syndrome is also called polyneuritis or neuronitis. It is not contagious but may follow an acute infectious disease (diptheria, scarlet fever, typhoid, mumps, influenze, measles, tuberculosis or meningitis). It is not hereditary. It may occur at any age. There is no speeifie treatment but most children recovdr after several months without any aftereffects. The epidemie you refer to was unusually severe.

Q--Is is safe to use a chemical hair remover on my legs?

A--All chemical hair removers are likely to irritate your skin. You should try it on a small area first and follow the printed instructions carefully. Skin irritation increases with the duration of contact. Never use a leg depliatory on your face or on a place where the skin is broken or inflamed.

Q--Can permanents cause the hair to split? Will they bleach the hair? How fast does hair grow?

A--Permanent waving will cause brittleness and split ends only if the solution is left on the hair too long or if it is not sufficiently neutralized. If you use a home permanent, you should follow the directions to the letter. It will not bleach your hair. Hair grows an average of one millimeter every three days, but it grows faster in warm weather than in cold.

Day Light

At Half Staff

By Joseph Stubenrauch

The flag will be at half staff throughout Illinois for 30 days, according to Governor Richard Ogilvie's instructions.

The Illinois citizen to be honored is the senior Senator of our state, the late Everett McKinley Dirksen.

A small-town native, Dirksen spent more than half of his 73 years in colorful, controversial, eloquent activity in the political and legislative scene.

WHETHER CAMPAIGNING in his home state or orating in his full-blown style in the U. S. Senate, Dirksen always kept in mind his grass-roots origin.

Never did he forget that the first obligation of an office-holder is to get elected. He spoke of the work of being a U. S. Senator as a "practical business even pragmatic."

Political opponents who found fault with his acceptance of financial support admitted that Dirksen's document filed with the secretary of the Senata showing that while 71 per cent of the campaign funds used to re-elect him in 1968 came from gifts of $500 or more, the list of contributors contained names of labor leaders side by side with stockbrokers, leaders of industry and commerce. Dirksen defended law fees he got from a Peoria law firm, simultaneously saying that voters had the right to recall elected officials they did not trust.

Accounts of his life will make much of how he was a ham actor at heart, of how his over-blown oratorical delivery was a laftover from earlier days, of how he mashed metaphors and mixed figures of speech. His record, whieh outsold platters put out by teenage competition, showed that if he was the "Wizard of Oqze" he still had control of the magic ingredient of personality that fascinated all who met or heard him.

THERE WERE TIMES when his flexibility irritated some old-line followers. But, he pointed out that when there was reason for taking a new stand, the man who would not changa was "either incompetent or in the cemetery."

With ringing voice he often stated that he was guided by his conscience and placed first the walfare of his nation and fellow-citizens.

Many individuals will remember Senator Dirksen as the candidate for office who eharmed the ladies with his old-fashioned approach, or who fought a valiant and losing battle to have the marigold win national floral honors.

In the history books, the man from Pekin may be honored for the outstanding role he played in the passage of the Civil Rights Law or the advisory function he performed for several Presidents, often putting national interests ahead of party elaims.

Of a great national figure, the poet Edwin Markham wrote:

"And when he fell in whirlwind, he went down
As when a lordly cedar, green with boughs,
Goes down with a great shout upon the hills,
And leaves a lonesome place against the sky."

MARKHAM WAS describing Abraham Lincoln.

Everett Dirksen was not Lincoln, and we think not of a cedar but of an oak, with him in mind, with its roots firmly set in native soil. And, for sure, his passing leaves "a lonesome place against the sky."

Enrollment Hits 14,936

The total anrollment in the six schools of High School District 214 is 14,936, an increase of more than 1,400 students compared to last year's figures, Supt. Ed. Gilbert reports.

The enrollment for each school is: Arlington, 2,314; Elk Grove, 2,645; Forest View 2,501; John Hersey 2,578; Prospect 2,490 and Wheeling 2,408.

The total figure is 186 more than that projected for the 1969-70 school year, Gilbert added.

Student-teacher ratios compiled by the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction places the district aighth in the rankings of high schools in Cook County.

District 214 has 19 students for eaeh teacher. Schools having fewer students per teacher are, New Trier East 14.1; Glenbrook high school 15.3; Niles Township Community High School 15.7; J. Sterling Morton, 18.3; Evanston Township 18.3; Proviso Township 18.6; and Evergreen Park Community 18.9.

Lee Janson LISTENS TO YOU

TROUBLE AT HOME

Dear Lee Janson,

Things are so terrible at home, I've got to leave. I'm 17, and my boyfriend is 18, and he wants to get married.

My mother drinks all the time, the house is always dirty, and my father is almost never home. My mother is always screaming at my brothers and sisters. I can't stand it any longer, so I think I'm right in wanting to get married.

My boyfriend works in a gas station now, but he'll be going in service soon. He's going to finish high school when he gets out of service. I want to get away from home so bad. I really want to get married. Don't you agree this is best for me?

All Mixed Up

No! Why trade one set of problems for another? Stay in school until you graduate. Talk to your counselor. Get help for your mother. Rida through this temporary mess, and build your hopes as high as they'll go. Good luck, honey. You need it.

GREAT WAY TO STUDY

Dear Lee Janson,

When I was having trouble studying for exams last year, my buddy gave me some pills to stay awake. They really worked. Ha says he can get them for me anytime I want. As long as I took the pills, I felt great. When I stopped, I felt tired and weak. I'm wondering if any harm can come from using my buddy's pills?

Wondering

You'd better believe it can. Any nut that takes any kind of pill without a doctor's approval is asking for trouble.

Jubilee Desserts

Mrs. Lester Comstock, second vice president of conference of the Lake Bluff-Chicago Homes for Children Auxiliary, has contributed many talents to their 75th anniversary "Jubilee Bee," to be held this Saturday at the Hawthorn-Mellody Farm in Libertyville. Here she completes a hooked rug. Her other talents include pictures made from copper wiring and a favorite dessert recipe for Frozen Strawberry Squares which is included in the Auxiliary's Jubilee Bee Cook-Book.

Two thousand five hundred bakery items will be sold this Saturday, Sept. 13, at the "Jubilee Bee," the 75th benefit observance of the Lake Bluff/Chicago Homes for Children from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Hawthorn-Mellody Farm in Libertyville.

All of the baked goods will be made by auxiliary members. Many live as far away as Rockford, Ill., since the auxiliary is part of the Rock River Conference of the Methodist Church which covers an area from the Wisconsin border on the north, down the Mississippi River as far south as Rock Island and Moline and east to the Indiana border.

A "Jubilee Bee Cook-Book," containing many of the recipes of the donated baked goods, will be on sale at the Bee for $1. Or it may be purchased by mail for $1.25 from Mrs. Howard C. Lacina, 7508 Palma Ln., Morton Grove, Ill. 60053.

MANY CONTRIBUTORS to the "Bee" are our Day at Home readers. Others are members of the service leagues associated through their churches with the home.

Three dessert recipes have been selected from the "Jubilee Bee Cook-Book," those of Mrs. Lester Comstock, second vice president of conference of the Lake Bluff-Chicago Homes for Children Auxiliary, and Mrs. William H. Betts, bakery hive co-chairman, both ladies from Arlington Heights. From Wheeling, Mrs. George H. Kline, sends the recipe for One-Bowl Chocolate Cake. Mrs. Kline is the outgoing chairman of the board of The Second-Time Around Shop, a thrift store which the auxiliary operates at 562 N. Milwaukee Av., Wheeling.

The Don Sanders Family Grows Zucchini

By Frances Altman

Don Sanders says he is a gardener because the fresh vegetables subsidize his mortgage payments.

Having two lots of wide open spaces was what prompted Don and his wife, Diane, to plant every kind of seed imaginable. They are now reaping a bountiful harvest of tomatoes, peppers, corn and cucumbers. But their biggest success is Don's zucchini patch.

Their largest prize is still growing on the vine and right now is over 20 inches long and 15 inches in circumference. It is naturally an item which their two youngsters, Doug, age 4, and Diane, a kindergartener, like to inspect daily. When it is eventually picked it should make a splendid Show and Tell item.

BOTH DON AND Diane are natives of Chicago, where Don, an operations director, has been associated with NBC Channel 5 for 21 years. Two years ago the Sanders moved to Arlington Heights from Skokie.

Don's specialty is directing TV commercials, and he enjoys working the sign-on shift so that he has the late afternoons free. For five years he also instructed in communications at Columbia College in Chicago.

Long before the Sanders turned to gardening, zucchini was one of their late summer favorites. Diane has perfected two recipes which she likes fot variety.

ZUCCHINI PARMESAN

1 zucchini, washed and sliced thin
1 onion, sliced
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
Mixed Italian herbs (garlic powder, basil and oregano)
Parmesan cheese

Saute zucchini and onion lightly in butter for five minutes in large frying pan. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and Italian herbs; pour tomatoes over, stirring gently to blend.

Cover; cook over low heat 15 minutes or until zucchini is tender. Place in serving bowl and sprinkle with Parmesan cheese.

ZUCCHINI SKILLET CASSEROLE

1 cup green pepper strips
1 cup sliced onion
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1½ pounds zucchini, sliced
3 medium-sized firm, ripe tomatoes, peeled and chopped, or 1 can (1 pound 4 ounces) Italian plum tomatoes
¾ teaspoon basil
1 teaspoon salt
dash of pepper
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon water
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Saute green pepper and onion in butter until soft. Add zucchini, tomatoes, basil, salt and pepper. Cover; simmer 15 minutes. Blend cornstarch and water to a smooth paste; stir into mixture in skillet. Cook until thickened. Sprinkle with cheese. Broil just until cheese melts. Makes six servings.

Graffiti Lives

It's "the real nitty-gritty pop literature of the sixties," according to an article in the September Seventeen by Bonnie O'Boyle. A good graffito has all the qualities of an old saying or adage: it's short, memorable and has low-voltage shock quality.

Some graffiti have become part of the popular language. For example: "God isn't dead. He's living in Argentina under an assumed name"; "Yankee, go home! And take me with you"; "Stamp out mental health"; "Draft beer, not men."

GRAFFITI OFTEN have humor, sometimes black humor with an unpleasant bite: "Ban the bomb, save the world for conventional warfare" is a famous New York underground statement. Others hark back to the Keystone cops type of slapstick, shriveling a person or point with an sbsurd kind of ridicule: "J. Edgar Hoover sleeps with a night light."

The best humorous graffiti take a droll look at modern society and its hang-ups. An urban pessimist wrote "Chicken Little was right" on a pillar of a New York subway, for example. "Sacred cows make great hamburger" is not only a prime slice of wall-writing, it's a kind of manifesto of graffitidom.

Graffiti often grows into dialogues which are a form of free communication. Or at time it takes an intellectual turn. One of the best thinking-man's graffiti was discovered in New York. The first line was "Shakespeare eats Bacon" followed by "It can't be Donne."

The use of graffiti is as old as ancient Rome (examples have been found giving some very blunt, funny and sometimes obscene views of military officers and Roman emperors), and psychiatrists are now busily investigating the reasons for its increasing popularity. According to the article there is one simple explanation: "People want an audience for their wit, their frustrations, even their hates." Graffiti are free in every sense. There are no editors, proofreaders, publishers or typesetters to wade through, not even a censor.

GRAFFITI in the form of buttons and bumper stickers are now good business. All the great graffiti like "Frodo lives" and "Help retarded children Support our schools" have ended up on buttons.

Still the flow of graffiti continues. Signs such as "Do not write on the walls" have no effect, except as inspiration for retorts like "Maybe we should type?"

Cook for Child's Taste

Who says children have to hate vegetable ? Why, they can learn to love broccoli when it is topped with tasty lemon butter.

Cook two packages of frozen broccoli spears according to package directions; drain if necessary.

Meanwhile, in a small saucepan, melt ¼ cup of butter; cook over low heat until amber colored. This brings out the wonderful flavor of butter that no other shortening can measure up to. Add 1½ tablespoons of lemon juice. Place the broccoli in a service dish and pour the lemon butter over the top.

Fun is in Fonduing!

"Fondue is the easy, new, fun way to give a party," says Miss Opal Hauschildt, home economist for the John Oster Co., who is demonstrating their new electric fondue pot this week at Carson Pirie Scott and Co.

Whether you are serving hors d'oeuvres or dessert, brunch, informal supper or a late night treat, indoors or out, electric fondue feasting is a way to let your guests do the cooking for you, all with the convenience of controlled heat.

The thermostatically controlled heat probe means no more scorching or burning. No dangerous flame. Everyone can be an expert gourmet chef.

THE POT IS lined with Teflon II, meaning non-stick preparation and serving, plus easy cleaning. Fondue lore and the new electric fondue pot provide for festivity as well as feasting.

The fun of fondue is having everybody gathered around the communal pot. Dunking at a fondue party is not only permissible, it is a necessity for the hungry diners. Equipped with individual forks, everyone can dip into the same pot, creating a gay, congenial atmosphere.

One good dip deserves another, and soon, with everyone dipping into the electric fondue pot, you've provided that special note of conviviality and added charm to your party. If a would-be dunker loses a piece of food from his fork while dipping into the pot, he can be pleasantly "penalized" by having to kiss the person of his choice.

FONDUE COMES from the French word meaning "to melt" and has a ritual of dipping, whether it's dipping cubes of bread (French) into Swiss Cheese Fondue or fresh fruit or pastry cubes into a dessert fondue or cooking cubes of tenderloin into hot oil and dipping into tasty sauces in beef fondue. The sauce accompaniments can be prepared quickly and easily in your Osterizer blender.

Fondue for dessert can be a delightful ending for any meal. Numerous fresh fruits and bakery items, including strawberries, bananas, apples, pineapples, oranges, peaches, lady fingers and sponge cake take on a glaze when dipped into tasty dessert sauces such as those listed in the following recipes:

ANGEL FONDUE

¼ cup butter
¼ cup light rum
½ cup undiluted pineapple juice concentrate
½ cup confectioners' sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch.

Osterizer Blender Method

Melt butter in Oster Electric Fondue pot with control set at No. 9. Put remaining ingredients into Osterizer blender container, cover and process at STIR (Lo) until well blended. Pour into fondue pot and stir well. Cook, stirring occasionally, until mixture begins to bubble around the edges. Reduce heat to No. 3 and stir constantly until thickened.

Conventional Method

Heat butter, pineapple juice and sugar together in fondue pot at high, stirring until melted and bubbly. Mix cornstarch and rum together, pour into juice mixture, stirring constantly. Reduce heat to low and continue cooking, stirring constantly, until thickened.

CHOCOLATE FONDUE

1 cup undiluted evaporated milk
2 cups chocolate chips
¼ cup butter
¼ cup Cointreau
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
½ cup blanched almonds (optional)

Osterizer Blender Method

Scald milk in Oster Electric Fondue with control set at No. 9. Set pan aside. Put remaining ingredients except almonds into Osterizer blender container, cover and process at LIQUEFY (Hi) until smooth. Use a rubber spatula to help guide ingredients into the vortex. When mixture is smooth, stop blender, add almonds, cover and process at GRIND (Hi) and off quickly several times until almonds are coarsely chopped. Pour into Fondue Pot and cook at No. 9, stirring constantly, until mixture begins to bubble aronnd the edges. Reduce heat to No. 3 for serving.

Conventional Method

Chop almonds coarsely and set aside. Put remaining ingredients into Fondue Pot, set control at high and cook, stirring occasionally, until chocolate is melted and smooth. Reduce heat to low and mix in almonds.

CARAMEL-ORANGE FONDUE

¼ cup butter
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup orange juice
¼ cup sherry
3 tablespoons cornstarch

Osterizer Blender Method

Pour into Fondue Pot and stir well. Cook, stirring occasionally, until mixture begins to bubbla around the edges. Reduce heat to No. 3 and stir constantly until thickened.

Everyone can be an expert gourmet chef by using the Electric Fondue by the Oster Co.

"We hope our friends who have joined us in past years will note the earlier closing time," said Mrs. Myron R. Hartley, chairman.

Housewalkers are urged to make their plans early. Special advance tickets for $2 are available for the "early birds." Tickets at the door will be $3, according to the ticket committee. Low heels and no children under the sge of seven are suggested.

Jacobs, the contemporary modern home of Fred R. Johnson, which makes extensive use of natural woods and stone and the elegant townhouse filled with decorator object d'arts of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Look.

Insulated Casserole

A new insulated casserole server that maintains serving temperatures of hot or cold foods, and can be used for preparing foods as well, has been introduced by The West Bend Co. It's ideal for picnics, family outings and church potlucks whenever foods have to be transported and their temperatures maintained. The casserole server consists of a 2-quart Teflon-coated aluminum bake pan that fits into a colorful insulated container eqnipped with a close-fitting lid. Almost any food, from everyday casserole to special event vichyssoise and including gelatin molds and one-layer cakes, can be prepared in the inset pan. After the food is baked, frozen or chilled, it is placed into the insulated dish where it stays hot or cold until serving.

Cold, Cool World

Treat Summer-Tired Moms to Lunch

By Charlotte Erickson

Now that summer is over and everyone is back into a fall and schooltime routine (at least we hope so), it is an excellent time to plan a simple luncheon for friends and/or neighbors.

Perhaps you would like to include a new neighbor as guest of honor. This affords an excellent opportunity to renew friendships, find out how everyone spent the summer and catch up on the latest gossip.

Your friends will admire you for your thoughtfulness. This relaxing fun day will be a treat for all mothers who have spent the summer busing children back and forth from the pool and other activities, acting the dual role of referee and marshall, as well as mother, cook and maid to a houseful of jubilant youngsters who have been on vacation.

BROILED CRABMEAT SANDWICHES

This simple sandwich is a bit out of the ordinary, may be prepared in advance and needs only a few minutes of broiling before serving, leaving the hostess free to enjoy her guests.

Yield: Serves 6

1 7½-ounca can crabmeat

2 tablespoons mayonnaise

2 tablespoons dairy sour cream or half and half

1 scallion, snipped finely

1 3-ounce package cream cheese, softened

1 egg yolk

½ teaspoon prepared mustard

dash salt

⅛ teaspoon white pepper

3 English muffins, split and toasted

snipped parsley

paprika

Combine crabmeat, mayonnaise and sour cream; add onion. In another bowl cream together cream cheese, egg yolk, mustard, salt and pepper until smooth and creamy. Spread toasted muffin halves with butter or margarine, then with crab mixture. Top with cream cheese mixture. Place on baking sheet and broil five to six inches from heat for two to three minutes until top is bubbly and golden brown. Garnish with parsley and paprika.

HAM AND SWISS PUFF SANDWICHES

Quick and easy to prepare, this is delightful for serving as a luncheon entree, for a light weekend supper, or for a late evening after theater or a bridge-type snack. It must be prepared in advance, so there is no last-minute hustle and bustle.

Yield: 6 to 8 servings

1 pound (about 2 cups) ground ham

½ pound (about 2 cups) ground or shredded swiss cheese

½ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing

1 teaspoon prepared mustard

12 slices day-old white bread, toasted

6 eggs

2¼ cups milk

Combine ground ham and cheese in a mixing bowl. (Your butcher will be happy to run your ham ends and cheese through the meat grinder at the store. However, if you have a grinder at home you'll find it takes only a few seconds to run both these items through your food chopper.) Add mayonnaise or salad dressing and mustard; blend.

Toast half the bread and spread this entire mixture on six slices of toasted bread. Put remaining six slices of toasted bread on top and cut each slice into quarters diagonally, so that you now have four triangles from each sandwich.

Meanwhile, in your blender or mixing bowl combine eggs and milk, beating the eggs slightly before adding the milk. In a buttered 9-by-13-by-2-inch baking dish stand triangles crust side down on end in an alternating pattern. Pour milk and egg mixture over the sandwiches. Cover with foil and chill at least four hours or overnight.

Bake in a 325 degree oven for approximately 35 minutes, or just until the custard sets. Garnish with a sprinkling of paprika if you wish and sprigs of parsley. With a spatula cut and lift out each triangle onto a serving plate.

TO FREEZE: Prepare mixture as above and let set for several hours before freezing.

TO SERVE WHEN FROZEN: Let mixture thaw completely when ready to serve. Bake according to above instructions.

Ham ends may be purchased at most delicatessen or sausage counters at half price. These are the first and last slices of a canned or boiled ham and are in no way inferior to the rest of the product. An ideal way to use this economical meat is to grind it and use it in a dish such as the above. This is also a marvelous way of using leftover ham at home.

SEPTEMBER

Scoutmaster on Move Toward Bigger Things

By Richard Crabb

Richard Dunlop, an Arlington Heights man who writes books and develops accomplished Boy Scout troops, is moving toward fresh peaks in both his specialties.

Dunlop's next book, "Historic Trails of the West" will be published next year. His Arlington Heights Troop 333 is pointing to a great 1970.

The situation is similar to the early fall of three years ago. Dunlop was completing his "Doctor's of the American Frontier", on frontier life and the Old West. His scout troop, sponsored by the Stonegate Homeowners Association, was hard at work learning outdoor skills.

IN THE SUMMER of '67 the troop went to the South Dakota and camped with n Sioux Indian tribe. In the spring of '68 the troop observed the Illinois centennial by spending spring vacation hiking the histroie Shawnee Ozark trail across the George Rogers Clark country in southern Illinois. In July the senior members of the troop went to Alaska and hiked the Chilkoot trail of the Yukon gold miners. They tackled a trail that less than 50 outdoorsmen successfully master in a year.

The outdoor education of the boys was tested to the limit. Scoutmaster Dunlap became too ill to completa the hike on foot. The scouts hiked across the Alaskan wilderness to the railroad to White Horse and got help. A Canadian helicopter came to Dunlap's rescue. He required a week in the White Horse hospital to recover from a rare form of water allergy whieh occurs in the far north.

Most of the scouts on the big trips in 1968 graduated from the troop, and this year Dunlop finds himself in the position of a football coach with n rebuilding job to do.

"This is the great opportunity and the real fun," says Dunlop. "Most of our boys began when they are 11 years old. It is a remarkable thing to see them develop together. Already they are beginning to look like veterans. By next year they will be ready to assume great responsibilities."

ANY BOY interested in joining up this fall may call Senior Patrol Leader Mike Welch or Scoutmaster Dunlop.

The new scouts got their first taste of big league outdoor camping just before school started. Dunlop took his young scouts on an eight-day encampment to Portage Bay on the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. Major attention was given merit badges in such basis things as cooking, camping, pioneering, nature, fishing and astronomy. For the most advanced scouts there was training for advancement second- and first-class ranks.

Dunlop's forumla is to provide a scout adequate training and then give him full responsibility. "Our program is scout led," he says.

That is why Mike Welch, 1808 N. Kennicott Av., the senior patrol leader, was in eharge of the Upper Michigan camping trip. He was assisted by the other troop officers, ineluding Kent Dexter, assistant senior patrol leader, 115 Pear Tree Ln.; Lee Charland, quartermaster, 811 N. Hickory St.; Jim Dunlop, leader of the Eagle Patrol, 115 Mayfair Rd.; Gary Burkhardt, leader of the Moose Patrol, 1111 E. Campbell St.; Paul Gilling, leader of the Mustang Patrol, 1517 E. Wing St.

On the Michigan trip were Junior Assistant Scoutmaster Fred Morrison and troop instructors Rick Dunlop and John Hoffnagle, who helped with merit badge instruction and safe operation of the waterfront on Portage Bay. During the encampment, the Arlington Heights scouts visited Fayette State Park and explored the historie iron town of Fayette.

The Swirling of Bagpipes

By Catherine O'Donnell

Talk to Ken Harris of the friendly - just - around - the - corner - from - Arlington - Heights - road - on - Central drugstore. With n little imagination, you can hear the swirling of bagpipes.

Ken and his wife, Jean who livn on Catini in Arlington Heights, traveled all the way to Pugwash, Nova Scotia, on their vacation for a gathering of the clans.

It was a colorful affair with the men clad in 147 different tartans representing almost the whole of Scotland. Ken was there as a spectator.

"It takes a lot of nerve to wear those kilts," he explained.

THEY WENT on to Antogonish to watch the tossing of the caber, n highland game. The "caber" is like n telephone pole.

The Harrises visited St. Edward Island and n fascinating old fishing village on Magdalen Island where nveryone spoke French. It was a bonny vacation indeed.

HAPPY ANNIVERSARY

Not of Arlington Heights, but well known in our town is Chuck Druhot who has the Mount Prospect Auto Wash on E. Prospect Av.

Chuck and his wife, Vinks, celebrated their 14th wedding anniversary by getting away from it all for a weekend at Pheasant Run in St. Charles.

GOLDEN AGER

"I just had to tell someone," the woman on the phone said. "I live across the street from an elderly lady who finds it difficult to get around much but the neighbors are good to her and she manages. Her husband died a few years ago and she's been living on Social Security and whatever small pension she gets.

"She is a proud woman and we often say that maybe she isn't eating enough but she is the one who calls us in to heve n piece of her freshly-baked coffee cake.

"The other day she came out on her porch and got her mail. I waved to her and she waved back. When I looked again she was sitting on the steps and I could tell thet she was crying.

"I went over. She had just received her tax bill and she was crushed. She had allotted so much but it was much more than she could pay.

"The house she lives in is paid for but she said that she is paying more in taxes on it now than the monthly payment was through the years.

"I don't know what can be done for people who nre no longer young but I certainiy hope that this will let local residents who never bother thinking nbout the consequences of voting for every referendum that comes along, know just how their indifference affects the older people.

"It's nice to think that we'll all stay active and independent when we're old but she probably thought the same thing a few years ago. I wish everyone could have seen her crying in that afternoon sun. I can't forget it."

DISCUSSION ON A SUNDAY MORNING

The Southminster Presbyterian Church on Central will heve Sister Gabriel Corbally of Roman Catholic Sacred Heart of Mary High School leading six discussions in as many Sundays beginning Sept. 21. The theme will be How God Speaks to Man Today.

Urges Rolling Meadows Name School After City

Rolling Meadows resident Billy Mann, n former school board candidate, continued to press this week for his name for District 214's seventh high school to be built in Rolling Meadows.

Community pride, better student identification, and past district logic in naming its schools, all dictate that the new high school be called Rolling Meadows High School or at least Meadows High School, Mann said.

Mann, who once was a school board candidate, spoke his thoughts at the district board meeting.

"Rolling Meadows has waited n long time for this high school," Mann emphasized.

The board, too busy with arehitectural and construction phases of the school, said they would weigh Mann's suggestions whenever they get around to naming the structure.

Writing Parodies

Talk with a Teacher

By Esther Culton

"Mother, I need to write a parody on the poem "Trees." Will you help me? I can't even start."

When my son yelled this to me from his room upstairs, I thought this couldn't be. He must have made a mistake. He must have been "tuned out" to what his teacher had been saying that day.

The thought of writing a parody on that beautiful poem "Trees" horrified me. It also made me think about my school days when my teacher told me to write about "my most embarrassing moment" and I just couldn't. I asked John if he could use another poem and he said, "No, that was it." Then I knew I must try to help.

MY FIRST thought when helping a child want to write is to find a subject that has caught and held his interest long enough for him to have gained knowledge about this special interest. Almost every child today has one or more driving interests such as baseball, airplanes, television, stamp collecting, travel or even comic book collecting. When one of these interests is tied to writing, we can probably create a willingness to write.

To help my son write the parody on "Trees," I told him to think of something that he had been spending time thinking about lately (girls excluded). This should also be something about which he had some knowledge.

His answer was, "Cars!" By this time I think that he had forgotten "Trees." He said, "Mom, I wish I had a 'souped up' car." My mind was still on "Trees," so I desperately replied, "Well, I too, wish you had that car, son, but do you suppose you could do that parody about a 'Souped Up' car!"

He laughed and came back to earth and "Trees."

This is how he started, "I think that I shall never see, A souped up car that so suits me." He went on to describe a car with purple fenders and one door missing. I am sure he was most proud of the "A" the teacher gave him.

CREATIVE THINKING is probably new to the young mind. My favorite way of helping a child want to write is to ask him to do some thinking about different subjects and to express his thoughts before he writes.

I have found the following method very successful. "Mary, what comes to your mind when I say, 'Grandmother's house?' " She quickly replied, "Attic." "What comes to your mind when I say 'attic'?'' She answered, ''Dress-up clothes, long dresses with high heels." She was able to take it from there and write a story.

Another time I said to 10-year-old Dan, "Dan, what comes to your mind when I say, 'Glass'?" We had been reading about glass blowing. His answer surprised me. He said, "A glass car." I asked very quietly, "Do you think this is possible?" He became quite excited and said, "Yes, I'll show you." He proceeded to draw a picture and tell me all about it. He then wrote all about his glass car, and called it, "The Car of the Future."

WHAT COMES TO your mind when I say "A long, winding road?" One child said, "Snow-capped mountains." Another child said, "A haunted house."

A child needs the help of an adult who, by the skillful use of questions to stir thinking, helps the child express thoughts and then write about them. Mothers should make this a quiet time of relaxation and pleasure, not talking too much, drawing out the child's ideas and appreciating his replies to her questions.

I believe he will begin to look forward to his writing assignments for school with Mother or Father as his guide.

Poor Diet Cited As Cause of Mental Problems

By the Staff of Forest Hospital

Tea and toast diets can be a major underlying cause of abnormal behavior in elderly Medicare patients who are hospitalized for psychiatric reasons.

"They respond amazingly to a good meal after having lived for months on tea and toast," said psychiatrist Dr. Maurice E. Linden, medical director of Philadelphia State Hospital.

The response is so rapid, he said, that at first he suspected the families had misrepresented the facts when admitting the elderly patient or else they were simply rejecting him.

Many of these patients must be admitted as emergency cases because of their aberrant behavior at home.

Now Dr. Linden is convinced that what he has been seeing is the result of malnutrition. If it were not for enriched flour in toast, the patients would have become ill much sooner.

Speaking on recent studies of the psychiatric aspects of aging, Dr. Linden said that placing patients on a good diet had been a major factor in the success of treatment programs at special geriatric centers for elderly psychiatric cases.

Of the Medicare patients, 93 per cent of 1,500 studied have been able to return to the community after a stay averaging 41 days at the State Hospital.

True psychotic disorders, depressions and organic brain damage are also important reasons for treatment. But many of the patients are behaving abnormally because of physical illnesses.

"In many ways, the need for a good specialist in internal medicine is greater than the need for a psychiatrist for these Medicare patients," Dr. Linden said.

Finance Course Starts Sept. 17

There are still openings in a Northern Illinois University extension division graduate level finance course this fall for the Des Plaines area, Dr. Arthur C. Muns said today.

Muns, extension coordinator, NIU College of Continuing Education, said that student places in the course are filled on a first-come-first-served basis until maximum class size is attained. Registration may be by mail, or in persons on the first class night, provided the course is not then filled.

Finance 500, a three semester-hour credit course, survey of business economics, meets Wednesdays for 16 weeks beginning Sept. 17, from 6:45 to 9 p.m., in Room-A211, Maine West High School.

THIS IS ONE of the initial survey courses required in the M.B.A. (Master's in Business Administration) program and is designed for graduates with little formal education in the field of economics. It also may be taken for no credit by individuals with the experience to benefit.

Persons interested in enrolling should contact their local adult education director or pre-register by writing to Dr. Muns, at 103 Adams Hall, NIU, DeKalb 60115

Fees include $45 payable to Northern Illinois University, plus an additional $4 local registration fee payable to Maine Township High School, District 207. Payments should accompany final registration only.

Wheeling Jaycees To Hold Annual Las Vegas Night

The Wheeling Jaycees will hold its annual Las Vegas Night from 8 p.m. to midnight at the Clayton house, 1090 S. Milwaukee Av. on Saturday, Sept. 27. Admission will be $1.50 a person.

Each person attending will receive $1,000 in play money--$1,200 if in western costume--to be used in playing the various games, such as roulette, black jack, and horse racing.

OUR MEN OF THE WEEK:
Joseph Bopp
Richard Pascoe

As announced over WEXI 92.3 FM Arlington Heights last week (listen each Friday night at 7:15) the Mount Prospect Federal Savings and Loan Association salutes Mount Prospect Police Detectives Joseph Bopp and Richard Pascoe as "Men of the Week" for their persistent work which helped to smash a marijuana sales ring.

It was largely through the efforts of the Mount Prospect police in cooperation with Elgin detectives and state police that a massive field of wild marijuana was found and destroyed in the Champaign-Urbana area. Worth of the field was estimated at $1 million retail.

Alleged key figures in the sale of marijuana in the Northwest area are in custody and a source of supply has been dried up.

Thus the Mount Prospect police detectives are to be commended for their diligent and often unsung efforts to combat the use of marijuana, a menace to today's youth.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) Action you may have been postponing could well be taken at this time--especially if friends are in accord with your thinking.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) Any difficulties arising now should be met with brains, not brawn. This is especially true when it comes to bending another to your will.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)--Keep to a single course of action and you should be able to overcome obstacles with little trouble. Don't spread yourself too thin.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)--The wise Sagittarius will keep his individuality under wraps for the time being. For now, keep with the majority.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)--Move directly toward your major goal through the assertion of your own personality. Don't be overshadowed.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)--An effort to improve your business or professional standing should meet with success this afternoon. Keep calm.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21)--This is not the time to attempt to play the game of success alone. Joint efforts prove far more beneficial than individual action.

ARIES (March 22-April 20)--Take care that in an effort to obtain advancement on the employment scene you don't end up overselling yourself.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)--If you would obtain help in achieving your ambition, you must be straightforward enough to enunciate them clearly. Speak up.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)--Increase your pleasure in your work by introducing new methods of operation into the routine. Results prove the point you're after.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)--Your opinion can definitely count for something this morning--but you must take part in the action for it to be recognized.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) Temporary setbacks must not be allowed to dull your enthusiasm for a new project. Take a second look at the plans.

The Game of the Day

Vikings 'Steal' First Win of 1969 Season from Steelers

By Jim O'Donnell

Jay Loos and Steve Spielmann provided the Vikings with spectacular touchdown runs Sunday afternoon at Lions Park, and in doing so led the Norsemen to a 12-6 conquering of the Steelers in both clubs' 1969 Mount Prospect Midget Football Associatioo inagural.

The two Junior Division clubs played a fairly even game, though at times it seemed that the Steelers were well versed in controlling the ball. Both clubs stuck to the ground throughout the game. Out of seven passes attempted by the two squads, only one was completed, a 19-yarder by the Steelers in the first period.

LOOS AND Spielmann both ran consistently for the Vikings and both received good blocking on their dashes. Loos zipped around end on the final play of the opening period, going 61 yeards for the score. Spielmann ran the second-half kick-off back for 65 yards. For the game, Spielmann picked up 17 yeards while his scoring and backfield partner Loos banged out 68 yards on only 10 carries.

The Steeler offense was spearheaded by the power running of Jim Altergott, George Bregar and George Bicego. Altergott was the staff's workhorse, lugging the ball 18 times and gaining 48 yards.

Bicego ran on 11 plays, packing up 47 yards. Bregar was called upon only three times, but knocked out 25 stripes. Also playing a major role in the losers' ball moving was quarterback Doug Spohr who gained 15 yards rushing and 19 yards passing.

BICEGO GOT the call on first down, gaining four on an end sweep. The Viking defense then tightened up, stopping Spohr and Altergott cold, setting up a fourth and six situation.

Spohr could only pick up a yard and the Vikings took over on the 10. Spielmann ran the ball to the 19 on first down, but was hit at the line on the second play. The chains made their first appearance of the afternoon following Spielmann's third down plunge.

After the referee signaled first down, Viking quarterback Tom Hermanson pitched to Loos around left end. One good block sprung Loos and then it was no contest. The conversion run failed, but as the gun sounded to end the first quarter, the Vikings were on the scoreboard.

SPIELMANN kicked off for the Vikes, sending the ball to the 20 where the Steelers caught, fumbled and recovered the pigskin. Three successive runs by Altergott, Bregar and Spohr netted 16 yards and a first down on the 36.

Following a time out by the Vikings, the Steelers' ground attack continued, moving the ball to the Viking 21.

Spohr then dropped back to pass, found no one open and ran around right end, picking up 13 stripes on a seemingly-busted play. With first and 10 on the 11, Altergott powered his way to the 7. The Vikings' Loos then made his presence on defense known, halting Bicego at the line for no gain.

Altergott ran to the outside on third down, slipping as he cut and losing two yards. Faced with a fourth and eight situation, Spohr heaved a desperation pass that was batted down by Spielmann.

THE VIKINGS took over with time running out in the first half on their 10 yard line. Loos picked up a pair but Hermanson was stopped for no gain. Due to the time element involved, the Vikings gambled, and lost on fourth down deep in their own territory.

With less than a minute remaining in the half, the Steelers sent Bicego around end from the 13. Though he ran to inside the 10, the play was called back because of offensive holding and the ball was spotted on the 28.

The Steelers tried three runs, but good diagnosing by Hermanson and Mike Szukulla stalled the drive. When the teams walked off the field at the half, the Vikings were ahead, 6-0.

Viking speedster Spielmann brought the crowd to life with his scoring kick-off return opening the second half. The conversion run failed again.

The Steelers were halted in their next drive and so were the Vikes. The Viking center got off a towering snap. While the Norsemen's punter was waiting for the ball to come down, several Steelers swarmed around him, eventually dropping him for an eight-yard loss and the Steelers again found themselves with good field position deep in Viking territory. Once again, the needed drive failed to materialize as the Viking defense, paced by Allen Stevenson, surrendered only five yards in four downs.

With the ball in their possession once again, the Vikings sent Spielmann into the line from their own 15. The youngster banged out two yards. An incomplete pass followed and Loos carted the leather for three on third down. The Vikings utilized their punter again, giving the Steelers the ball on the Vikes' 22.

THE FIRST play of the fourth quarter finally saw the Steelers make it to the endzone. Altergott raced around left end, broke a tackle and sprinted 18 yards, displaying some final open field running along the way to cut the Viking lead to 12-6.

The conversion failed js did the ensuing onsides kick attempt by the Steelers, allowing the Vikings to take over on the 30. Loos could only gain a yard on the first two plays, but Spielmann got the Vikings out of the jam with a nine-yard run, good for a first down.

The Vikings managed only six yards on the following set of downs, relinquishing possesion of the ball to the Steelers on the 23.

Bicego made a good move and raced to mid-field on first down. Altergott lugged the ball for nine, to the 31, A foreshadowing of things to come happened on the next play as Bicego fumbled, but the ball was pounced upon by teammate Bregar.

THE STEELERS were undone by their slippery hands on the ensuing play as the Vikings picked up another fumble on their own 27.

A double reverse, an end sweep and a line plunge sent the Vikings reeling back to their 18, fourth and 19 yards to go. The Vikings punt was boomed out to the Vikes' 33.

Pressed for time, the Steelers called on Bicego on first down. Number 33 carted the ball to the 25. With 35 seconds remaining on the clock, Altergott was dumped for a five-yard loss on second down. The Steelers then called time-out with 20 seconds left. The clock stoppage was repeated after Bicego was hit for a three-yard loss, putting the Steelers back on the 30.

The Steelers called time-in again, and Spohr shouted the signals with 12 seconds remaining. He dropped to pass, couldn't find a receiver, and, in desperation, scrambled. Linebacker Szukulla dropped him and the Steeler victory hopes at the line of scrimmage.

Each week this fall one football game from Mount Prospect and one game from Arlington Heights will be featured.

The Arlington Heights League does not start play until Saturday while Mount Prospect started last Sunday.

Grove Runs Blazers, Bisons In Center Meet Prep Races

Elk Grove's cross country team resumes a busy first week of action today with a home meet against Addison Trail and then completes it with another home meet against Fenton tomorrow.

Both battles will begin at 4:30 p.m. at the Grenadiers' home course at Busse Woods.

THE GRENS are trying to rebound from an opening-meet loss at Maine West Tuesday. The Warriors, one of the top cross country schools in the area every year, beat Elk Grove's varsity, 18-45, after winning the earlier freshman and sophomore meets.

About the only thing Elk Grove coach Jerry Woollard had to smile about after the Maine West varsity meet was the performance of Jim Ottinger. The durable junior grabbed third place for the Grenadiers with a time of 15:23 over the 2.75 mile course.

"We weren't sure what to expect from Jim in the first meet," Woollard said. "He ran a real good race for us and beat the time he had in last year's district meet, which is encouraging. He started coming on strong at the end of the track season last spring and he really wants to run now."

ELK GROVE got another lift at Maine West when young Tom Boggs staged a strong finish to take first place in the freshman meet with a clocking of 12:24 over two miles. He edged Maine West's Dan Schlesser by four seconds.

"Boggs was a real fine surprise for us," Woollard said. "We knew he was good because of his times in our trials last Saturday, but we weren't sure how good. He ran a real good race against Maine."

Addison Trail is sort of an unknown threat this early in the season, but Woollard remembers that "they have their No. 1 man back, so they should be pretty tough." Fenton also has its top man back, so Ottinger should have his hands full in the two merts.

Huskies Become MSL's First Cross-Country Team to Win

By Jim Stuart

The Hersey Huskies opened their cross-country season in fine style yesterday by trampling Mid-Suburban League rival Forest View and non-conference Lake Zurich. Hersey racked up 18 points, while Forest View collected 51 and Lake Zurich amassed 66.

The Hersey sophomores were not so fortunate, as the second-year Falcon harriers swept the first nine places to shut out the Huskies, 15-52. Only two Lake zurich sophs ran in the meet, and they were both far back.

HUSKIE GREG Gawlik was easily the meet medalist. The senior star covered the 2.75-mile Hersey course in the respectable time of 15:03, 45 seconds ahead of his teammate, junior Ed Rieger.

Forest View's highly-touted Bob Bell, who was supposed to give Gawlik his greatest competition, finished a distant third. His time of 16:05 placed him a full minute behind the winner.

Only two seconds behind Bell was Huskie sophomore Frank Walsworth, who complied a 16:07. Behind him were Hersey juniors Brian Zimmer at 16:11 and John Scherpalz at 16:43.

KEVIN SARNI of Forest View finished seventh in 16:45, and Hersey's Larry Inman was one second behind him in eighth. Two Lake Zurich runners, John Schmitz and Brian Sonderman, finished ninth and 10th, respectively.

Mel Cranmer of the winning Hersey outfit covered the course in exactly 17 minutes to place 11th. Falcons Doug Gwinn, Craig Henderson, Ryan Maly and Al Schmanke followed Cranmer in that order.

Needless to say, Hersey head coach Art Steele was immensely pleased at the outcome. He had looked for a real dog fight between Gawlik and Bell, but the only one who gave Greg any competition was his own Rieger. The fleet junior stayed right with the leader for about half the race.

STEELE WAS also pleasantly surprised that Walsworth. Zimmer and Scherpalz all finished ahead of Forest View's number two man, Sarni. He had looked for a lot more depth from the Falcons.

However, Steele is somewhat pessimistic concerning Saturday's Maine West Center Meet because of his own lack of depth.

"There will be five separate races in that meet," he said, "and we probably won't even be able to enter all of them because we simply don't have enough runners."

FOREST VIEW completely dominated the frosh-soph preliminary meet, giving Falcon coach John Heenan some good prospects for the future. Brian McHugh finished first, running the same 2.75 miles in 16:19. This is the first year that the varsity and sophomora harriers run the same distance.

Mc Hugh was followed closely by teammate John Kreutzer. Then came Falcons Steve Tyke, Rick Sales, Scott McGorney, Ted Frances, Wayne Miller, Rick Jensen and Mark Skekerman. Jerry Jones led the Huskie effort with a 17:22, which put him 10th, and Tom Waidanz followed in 11th.

Six more Forest View runners, Bruce Lighthall, Ken Malone, Ken Beach, Joel Soderberg, Bob Jones and Tracy Spiegler, completed the Falcon onslaught by sweeping places 12-18.

Hersey junior Ed Rieger heads for home in yesterday's meet. He finished a strong second, right behind Huskie Greg Gawlik.

Twilight Title to Keefer's

The Tuesday night champion Keefer's Pharmacists outdid rival Monday night winners from Mount Prospect Jewelers in the annual playoff between the two Mount Prospect Twilight Leagues divisions yesterday 7-5.

Playing five matches worth two points apiece and adding a point for each individual low net and team low net, the pharmacists became champions of the league in its 29th year of competition.

THE MATCH was held during the annual Day of Golf in which players from other teams vye for individual prizes and also hold an alection of officers.

In the A match, the Jewelers' Dick Koci stopped Ed Lauing of the Tuesday night champions for two points and the individual low net honors. Lauing actually had a better raw score with a 75 compared to Koci's 76, but handicap made the differance and Koci's net of 62 was best for either team.

The B match found Jim Werdell of the Tuesday nighters topping Cliff Rezny for two points, but Dick Barstad came through for the Monday night crew in the C division. His victim was Ted Small.

Jim Price brought things back for the pharmacists with a win over Dick Brome. Rees Miller, Jr., took Keefer's ahead to stay with a two-point victory over Vern Schneider of the Jewelers, and the low net title added an unneeded point to the Keefer victory.

Knights Test One of MSL's Best Tonight

Prospect High School's cross-countrymen taka on the toughest first this year as they host a well-versed Fremd aggregation today to kick off the Knight harrier season.

The Vikings are "probably one of the teams to beat," this year in the Mid-Suburban League, which has seen several of its past participants do well in the state finals.

FREMD CAN boast several returnees from last year's squad, and Wanner named about the first seven Vikings as men to be reckoned with today.

"Their boys are in better shape and are running better than they ever had," according to what Wanner has heard.

But the Knights also have their hopes set on a championship this season, and Wanner can name several boys of his own who have enough experience to do the job.

He expects good performances today from Bob Pomrenke, Bill Allen, Keith Matthews, Al Morrison, Tom Klinker, Ron Hankel, Mark Tamsan, Howie Larsen, George Busse, Al Treece and Pete Dumke. All ran well last year with most of them carrying varsity experinece if not a letter.

The freshman race starts at 4:30 with the frosh-soph and varsity to follow.

If It Was 1922 You Could Get--

The 1922 Montgomery Ward catalogue has been given to the Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights libraries and is available for the inspection of the public.

One of the pages from the 1922 "Golden Jubilee" Fall-Winter catalogue of Montgomery Ward and Co., which featured a sealskin coat for $32.50. The modern catalogue also offers a mink coat for $3,900. The jubilee catalogue is at the Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights libraries.

Hardbound editions of the 1922 Montgomery Ward "Golden Jubilee" catalog have been given to the Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights libraries.

The fall-winter catalog reprinted in detail, celebrated Montgomery Ward's first 50 years in business. It was given to the two village libraries by the Montgomery Ward Co., Inc., to give residents a look at the past.

Horses were still one of the main methods of transportation and the catalog has 11 pages of equipment for old Dobbin.

AUTOS WERE becoming popular, and Montgomery Ward offered a Super Speedster Model Body that could be purchased to fit on Ford chassis that included underslug parts, a top and a windshield for only $93.50--somewhat cheaper without top and windshield.

Radio was just beginning to become popular and the catalog offers a full page of wireless equipment and even a booklet to explain this marvel of the 20th century.

Wardway homes were available for only $1,198. A book plans for homes, garages and cottages could be bought with all the material cut to size and ready to assemble. "Every model shown actually has been built and stood the test of time," the catalog claimed of their pre-fabricated houses.

Fifty different Bibles could be purchased in the Golden Jubilee catalog.

A Reliance Visible typewriter with a book of instructions could be bought for $53.75, or an adding machine for $12.25 and maybe a pencil sharpener for 95 cents.

The Buster Brown box camera for $2.19 led the photography equipment page, and the sporting goods page featured a Rugby football.

Columbia records rated a full page. Such hits as "Dardenelle", "My Isle of Golden Dreams," "Till We Meet Again," "When You Wore a Tulip" and "Cohen on the Telephone" were among hundreds sold for 75 cents. For readers who may not know or remember, the records mentioned in the catalog were 78 RPM and broke very easily.

The memories recorded in Montgomery Ward snd Co.'s Fall-Winter catalog of 1922 is available now at the Mount Prospeet and Arlington Heights libraries.

Naim Selects Officers; Plans Open House

A Folk Mass was con-celebrated by NAIM's chaplain, the Rev. Timothy Judd, left, of St. Viator High School and the Rev. Edward Corcoran.

The Rev. Edward Corcoran, national director of NAIM was the winning pitcher at the softball game played at NAIM's annual forest preserve outing recently.

Twelve years ago Naim was started in Chicago by four Catholic widows and four widowers who had begun to have that "fifth-wheel" feeling when among their friends. They soon discovered there were many other people struggling with the same adjustment problems and groups were organized in the suburbs.

Today there are numerous chapters through the United States, South America and India. St. Gregory's Chapter offers membership to interested persons throughout the northwestern suburbs.

James Kornacki, Elk Grove Village is the newly elected president of the charter chapter. Other officers are Walter Peters, vice president; Lillian Lane, treasurer, Elk Grove and Roberta Melchiore, secretary.

THE GROUP'S name is taken from a village called Naim in Gailee where Jesus Christ once comforted a sorrowing widow. Their national director is the Rev. Edward G. Corcoran, whose office is located at 109 N. Dearborn, Chicago.

St. Gregory's members are drawn from many area villages including Mount Prospect, Hoffman Estates, Barrington, Arlington Heights, and Des Plaines. On the second Friday of each month their meetings are held in the Knight's of Columbus Hall, 15 N. Hickory, Arlington Heights.

On Sept. 12 an Open House meeting will be held at which time a special program is being prepared.

ALL CATHOLIC widows and widowers are invited to attend; no reservations are needed.

St. Gregory's most recent activity was an annual outing to Bemis Woods, near Western Springs. A folk Mass was concelebrated during the outing by the Rev. Timothy Judd of St. Viator High School, Arlington Heights, and the Rev. Edward Corcoran.

Familes of the members are included in the outing with a baseball game being a highlight of the day.

Recruiting Program Seeks More Scouts

School Night for Scouting, a recruiting program for Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts, will be headed by seven district chairmen for the Northwest Suburban Council.

The recruiting program will be held in area schools, Sept. 30. The district chairmen will meet at the council coordinated meeting Sept. 15 to complete plans for enrolling new Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts and enlisting parent participation.

THE SEVEN district School Night chairmen are:

Robert Parsons, principal, Wilson School, Arlington Heights, Sauk Woods District.

LeRoy Nattress, 811 Newberry, Mount Prospect, North Star District.

Gary Smith, 515 E. Algonquin, Arlington Heights, Algonquin District.

Dr. Blair Plimpton, 1904 Fenton Ln., Park Ridge, Maine Ridge District.

ROBERT NORDIN, Skokie, Skokie Valley District.

Frank Splitt, 376 Cedar Ln., Elk Grove Village, Pathfinder District.

Arthur Leu, 1320 Dorothy Dr., Palatine, Signal Hill District. He also is organization and extension chairman for the council.

A special feature of School Night for Scouting, Leu said, is a plan to organize new Scout units in the council.

The council now reaches about 29 per cent of the boys ages 8 to 18. The council's goal is to have 17,000 boys registered in scouting by the end of the year as a part of "BOYPOWER '76", the long-range program of the Boy Scouts of America.

Rummage Sale

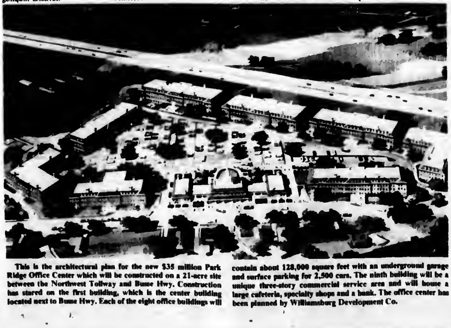
The Wheeling Historical Society will hold a rummage sale Sept. 13 in the Masonic Temple basement, Dundee and Milwaukee, Wheeling.

The sale will feature a replica of the Historical Society Museum used during the Wheeling Diamond Jubilee parade. The replica will be sold in silent auction. Bids will be accepted from 9 a.m. and the purchaser will be announced at 4 p.m.

Items of clothing, bric-a-brac and furniture with a yesteryear theme will be sold. Anyone having items to donate to the sale should call Irene Datillo at 537-0686.

A table of special Diamond Jubilee souvenirs, in honor of Wheeling's 75th anniversary, will be available to those who did not have the opportunity to purchase them during the official celebration period. Books, plates and coins will be featured at the sovenir table.

Frank Vala of 2231 Lee, Des Plaines, has been appointed secretary-treasurer of Nationwide Beef Inc. in Chicago. Vala, who is a partner and vice president in the firm, had worked for 23 years with E. W. Kneip, Inc.



This is the architectural plan for the new $35 million Park Ridge Office Center which will be constructed on a 21-acre site between the Northwest Tollway and Busse Hwy. Construction has stared on the first building, which is the center building located next to Busse Hwy. Each of the eight office buildings will contain about 128,000 square feet with an underground garage and surface parking for 2,500 cars. The ninth building will be a unique three-story commercial service area and will house a large cafeteria, specialty shops and a bank. The office center has been planned by Williamsburg Development Co.

4,000 Students Register At Harper Jr. College

More than 4,000 students have registered for classes at Harper College and still more are expected to enroll for part-time and evening courses this week.

Don Stansbury, Harper director of admissions, said 65.4 per cent (2,697 students) will be full-time junior collegians, and 34.6 per cent (1,430 students) will be part-time.

Computerized statistics show various bits of information about the registrants, according to an IBM printout.

Males outnumber females almost 2 to 1 (males, 2,331 and females, 1,285). Some registrants failed to state their sex.

THE TOTAL number of semester hours for the entire student body is 47,588, averaging 14.8 semester hours for each full-time student and 5.4 semester hours for each part-time student.

The college has 256 courses in 757 sections with the average number of students in each section being 26.6.

The most popular courses are in the fields of: communication, 736.2 students; social science, 677.1 students; business, 506.1 students.

MATHEMATICS and physical science, 460.8 students; health and biology sciences, 352.9 students; humanities and fine arts, 272.2 students; and, engineering and related technologies, 149 students.

Thirty per cent of the registrants are 25 years old or over; 27 per cent are 18 years old; 17 per cent are 19 years old; 10 per cent are 17 years old or under; and the remaining 16 per cent are ages 20 through 24.

AT LEAST 70 per cent of the enrolles reside within the Harper district covering the townships of Elk Grove, Wheeling, Schaumburg, and Palatine.

Education plans stated by the students indicate 48 per cent will transfer to a four-year college; 18 per cent will take two-year associate degrees; 4 per cent will attend college less than two years; and 31 per cent have undefined plans.

Named Purdue Assistant Prof

Daniel L. Padberg, teacher at Forest View High School and Arlington High School, 1961 to 1966, has been appointed assistant professor of speech and creative arts at Purdue University, Calumet Campus.

Padberg, a graduate of Southeast Missouri State College, holds a mastor's Degree in speech from Northern Illinois University and is working toward a Ph. D. in theater at the University of Illinois.

13th District Candidates Set Harper Forum

Four candidates contending for election as 13th District Congressman will speak on the Harper College campus in the next two weeks.

Time schedules for the four speakers are: Joe Mathewson, 11 a.m., Sept. 16; Yale Roe, Sept. 18; Sam Young, 11 a.m., Sept. 22; and Eugene Schlickman, 11 a.m., Sept. 23.

The presentations are sponsored by a study group in conflict resolution and human development. Ray Scklencar, a Harper sophomore from Arlington Heights, is the group's coordinator.

Sklencar said the speakers will deal with their goals for mankind generally and specifically in the next two to five years, the role of the United States in future world development, and what Congressmen as private citizens can do to forward these objectives.

Room locations for the open forums will be posted on college bulletin boards after classes begin Monday.

HOMEMADE GUESSING GAME!

By Cappy Dick

Paper cups and dried navy beans can be combined to make a guessing game that is fun to play at a party. Ten paper cups are taped together in pairs with a varying number of beans inside. The players must try to guess how many beans are inside any pair of cups they choose. Their only clue is the rattle of the beans as the cups are shaken.

Figure 1 shows how to assemble the pairs of cups with tape after putting the proper number of beans inside. Figure 2 shows how to label the cups with marks that only you, as the builder of the game, know how to interpret. These marks tell you how many beans are inside each pair of cups.

The pair marked "A" contains one bean.

The unmarked pair contains two beans.

The pair marked "B" contains three beans.

The pair marked "C" contains four beans and the pair marked "D" contains five beans. Print these secret markings and their meaning on small cards to which you can refer is necessary.

Stand the five "shakers" in a row and let a party guest indicate the one he chooses. Take up that shaker and shake it for him (Figure 3) so he can hear the bean or beans inside. With this sound his only basis for guessing, he announces how many beans he believes are inside the cups. If he guesses wrong he is out of the game. The last player remaining is the winner. If you prefer, you can allow each player to shake the cups of his choice. This may make it slightly easier to guess the number of beans correctly.

Psychic 'Reads' Tomorrow's Newspaper -- Today

By Lois Czubakowski

How would you like to be able to read headlines days, weeks and sometimes months before they're printed?

Joseph DeLouise can.

The psychic, who lives in suburban Hillside, Ill., gained national attention in 1967 when he on Nov. 25 predicted "Before the end of the year a major bridge--not as large as the Brooklyn of Golden Gate bridges, but a large one--will collapse, causing a great number of deaths and making newpaper headlines." He made the prediction on a Gary, Ind., radio program.

On Dec. 15 the Silver Bridge across the Ohio River at Point Pleasant, West Va., collapsed. The death toll was 46.

IN JANUARY, 1968, he predicted that Gov. Otto Kerner would not seek re-election, and he didn't. DeLouise also predicted that Richard Ogilvie would be elected Illinois' next governor, and he was.

He predicted the price of gold would go up, and it did, and he foresaw terrible earthquakes in Mexico, which occurred in November of 1968.

For this year DeLouise predicted a drastic stock market drop. He further predicts an eventual wage and price freeze following a congressional committee's study of inflation. He says labor unions aren't ready yet, but as the spiral gets out of hand they, too, will agree to the freeze.

At the beginnina of this year he also "saw" a terrible train wreck on the IC line, south of Chicago, early in 1969. He said it would occur on a foggy night and involve two trains.

Early on the morning of Jan. 17 an Illinois Central passenger train crashed head-on into a freight train in a dense fog near Manteno, 45 miles south of Chicago. Three crewmen were killed, and 49 passengers were injured.

Early this year DeLouise also said there would be another tragedy for the Kennedys, involving water. Everyone knows what happened July 18 on the Chappaquidick bridge.

DeLouise was flown to the scene of this terrible accident by several publications. He was impressed with the smallness of the cottage. Much too small, he said, for a party of 12 people. He believes that a third person was involved in some way in the accident and that more of the truth will come out when one of the girls at the party tells what really happened. He also believes one of the girls at the party will meet with a mysterious accident soon. It will never be explained.

Joseph DeLouise, nationally knowo psychic, has agreed to answer and discuss the questions of Day readers concerning their problems, their dreams, or any of their questions concernlag E.S.P. (extra-sensory-perception), reincarnation, etc. Letters should be signed but names will be omitted if the writer requests it. Write to DeLouise, % Day Publications, 117 S. Main, Mt. Prospect.

He sees a larger boat and a small boat involved in the Chappaquidick incident.

And Ted Kennedy will be involved in another serious accident, according to the psychic, which will threaten his life. But he will survive and will be a candidate for and win the presidency in 1976.

Summing it up, DeLouise says, "Three bad years lie ahead for Ted Kennedy-three years filled with sorrow and tragedy. Once again he will almost lose his life. Many of those close to him will be touched by the Kennedy curse."

JOSEPH DELOUISE, better known as Mr. Joseph at the hairdressing salon he operates at 17 N. State in Chicago, first became aware uf his powers of ESP when he was five. Born in Sicily, he told his mother where to dig up some money which she used to bring her family to the United States. He had been told where tu find the money, he said, by a strange man whom he had never seen before. His description of the man fit that of an uncle who had died 35 years before.

Everyone has ESP to some degree, according to DeLouise. "I believe primitive man had it, but as man grew more complicated he didn't use it as much. At one time we needed it for survival's sake. I feel we'll need it again," he said.

The mind, according to DeLouise, is always aware, even when we are asleep or unconcious. We can develop it and learn about it. Answers come, he said, from reaching out. "If I want someone I know to call me I can transmit it," he added, "and in sometimes a few minutes they call." According to the psychic we are all transmitters and receivers.

For instance, women can develop the power to transmit their feminity to the opposite sex and attract them.

DeLouise lives in Hillside with his wifa, and six children. "I knew about the babies before my wife did," he told us. "And I can sense if my wife is upset or very happy about something. When I get that feeling I call or go home at once."

He doesn't completely understand the power he seems to have, "In fact," he says, "I'm a little shocked by it."

Understand it or not, it has saved his life several times.

As a boy of 11 he played uften with friends near Goose Island in Chicago. One day he had a strong feeling of danger and stayed home. Two of his friends were buried alive that day by sand dumped on them from boxcars.

And in the service he was unloading shells from a destroyer at Guam Naval Base in 1945. He gut a premonitiun not to gu to wurk one day and reported to sick call. That day the ammunition dump hlew up and three of his friends died.

Court Rules Long-Haired Student May Register

By Gary Shiffman

David Miller's hair will still be long when he returns to Barrington Consolidated High School.

His appearance, however, is expected to be short. So short, in fact, that he may not make it to his first class.

Miller, 17, of 108 18th St., Barrington, was permitted to register for his senior classes yesterday afternoon at the urging of Federal Judge James B. Parsons. David was not allowed to register for the fall term because his long hair violated the school dress code.

Parsons, in a hearing yesterday, said that the school should allow Miller to register because there is nothing in the Illinois school code which gives the school board or school officials the power to deny registration to a student.

"It seems unfortunate," said Parsons, "that a young man's education should hang by a hair, especially his own."

The judge refused to enter a temporary restraining order against the school, but recommended that the District 224 officials permit the youth to register.

THE AMERICAN Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), representing Miller, had sought the restraining order after filing a suit to have the dress code ruled unconstitutional.

School Board Atty Ralph Miller (who is not related to David) said that the youth would be permitted to register, though he may face an expulsion hearing or some other form of discipline when he tries to attend class.

David Goldberger of the ACLU vowed that his organization would seek an emergency heraing "if there is any further delay in getting David into school."

Parsons agreed that the chain of events--registration of Miller and subsequent action against the student by the school--probably would bring the case back to the Federal Court for a decision on the new developments. The judge said he would consider any new motions Sept. 22.

PARSONS PROBED the background of the case in yesterday's hearing. The judge questioned David Miller extensively on a variety of topics ranging from his family background to homosexual tendencies.

David told the court that he lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Miller, has three brothers and no homosexual tendencies. The youth said he wore his hair long because he thought it looked better that way.

Ralph Miller, in response to a question from the judge, said that there was a need for a dress code at Barrington High School though that many schools have eliminated or greatly liberalized dress standards.

Attorney Miller described the school of 2,500 as "a typical northwest suburban high school." Most of the students,

Kennicott Residents May Avoid Street Widening

Residents on Kennicott between Oakton and Northwest Hwy. may have found a way to get around the Board of Local Improvements' desire to have their street improved and widened to 37 feet.

BOIL Special Commissioner Robert Bishop told 30 residents at an informal hearing last night that the village board would rule on the street width if they could avoid a BOLI-supervised special assessment and improve the street through a private contract.

The board is sympathetic to the residents' desire to keep the improved street width at 31 feet and avoid a threat to the many trees on Kennicott's parkway. At its last meeting, the board refused to guarantee professional fees on the project and advised BOLI to reduce the street width from 37 to 31 ft.

ALTHOUGH they say they haven't made up their minds yet, BOIL members told the residents that Kennicott will not be able to carry its future traffic load safely it if is only 31 feet wide.

BOIL President Russell Colvin said that 31 feet is an "accident-promoting" width. Colvin said Kennicott is the only north-south street in the village other than Arlington Heights Rd. and that heavy traffic in the future would make it unsafe.

BOIL member Harold Klingner said he has several questions he wants answered before he decides on the street width. Klingner said he wants to know whether traffic light will he installed at Kennicott and Northwest Hwy., whether Kennicott will be extended north of Rand Rd. and if a stop sign will be installed at Elm and Kennicott.

Klingner said that on a special assessment project, BOIL makes the final decision on all specifications. The village board can accept or reject the project, Klingner said, but cannot change anything. He agreed with Bishop that the village board holds final power over specifications on a private contract project.

IN A SPECIAL assessment project, resident involved are forced to pay for improvements by court order. Under a private contract, they voluntarily do it themselves, with the village engineer's supervision.

Richard Adams, 1120 W. Northwest Hwy., president of the Ridge Park Community Ass., said a wider street would be bad for the area.

"If we create a through street in this area, we will be creating a situation which, in my opinion will be very undesirable from the standpoint of child safety," Adams said.

Many of the 30 residents voiced objections. One called the $172,000 cost estimate of the project "outrageous."

JAMES BAIRD, 927 N. Kennicott, accused BOLI members of having made up their minds beforehand.

"This is not hearing," he said. "You've already made up your minds." Baird later walked out of the hearing saying BOLI wanted a rubber stamp for its actions.

In explaining the need for a 37-foot street, Klingner said the safe width for a moving lane of traffic is 10 ft. Safe width for a parking lane is eight feet, he said.

"Whether you like it or not," Klingner said, "these are the facts. Our board will not put in a 31-foot street where there is no compelling reason to do otherwise."

"THERE ARE only two north-south streets in the entire village that cross Palatine Rd.," he said. "one is Arlington Heights Rd. and the other is Kennicott."

"I'm hopeful and the engineers indicate that most of the trees will remain up (with a 37-foot width)," Klingner said.

He said BOLI "takes more abuse than any other board in the village."

BOIL member Ben Chaps, commenting on the dispute, said:

"We're talking about six feet. That's what all this haranguing is about."

If at first you don't succeed, just think uf the New York Mets.

Yale Roe Urges Ogilivie Name Rumsfeld to Senate

Yale Roe, candidate for the 13th District Congressional seat vacated by OEO Director Don Rumsfeld, Thursday urged Gov. Richard Ogilvie to appoint Rumsfeld to the Senate seat that became vacant with the death of Sen. Everett Dirksen.

"The times are too seroius for an appointment based on political favors or geographical considerations," Roe said. "Only the best will do to represent Illinois and the nation, and the best is available in the person of Don Rumsfeld."

Speaking at Wheeling Roe said: "Don Rumsfeld represents the best attributes of modern Republicanism. He is well educated and well prepared. He is both young and experienced. He has had impressive legislative experience, as well as administrative experience.

"He has shown a capacity for growth, and an indefatigable commitment to learn, a sense of compassion and a grasp of the new problems of a rapidly changing world. His appointment would do credit to Illinois and to the country."

"Just as the work is changing, so must the nature of politics change," Roe continued. "There are nu longer the easy problems or the slowly developing events that can permit cronyism or political consideration in such important matters."

"In an era of nuclear terror, continual conflicts, and violent social upheavals, we must insist on being represented by the very best among us. Don Rumsfeld is among our very best. I strongly urge Gov. Ogilvie to seriously consider him for appointmen[illegible] the United States Senate."

Reception Will Honor Con-Con Aspirant Woods

Officials of local government in the 3rd Con-Con district will attend a reception Saturday afternoon in honor of candidate John G. Woods of Arlington Heights.

The 2-4 p.m. reception is being sponsored in the Woods home by the Woods for Con-Con Citizens Committee. Co-Chairmen are Mayor Jack Pahl of Elk Grove Village and Mrs. Ethel Kolerus of Mount Prospect, supervisor of Wheeling Township.

In extending the invitations, Pahl and Mrs. Kolerus stressed the importance of the upcoming Constitutional Convention to all local communities, They called attention to Woods' long record of service to local communities, and said that the prime purpose of the reception is to revitalize a channel of communications with local officials throughout the district so that the Northwest Suburban area can have a truly effective voice in the Convention.

Pahl and Mrs. Kolerus called attention to the size of the 3rd District which stretches from Northbrook Barrington on the North, and from the edge of Des Plaines to the edge of Elgin on the South. The reception is an effort to communicate with people throughout the district during the Con-Con campaign in Woods' behalf. The 3rd district is by far the largest in the Chicago area.

Pahl added, "We're expecting upwards of 200 community leaders on Saturday. They will include officials of the villages, townships, libraries, schools and parks in the 3rd District.

$4.6 Million Tax Levy Approved by School Board

The Board of Education of School District 25 last night approved tax levies totaling $4.6 million for the 1969 to 1970 school year.

The board held its first neighborhood meeting of the new school year at Patoon School, 1616 N. Patton, Arlington Heights.

The education fund, used for day to day expenses and monthly salaries, amounts to $3.4 million for the year. The building fund will need $750,000 for expenses. Transportation will cost the school district $120,000 and the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund, for employes of the district, requires $150,000.

A tax for $100,000 for the district's working cash fund, used for expenses not foreseen in the budget, was passed unanimously by the board.

The board approved $40,000 in taxes to provide buildings for housing special education classes for the physically or mentally handicapped in the district.

The district has funds to cover $127,774.88 in necessary safety repairs on schools in the district, as required by the county superintendent of schools, out of $227,774.88 in repairs needed. That made it necessary for the district to request an additional $100,000 from the county in taxes.

ALSO DURING the meeting board was told by treasurer for the district Donald P. Roth, that the district had earned $51,299 more for the 1968 to 1969 school year, in interest on bond and tax money invested, than it did during the 1967 tp 1968 school year.

Roth attributed this increase in earnings to an increase in the amount of money available, through increased taxes being paid to the district to cover increased costs of operating the district's school system, an increase in the overall interest being earned for investments and the purchase for the district of long term U.S. Treasury notes.

Roth said that in purchasing long-term notes an interest rate usually is paid that is higher than on short-term investment notes, so by holding the long term notes as long as possible a greater amount of money will be earned. The notes can be sold whenever the funds are needed by the school district to pay contractural debts.

Schools in School District 25 are : Dryden, Dunton, Dwyer, Greenbriar, Ivy Hill, North, Patton, Ridge, Olive, Wilson, Windsor, Westgate, Miner Junior High, South Junior High, Thomas Junior High and Rand Junior High.

Drug Raid in Palatine Leads to Marijuana Field

By Jeff Clarkson

A narcotics raid on a Palatine apartment Wednesday has led to the discovery of a huge marijuana field in a forest preserve in southern Cook County.

Police Chief Robert Centner said yesterday that after a stakeout which lasted five days, police Wednesday raided an apartment at 337 N. Carter, arrested four persons and discovered about $1,000 worth of marijuana, amphetimines and other pills.

Centner said that a resident of the apartment, Robert Bathgate, 20, Lewis Hibbs, 19, of 1206 Paddock and two juvenile girls were charged with possession of marijuana.

Police had been periodically watching the apartment, Centner said, and had gained sufficient evidence to go to court and obtain a search warrant. When they went to the apartment, Centner said, police found four to five pounds of marijuana, 465 "speed" pills and several other pills which were sent to the State Crime Lab in Joliet to be tested.

HE SAID that some of the marjuana had apparently just been picked from a bush, some had been found baking in the oven of a stove and some had been found near a screen which was apparently used to strain the marijuana into its final form in which it would be rolled into cigarettes.

Another item, Centner said was discovered was an account book with names and addresses dating back to Aug. 15, which showed that $1,400 of marijuana had been sold. All the items, including the stove and the window screen were confiscated, he said.

Centner said that after the youths had been arrested, police were stationed in the apartment. During the afternoon several teenagers came to the door and knocked. Police detained them and took them to the police station where they were questioned.

During the questioning, Centner said, they were able to get a detailed map of a patch of marijuana which was growing wild in a forest preserve in southern Cook County. When the map was completed, yesterday, police were sent to the area to find out if the field actually existed. Lt. Frank Ortiz, Sgt. Walter Schoenfeld, and patrolmen John Setzer and Richard Sikorski discovered a field which they described as being a mile in length and a half-mile in width, but it could possibly have extended for miles. On a 30-minute tour of the area, the policemen picked about $500 worth of marijuana.

Chief Centner said the reason that they had searched out the field was that in this way, one more source of marijuana could be dried up. The more fields that can be found, the less are left, he said.

Yesterday, Bathgate and Hibbs were brought to the Arlington Heights Circuit Court and were granted a continuation in the case until today.

Ask Lower Speed Limit

Residents of School District 23 are circulating petitions asking for a sidewalk and a reduction of speed limits along Camp McDonald Rd. to lessen traffic hazards for children attending the new Dwight D. Eisenhower Elementary School near Schoenbeck and Camp McDonald.

Mrs. Joseph Pellizzeri, of 100 W. Camp McDonald Rd., Prospect Heights, said the petitions ask the Cook County Dept. of Highways to reduce the speed limit to 20 m.p.h. "in all required directions" from the school.

Student Dress Codes Vary Between Districts

By Jan Bone
Last In a Series

David Miller, of Barrington, was refused permission to register for his senior year at Barrington High School because he has shoulder-length hair.

David's hair length would be acceptable at Palatine, Conant, Fremd, Arlington, Prospect, Hersey, Elk Grove, Wheeling or Forest View high schools.

DAVID, HOWEVER, lives in School District 224, which supervises Barrington High.

And David's parents, the Ben Millers of 108 18th St., Barrington, think he should be allowed in school.

On Monday, they sued the School Board for $300 in actual damages and $100,000 in punitive damages.

School board attorney Ralph Miller, no relation to David, says the board will resist the suit. "The real issue," says the attorney, "is whether the board has the power to make reasonable rules."

How have other northwest suburban high schools handled the question of student dress?

DISTRICT 207--Maine East, West and South high schools--in Des Plaines and Park Ridge: sent a letter in August to all parents in the 10,000-student district. It said:

"At the request of concerned parents the board re-affirmed its policy. Students shall dress and groom themselves in an appropriate manner. At all times, their dress and grooming shall reflect good taste.

"Each year before school, the administration attempts to establish guidelines for appropriate dress and communicate these guidelines to parents.

"It should be recognized that different modes of dress are suitable for different occasions. The classroom, being a serious learning situation, is an inappropriate place for wearing play attire.

"All clothing and footwear should be worn as designed by the manufacturer and without ornamentation that will scratch the furniture or floors or create a safety hazard in the classroom.

"Clothing should not be distracting in color or style. Shoes which should have at least heel straps should be worn.

"Dresses, skirts, sweaters or blouses are always appropriate, as are culottes and pantdresses. However, the culottes and pantdresses should fit loosely around the legs.

"The clothing must cover the persons in such a way that there is no immodest exposure when the student is standing, sitting, stooping, or reaching.

"Boys' hair should be clean, neatly trimmed, and well-groomed. Extremes in the length of hair or style should be avoided. Hair should be tapered and worn above the collar, ears and eyes.

"Sideburns may be worn to the bottom of the earlobes, and should be straight and well-trimmed. The rest of the face is to be clean-shaven.

T-shirts and shirts that are lettered or numbered will not be considered acceptable attire. All boys must wear socks.

"Finally, parents should recognize that many items or ornamentation such as buttons, pins, emblems, and insignia are available, but that many of these items promote organizations and use language which is in conflict with the best interests of the school.

"The administratiun, in these cases, must exercise its responsibility and judgment in asking students to refrain from wearing those items detracting from the goals and orderliness of the schools."

ARLINGTON, PROSPECT, Forest View, Wheeling, Elk Grove and Hersey high schools in District 214: Stephen Berry, assistant to the superintendent in this high school district with nearly 15,000 students, said, "Any school has students who don't really dress the way we would like to have them dress, but so long as they keep themselves neat, this is all right.

"As adults, we find our friends and neighbors don't always dress the way we would like to have them dress, but we have to learn to adjust to these situations."

Expulsion Facing Long-Haired Youth

Miller said, come from homogenous upper-middle-class backgrounds.

The school attorney said, "There is no other student, perhaps one who transferred, with hair like this." Miller explained that the dress code was slightly relaxed on an experimental basis last year, but it was made more stringent this year. The attorney added that the dress regulations were explained fully in a letter to all parents about two weeks before the beginning of school this year.

The code requires that a boy's hair be tapered at the neck, appear neat and clean and not protrude over his hears or eyebrows.

RIPPLES OF laughter filled the courtroom when Parsons commented as he reviewed a copy of the code.

Commenting on the length of the girls' dresses, as specified in the code, Parsons said. "They should be short enough to he interesting and long enough to cover the subject."

Three Barrington High School officials, School Board President George Foy, Supt. J. Walter Gillis and Administrative Assistant Robert Nodding attended the hearing.

Jay Miller (not related to Ralph or David), executive director of the ACLU, and Goldberger watched from the gallery as attorney Burton Joseph presented the youth's case.

Just recently he was appearing on a radiu show in Joliet. The night before he had to drive down there he "saw" his car overturned in a ditch. With grave concern, he took the long drive to Joliet next day, appeared on the program and headed home. He decided to drive behind a large asphalt truck to forestall a possihle accident, but suddenly he had a premonition of danger and he knew the truck was the hazard. He slowed down at once and another car swung in front of him. A shurt distance further the truck braked suddenly and the other car swerved into the ditch and overturned. Passing by, DeLouise noted that the other car was the same make and culor as his..the car he had seen in his vision.

Over lunch at the Seven Eagles in Des Plaines last week we asked Joseph DeLouise if he had any predictions for the Northwest suburban area. He came up with several:

Three separate plane accidents in the vicinity of O'Hare Field in the months to come, plus a plane down in Lake Michigan.

A tornado or bad wind storm which will do some damage in the Arlington Heights area in August of 1970.

Money will be appropriated to preserve an old landmark in the northwest suburban area. And there will be a big fire in which a fairly new industrial plant or warehouse will burn completely to the ground.

Efforts to build a camp or retreat in this area will meet with problems or opposition.

There will be labor trouhles with police and firemen in Des Plaines and two other northwest communities. He recommends the cities meet their demands.

An area political candidate is in danger of his life. He will possibly come onto some infurmation damaging to another party and will be warned to withhold it. He should take precautions.

There will be a large youth-crime wave in the suburbs.

On the national scene DeLouise is working with psychic Peter Hurkos on the Sharon Tate murder case in California. DeLouise feels three men were involved in the killing. Hurkos agrees. Both also see one uf the men with a jagged scar on his face. DeLouise feels the killers knew at least some of the people they murdered.

GOP Committeeman Switches to Young

An important defection in behalf of Congressional candidate Samuel H. Young of Glenview occurred Thursday in Palatine Township whose GOP organization earlier endorsed Philp Crane of Winnetka.

Charles K. Allen, a deputy GOP committeman in the Palatine township organization, announced that he is leaving his post to work during the final days of the campaign for Young.

Allen said that he has made the switch because of Young's "impressive record and experience in public responsibilities plus his intimate knowledge of the problems of the people in the 13th district."

Allen served as Palatine Township chairman for Nixon in 1968. He joined the regular Palatine GOP organization in 1964 as precinct captain and was named to the group's executive board a year later. He served as the organization's 2nd Deputy Commiteeman from June, 1966 until September of that year when he was named 1st Deputy Committeeman.

Allen was a block captain in Palatine, where he resided from 1958 until 1963, when he moved to Rolling Meadows. He, his wife, Lois, and their three children reside at 2208 Fulle, Rolling Meadows.

Allen is quality control manager of Chicago Metallic Manufacturing Co., Lake Zurich. He holds a B.S. degree in economics from the Illinois Institute of Technology.

Mathewson Makes Points With Evanston GOP Unit

Joseph Mathewson of Winnetka, Republican candidate in the 13th district congressional race, outpointed all his rivals Wednesday evening in the endorsement balloting of the Evanston Township Young Republican Club.

Closet to Mathewson was Rep. Alan Johnston of Kenilworth. The final vote was 26 for Mathewson to 22 for Johnson.

THE BALLOTING failed to produce a formal endorsement for any 13th district congressional candidate since the rules of the Evanston Young Republican Club requires a two-thirds vote to commit the club's entire resources to any candidate.

The screening committee commended Mathewson on his knowledge of both national and international affairs and particularly recommended close consideration of his Vietnam proposal.

MATHEWSON had given the Young Republicans a 5-point program action he would like to see taken in the Vietnam struggle by the Nixon administration.

(1) Announce a cease-fire.

(2) Suspend the useless Paris negotiations and call for a conference in Asia of the five nations most directly concerned South and North Vietnam, Laos, Cambodia and Thailand, plus the "Provisional Revolutionary government" already participating at Paris.

(3) PLEDGE IN advance to continue the cease-fire as along as the conference continues.

(4) Pledge in advance to abide by any decisions reached by the Asian nations, including complete and immediate U. S. withdrawal.

(5) Offer econimic aid and technical assistance to all five nations, to begin following the end of hostilities.

Student Dress Codes Vary Between Districts

By Jan Bone
Last in a Series

David Miller, of Barrington, was refused permission to register for his senior year at Barrington High School because he has shoulder-length hair.

David's hair length would be acceptable at Palatine, Conant, Fremd, Arlington, Prospect, Hersey, Elk Grove, Wheeling or Forest View high schools.

DAVID, HOWEVER, lives in School District 224, which supervises Barringtoo High.

And David's parents, the Ben Millers of 108 18th St., Borrington, think he should be allowed in school.

On Monday, they sued the School Board for $300 in actual damages and $100,000 in punitive damages.

School board attorney Rslph Miller, no relation to David, says the board will resist the suit. "The real issue," says the attorney, "is whether the board has the power to make reasonable rules."

How have other northwest suburban high schools handled the question of student dress?

DISTRICT 207--Maine East, West and South high schools--in Des Plaines and Park Ridge: sent a letter in August to all parents in the 10,000-student district. It said:

"At the request of concerned parents the board re-affirmed its policy. Students shall dress and groom themselves in an appropriate manner. At all times, their dress and grooming shall reflect good taste.

"Each year before school, the administration attempts to establish guidelines for appropriate dress and communicate these guidelines to parents.

"It should be recognized that different modes of dress are suitable for different occasions. The classroom, being a serious learning situation, is an inappropriate place for wearing play attire.

"All clothing and footwear should be worn as designed by the manufacturer and without ornamentation that will scratch the furniture or floors or create a safety hazard in the classroom.

"Clothing should not be distracting in color or style. Shoes which should have at least heel straps should be worn.

"Dresses, skirts, sweaters or blouses are always appropriate, as are culottes and pantdresses. However, the culottes and pantdresses should fit loosely around the legs.

"The clothing must cover the persons in such a way that there is no immodest exposure when the student is standing, sitting, stooping, or reaching.

"Boys' hair should be clean, neatly trimmed, and well-groomed. Extremes in the length of hair or style should be avoided. Hair should be tapered and worn above the collar, ears and eyes.

"Sideburns may be worn to the bottom of the earlobes, and should be straight and well-trimmed. The rest of the face is to be clean-shaven.

T-shirts and shirts that are lettered or numbered will not be considered acceptable attire. All boys must wear socks.

"Finally, parents should recognize that many items or ornamentation such as buttons, pins, emblems, and insignia are available, but that many of these items promote organizations and use language which is in conflict with the best interests of the school.

"The administration, in these cases, must exercise its responsibility and judgment in asking students to refrain from wearing those items detracting from the goals and orderliness of the schools."

ARLINGTON, PROSPECT, Forest View, Wheeling, Elk Grove and Hersey high schools in District 214: Stephen Berry, assistant to the superintendent in this high school district with nearly 15,000 students, said, "Any school has students who don't really dress the way we would like to have them dress, but so long as they keep themselves neat, this is all right.

"As adults, we find our friends and neighbors don't always dress the way we would like to have them dress, but we have to learn to adjust to these situations."

Expulsion Facing Long-Haired Youth

Miller said, come from homogenous upper-middle-class backgrounds.

The school attorney said, "There is no other student, perhaps one who transferred, with hair like this." Miller explained that the dress code was slightly relaxed on an experimental basis last year, but it was made more stringent this year. The attorney added that the dress regulations were explained fully in a letter to all parents about two weeks before the beginning of school this year.

The code requires that a boy's hair be tapered at the neck, appear neat and clean and not protrude over his hears or eyebrows.

RIPPLES OF laughter filled the courtroom when Parsons commented as he reviewed a copy of the code.

Commenting on the length of the girls' dresses, as specified in the code, Parsons said, "They should be short enough to be interesting and long enough to cover the subject."

Three Barrington High School officials, School Board President George Foy, Supt. J. Walter Gillis and Administrative Assistant Robert Nodding attended the hearing.

Joy Miller (not related to Ralph or David), executive director of the ACLU, and Goldberger watched from the gallery as attorney Burton Joseph presented the youth's case.

'Reads' Tomorrow's Newspaper --- Today

Just recently he was appearing on a radio show in Joliet. The night before he had to drive down there he "saw" his car overturned in a ditch. With grave concern, he took the long drive to Joliet next day, appeared on the program and headed home. He decided to drive behind a large asphalt truck to forestall a possible accident, but suddenly he had a premonition of danger and he knew the truck was the hazard. He slowed down at once and another car swung in front of him. A short distance further the truck broked suddenly and the other car swerved into the ditch and overturned. Passing by, DeLouise noted that the other car was the same make and color as his..the car he had seen in his vision.

Over lunch at the Seven Eagles in Des Plaines last week we asked Joseph DeLouise if he had any predictions for the Northwest suburban area. He came up with several:

DOCTOR SAYS

Health Problems Of Moon Travelers

W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Although few of us will ever go to the moon, the medical problems of those who do are of interest. A head cold is never fatal but the discomfort of the attendant blocking of the nasal sinuses is greatly aggravated in outer space. No amount of decongestant will drain the sinuses in a weightless environment.

All the health problems of our astronauts in flight are treated by flight surgeons on three eight-hour shifts in mission control. Although several drugs are available to the astronauts, they are under strict orders not to take anything but aspirin without first consulting one of the flight surgeons.

The problem of motion sickness has apparently been solved by a simple exercise. The head is bent forward, backward, left and right, then turned left and right repeatedly. Each movement is held for a count of two. The exercise is repeated for a couple of hours if necessary at the first inkling that motion sickness may develop. This may be worth trying sometime to prevent airsickness or seasickness.

Prolonged space flights greatly reduce the efficiency of the heart because of the limited opportunity for exercise. This can be corrected by period of reconditioning on return to earth. Furthermore, travel in space is not conducive to rest. The space ship has an automatic firing device that may discharge as often as every five minutes to keep the ship properly oriented in relation to earth so that vital messages can be sent and received. This firing creates vibrations that allow a very fitful sleep at best, and usually not more than five hours a day. Only persons in top physical condition can take this for long.

In spite of the medical scientists' worry that passing through the Van Allen radiation belt might damage the astronauts' genes, there is no evidence at present that this has happened. Two children have been born to astronauts after successful flights. They are now 3 and 5 years old and perfectly normal.

The danger that the actual moon landing would bring back to earth some strange and malevolent germs seems Infinitesimal, but nevertheless elaborate precautions were taken to prevent such an occurrence and will be taken on all future flights. These are only a few of the health hazards associated with moon travel.

Q What is the significance of a high triglyceride blood level? What is the best treatment for it?

A The triglycerides normally found in the blood act in the same way as cholesterol. When the level rises, the danger of hardening of the arteries increases. This can usually be controlled by a diet substitute margarine for butter, cottage cheese for cream cheese, corn oil for olive oil, cocoa for hot chocolate and sherbet for ice cream. Avoid avocados, fried foods, whipped or sour cream and the skin of fish or fowl. Trim away the visible fat from all meats and place soups and stews in the refrigerator so that the hardened fat can be removed before serving.

Q Is cholestyramine still an experimental drug for lowering the blood cholesterol level? I have taken Atromid-S for several months but I would rather take a drug with fewer side effects.

A Cholestyramine (Questran) is no longer experimental. If it is to be taken for a prolonged period, it should be supplemented with 3,000 units of vitamin A and 400 units of vitamin D daily. All potent drugs may cause undesirable side effects.

Day Light

On Your Mark

By Joseph Stubenrauch

There is an uneasy feeling that the Sept. 23 primary and the special Nov. 18 election involving the candidates for the Illinois Constitutional Convention will not draw heavy voter turnouts.

If you have any doubts about this, just mention the Con-Con campaigning to any area friend. You don't have to be a political pundit to guess at lack of interest when one after the other your friends reply, "Oh, that election!" or "What was that date again?" or "Who's running?"

There are many reasons to explain this lack of get-up-and-go, but none of them will ever be clear to our sons and daughters who will have to live under the constitution to be put together by delegates chosen this year.

SOME OF THE folks hereabouts are definitely interested, through personal acquaintance of the candidates.

From what we have heard of other sections of the state, including the big cities, we think our own suburban area is actually about to make an excellent showing, on a comparative basis.

Which does not reassure us one bit.

These persons need plenty of exposure to the voting public so that folks will know where they stand on basic issues. But one runs into the problem that while we all know certain key matters will have to be thrashed out at convention time, the alternative choices of clauses in the constitution are not up for discussion right now.

It's hard to learn all there is to know about the present outmoded constitution without trying to figure out just what the delegates will put together to take its place.

WE BELIEVE the delegates will be chosen according to a simple formula: pick the man or woman you trust.

Lawyers were preponderant among our Founding Fathers. It was felt then that lawyers were by profession, training and general background, most suitable for the work of framing the laws.

This highly debatable proposition is bound to be discussed when candidates for Con-Con are selected.

The days between now and the Sept. 23 primary are few. Don't do your deciding during the 25 seconds you expect to spend inside the voting booth.

The time is now, for all of us to study the candidates to contribute sensible and useful efforts to make the state constitution a document to aid and guide government in Illinois.

A carefully trained athlete approaches the start of a race after due preparation. He has worked out his strategy, decided on his pace, calculated the best way to win the contest.

We suggest each of us view this matter of selecting the best candidate in the same spirit, so that on the key day we will be ready to "get on the mark, get set vote!"

Grandparents for Crane Unit to Cover 13th Dist.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Franzen of Arlington Heights are heading up a special unit that will cover the 13th congressional district in the interest of the candidacy of Philip Crane of Winnetka during the last month of the campaign.

Known as "Grandparents for Crane," the campaign will be directed particularly to those persons retired or soon to be retired.

FRANSEN, president of the First Arlington National Bank, expained Thursday,

"We will mobilize conservative support among the people in the age group that is being so cruelly robbed by an inflation fostered by a generation of liberal administrations in Washington."

"MEN AND WOMEN looking ahead to retirement and those already in the retirement years have seen their careful plans for secure, comfortable later years go sour because they had mistaken confidence in the dollar. Only during the Eisenhower adminstrations was the dollar reasonably stable," said Franzen.

"Pensions, annuities, savings and insurance - purchased with hard-won money in their most productive years - have shrunk in buying power almost constantly. Today inflation continues at the fastest rate ever, pushing the value of the dollar lower and lower.

"As a banker and civic-minded citizen in the 13th District, I have known my people in political life," Franzen said, "and I can say without equivocation that Philip Crane has the best grasp of the complex economic relationships that have caused and are continuing to cause inflation. His education and experience are excellent qualifications for Congress in all respects, and I can vouch personally for his understanding of practical economics."

The Franzens said the job of the Grandparents for Crane Committee is to communicate with people of similar concerns who may to support Crane, a Republican, in the Oct. 7 primary race.

Day by Day

At Home

By Catherine O'Donnell

Want to hear an advance spooky story that should be told on Halloween? It's all about a house located in an Arlington Heights border community. It rivals the chills and shakes induced by the movie or book about a certain gal's baby.

This house was built in 1962 and occupied for the first time in December of that year. Two months later the wife of the family went into the hospital for a checkup and discovered that she had cancer. (This was told to Day by Day by an unimpeachable source, so it must be true.)

In August of 1963, the poor woman died. In May of the following year her husband died suddenly and the house was sold.

THE NEW FAMILY was in the house for one month when the wife cut a tendon on her hand and had to have surgery. During their occupancy, which lasted until 1968, their son had a car accident, their other son died suddenly and the husband had two heart attacks. (It was around this time that the neighbors began wondering about the house.) So the family moved out and the third family moved in.

They were in the house for three days when the wife slipped and fell on a shopping trip and permanently shattered her knee. After expensive surgery to get the knee in working order, the husband and wife went on a vacation cruise. They were among a substantial number of passengers who suffered food poisoning and the vacation was a bomb. They went on another vacation this past summer and they were robbed on the trip.

The residents do not know the history of the house and no one has the nerve to tell them. (And don't ask this column writer to do it. I am curious and also yellow. I think the gal who relayed the above information to this desk should do it.)

AND ABROAD

For one week there will be no Day by Day. The R. J. O'Donnells and the Jim Hartigans are off on another trip. This one is something special. The next column you read will be sent home from Tokyo - ah so. The plans for that busy city, should result in a few more columns.

From Tokyo we will go to that famous shopping center of the Far East--Hong Kong. Now all you faithful readers will know how much those beaded things and cheongsams cost in the country of origin. Do we go with Marshall Field or Robert Hall? You'll soon know.

I have also promised to look up Father Joachim who lives on Waterloo Rd. in Kowloon. He is the brother of Mrs. John Roth of N. Douglas in our town.

The O'Donnells and the Hartigans will separate somewhere at this time and Raymond and I will go on to Taiwan. We will, says the travel folder, drive along pleasant beaches to the picturesque town of Yeh Liu. We will also swing past a village of aborigines who will do native dances for the tourists.

LEAVING EXOTIC Taipei--incidentally, it was called Formosa, which means "beautiful," by the Portuguese--we will journey to Manila. We'll pause briefly at Corregidor. From Manila we go on to Malaysia and the capital city of Singapore. There is much to see and do in that storied city which has a street called Raffles Place.

From Singapore, we will fly to Bangkok in Thailand. If you-know-who is in a traveling mood we may follow Jackie Kennedy's footsteps into the jungle to see the Temple of Angkhor Wat. There's an emerald Buddha in one of those cities and a floating restaurant on a river.

Then it's back to Tokyo. (If this is Tuesday, it must be Tokyo.)

Overnight and then home via Honolulu and San Francisco. I wish you were all flying the friendly skies with us. See you.

Lee Janson LISTENS TO YOU

BIG CHANGE IN MARRIAGE

Dear Lee Janson,

My friends and I are having a big argument. We decided to write you for advice. My friends say I'm all wrong.

I say that marriage can change a person very much. I mean, I believe that if a person smokes too much, you can help to make him quit. If he drinks too much, after marriage you can help him cut down on his drinking. I also believe that if a person is uncouth, that after marriage you can teach him manners.

I just believe that when two people get married they can help each other to improve. Don't you agree?

Believer in People

It's sad, dear, but many have tried, and few have succeeded.

WIFE DOESN'T UNDERSTAND HIM

Dear Lee Janson,

Now that I'm 16, I've started working part-time. My store manager is very unhappy at home. Sometimes we talk about it over a Coke when I'm on my relief period.

I don't think his wife understands him very well. He's only 25 but he's a very fine person and very nice to work for. He asked me to meet him after work next Saturday night so we can go out together.

I've often gone out with older boys before, but not with anyone that old. Do you think I'd be making a mistake to go out with him?

Part-Timer, Mount Prospect

Head home, Honey! His story is a thousand years older than he is.

Weekend Dedication Services At Christian Church

Christian Church of Arlington Heights.

Services of Dedication will begin this evening, Sept. 12, at the Arlington Heights Christian Church at 8 p.m. with Thomas Houser bringing the address.

At 10:45 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 14, Dr. Marvin E. Smith will deliver the morning sermon and at 3 p.m. Dr. A. Dale Fiers, general minister and president of the Christian Church, will speak.

In addition to the speakers these worship services will include a greeting from the community brought by the Rev. Robert McDonald, pastor at St. John United Church, Arlington Heights, and a greeting from other Disciple churches in the Chicagoland area brought by John Dunn. The services will include a commitment to the world on the part of the congregation in a liturgical form and will include a litany of dedication of the congregation to the brotherhood and the ecumenical movement.

THERE WILL BE a fellowship period following all of these services, an informal coffee at the conclusion of the Sunday morning service and more formal fellowship on Friday night and Sunday afternoon.

Thomas Houser, assistant deputy director of the Peace Corps, will be discussing the church's mission to its immediate community as well as the world beyond. A member of the local congregation, Houser headed up Sen. Charles Percy's campaigns both for governor of Illinois and his present senate seat. He has served as a corporate attorney for the Burlington Railroad and later with a Chicago law firm.

Dr. Marvin E. Smith is director of the local church curriculum division of the Christian Board of Publication and also serves as a vice president of the company. His staff edits and produces the printed materials used in the Sunday church schools of the Christian churches.

HE HOLDS THE A.B. and B.D. degrees from Drake University and the B.D. degree from the Divinity School of the University of Chicago and received the honorary D.D. degree from Culver-Stockton College. He served as a church pastor for 15 years.

The "church's relationship to our brotherhood and to the ecumenical movement" will be presented by Dr. A. Dale Fiers, who, in 1964, became the executive head of the International Convention of Christian Churches. Prior to then he served 15 years as president of the United Christian Missionary Society.

Dr. Fiers is a member of the General Board of the National Council of Churches and was a delegate to the World Council of Churches assembly in Upsala, Sweden, in 1968 and is one of the Disciples' delegates to the Consultation on Church Union, which is drawing up a plan for a united church of nine American denominations.

Dr. A. Dale Fiers

In the summer of 1967, Dr. Fiers was elected a vice president of the World Council of Christian Education in Geneva, Switzerland. For 10 years he was chairman of the organization's North American Regional Committee.

The Christian Church of Arlington Heights started with a meeting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy McCord in September, 1957. The first public service of worship was held on Jan. 12, 1958, at Miner Junior High School, with Dr. Orvis Jordan as the organizing pastor.

The Rev. Don Jones was the first resident pastor and served through 1965. The present pastor is Rev. William Robertson, who came to the church in January, 1966. Herbert Atkins has served as chairman of the building plans committee.

The Rev. David Quill, pastor of St. Mark Lutheran Church, conducted special cornerstone ceremonies for the church's new Youth Center. Many teens took part in the services including Carol Kiner, Peter Larson, Nancy Johansen, Mark Schilling, Gary Dalbeke and Pat Snyder. Completion of the building is anticipated within the next two months.

Zeitlow To Address Men's Club

Kenneth Zeitlow

Kenneth Zeitlow, a biology teacher at East Leyden High School, will address the Men's Club of the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights on Monday, Sept. 15. The program will begin with dinner at 6:30 p.m. Reservations can be made by calling 253-0492.

Zeitlow will speak on the nature of DNA, the biological hereditary material which is the key to revolutionary advances in modern scientific research. His talk will encompass such ideas as the possibility of genetic changes in man, controlled mutation of humans, creating life in a test tube and breeding a generation of geniuses.

FOR THE PAST three years Zeitlow has been runner-up for the Outstanding Biology Teacher Award in Illinois, sponsored by the National Association of Biology Teachers. He is reponsible for the development of a teaching device for studying DNA, which is being used in biology classes all over the country.

Zeitlow, with 15 years of teaching experience, has taught cellular biology at Harper Junior College and holds two master's degrees, one in botany from the State University of Iowa and the other in the art of teaching from Colorado College.

Picnic

The annual picnic of Our Saviour's Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights, will be held at Lake Avenue Woods (West), corner of Euclid-Lake and River Rds., from 11:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 14. Each family will bring a picnic lunch, and coffee and cold drinks will be available.

Philip Wray, committee chairman, has planned an afternoon of baseball and games for both children and adults. Assisting him on the picnic committee are Mrs. Edward Petersen and Mrs. Edgar Neas.

Two college students from Europe in Boston for the Christian Science Biennial College meeting, view a unique perspective of the world at the Mapparium in the Christian Science Publishing Society. The stained glass sphere, 30 feet in diameter, with the surface of the earth represented on the concave side, shows the whole world as it appears in its true spherical shape.

Area Students Hear Editor

"Some forms of campus unrest should be stirred up and supported," Erwin D. Canham, editor-in-chief of The Christian Science Monitor recently told a gathering of college students.

"The exposure of evil and the application of regenerative measures are forms of unrest which we should certainly support. Unrest against injustice. Unrest against outdated and hidebound forms of organization and control. Unrest against hypocrisy. Unrest against gross materialism."

Over 6,000 Christian Science students from colleges and universities in 31 countries were in Boston for three days to consider their responsibilities and mission on the campus and in the world. The theme of the meeting was "Building in a Revolutionary Period."

Local students attending the biennial college meeting were Robert Hess, Bonnie Stitt, Gaie Volland and Harley Gates, all of Arlington Heights, and Ronald Manglesdorf, Pamela Peterson and Carole Medal, all of Mount Prospect.

Tomorrow is the Jubilee Bee

By Frances Altman

Bits of felt, pieces of wood and scraps of old pipe when placed in the hands of imaginative people have become unique gift items to be sold this Saturday, Sept. 13, at the "Jubilee Bee" at Hawthorn-Mellody Farm in Libertyville.

James Urbanowicz of Arlington Heights is one contributor who has turned otherwise useless odds and ends of brass pipe into useful gifts. Using a drill press, solder and pieces of 1½-inch brass refuse from an Evanston plumber, Urbanowicz and his son have made pencil holders, bud vases and small indoor watering cans.

THE IDEA FOR making these items originated when the Urbanowiczs' daughter, Mrs. Louis Cernetic, was named coordinating chairman of the Bee, the proceeds from which will benefit the Lake Bluff/Chicago Homes for Children.

Urbanowicz, an employe of School District 59, has enjoyed creating nearly four dozen "somethings from nothing," though his real hobby is pneumatics.

In this field he has written a series of 17 articles which have been published in the "National Engineer." A number of them have been quoted by consulting engineers and used in engineering classes in a California college. An avid reader, Urbanowicz is currently pursuing the development of fluidics, still in a pioneering state.

Over 50 booths will be set up on the Hawthorn-Mellody Farm grounds where area hobbyists, artists and craftsmen will exhibit and sell their work. Among area contributors are Elizabeth Piest, Des Plaines; Richard M. Krizsanitz, Rolling Meadows, who will contribute handmade replicas of Civil War cannons; Mrs. Eugenia Bourn, Arlington Heights, creator of Deannin Candles; Lois Baldwin, Arlington Heights, sculpturess, and Joan Heritzinger of Glenview and Thelma Dempers of Skokie, who own and operate "Creative Gifts and Crafts."

Members of the Homes' service league also will be contributing bakery items and crafts. Day at Home readers may recall an earlier story about the 500 pounds of peanut brittle made and donated by several ladies of the First United Methodist Church, Arlington Heights, and decoupage done by Mrs. Marie Case, Arlington Heights. For those who enjoy selecting unique and original Christmas gifts, the Jubilee Bee should be a treasure trove!

James Urbanowicz is one of several Arlington Heights residents who have donated handcrafted pieces to the Jubilee Bee, 75th anniversary benefit of the Lake Bluff-Chicago Children's Homes to be held tomorrow, Saturday, at Hawthorn-Mellody Farm in Libertyville. Urbanowicz's contribution was made from odds and end pieces of old brass pipe.

Lois Baldwin, Arlington Heights, receives the third place ribbon from Rae Partridge for her steel and brass sculpture entry in the 14th Annual Outdoor Art Fair presented by the Des Plaines Art Guild. Lois drip cast this piece, called "Of The Earth", with an acetylene torch. She will be exhibiting Saturday at the Jubilee Bee. (Dorothy Oliver photos)

Mrs. James Siwek

Priscilla Fenton Weds James Siwek

Miss Priscilla Beth Fenton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell S. Fenton, Northfield, became the bride of James John Siwek in a candlelight ceremony at the Church of St. James the Less on June 21. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Siwek of Arlington Heights.

Mrs. George M. Gomory of New York, the sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Karen Fenton, the bride's sister, and Miss Nancy French of Fond de Lac, Mich.

Roger Walker of Wisconsin was the best man. James Junkune and Daniel Plens were groomsmen. Allan Christenson, a cousin of the groom, and John Loebach, his brother-in-law, were ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was given at the Glenview Country House. After a honeymoon at Boulder Junction, Colo., the couple will reside in Palatine.

Autumn Accents

Fall is the time for coming back indoors and giving some thought to such inside fests as fondue parties and quiet evenings of bridge. It's also the time many people begin refurbishing and sprucing up with bright and gay accent pieces or a new carpet.

Among the new carpeting introductions this fall is "In Fashion" by Venture Carpets, Inc., a three-level tip sheared carpet made of Encron polyester.

Accent rugs are available also in a variety of patterns and colors. The Bigelow Custom Collection is just one example of the dramatic treatment being given to designs and colors. Bigelow's new La Ronda assortment of round area rugs features a wide range of sizes, all in 100 per cent wool.

Left: Sunny yellows and golden tones spiced with white accessories project the young and fresh look that is so popular this fall. Three-level tip sheared carpet by Venture Carpets, Inc., needs only a brisk fluffing to bring it to life.

Weekend Coffees for Schlickman

Several weekend coffees will be hosted for State Rep. Eugene Schlickman in Arlington Heights. On Friday, Sept. 12, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Blum will invite neighbors and friends to their home.

Sunday morning, 11 a.m. the Desmond O'Connells, Wilmette, will host a brunch; at 4 to 7 p.m. Schlickman will be honored at a reception in the Arlington Park Towers Hotel, and at 8 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Gorence, Arlington Heights, will host a small party in his honor.

Auxiliary's Annual Cards and Penny Social

The Ladies Auxiliary to VFW Post 981 will hold its annual card party and penny social at the VFW Clubhouse, 811 N. Yale, Arlington Heights, on Wednesday, Sept. 17, at 8 p.m.

Card party chairman, Mrs. Leonard Bakalar, said "We anticipate the usual fine cooperation of our members and friends in assuring the success of this fund-raising function. The card party is the only activity we have in which the proceeds stay in our treasury to finance our general programs for the year. In addition to strictly auxiliary expenses, we co-sponsor the Coronets Drill Team, award prizes to the local winners of the Voice of Democracy and Paul Powell Safety Scholarship essay contests and contribute to local charities."

Tickets include refreshments and may be reserved by calling ticket chairman, Mrs. Richard Andrew, CL 3-8854.

"Many winners in previous Foremost Wine Art contests have since gained local and national recognition in art," said Irving Robins, Foremost president.

"We view the event as an excellent vehicle to promote art and focus attention on the ability of our local artists."

About 500 entries competed in last year's contest. The final 1968 judging attracted nearly 1,000 visitors.

Serve Your Family Airlines' Food

Your family will be as pleased as American Airlines' passengers are when they are served these two specialties in flight. The lobster is served on Americana service non-stop between the east and west coasts. The watermelon makes an interesting, colorful accompaniment to it.

LOBSTER QUICHE LORRAINE

1 9-inch unbaked pie shell
¼ pound sliced bacon
¾ cup grated natural Swiss cheese (3 ounces)
¾ cup cut-up cooked lobster
3 eggs
1 cup light cream
½ cup sherry
¾ teaspoon salt
dash of nutmeg, cayenne and black pepper

Preheat oven to 375 degrees.

Fry bacon until crisp, drain and crumble over bottom of pie shell.

Sprinkle grated cheese over bacon. Beat eggs with cream, sherry, salt, nutmeg, cayenne and black pepper until mixture is combined, but not frothy. Add lobster. Place pie shell on middle shelf in oven. Pour egg mixture into pie shell.

Bake 35 to 40 minutes, or until top is golden and center is firm when pressed gently with fingertip. Cool for 10 minutes before serving.

WATERMELON BOAT

Sketch where you plan to cut watermelon, making sure you remove no more than the top third, or the boat may leak. Mark a two-inch strip for the handle. Cut in a saw-tooth pattern ½ inch deep. Cut handle in same saw-tooth pattern. Make watermelon balls, removing seeds. Scrape inside of melon smooth after spooning out the fruit balls. Remove all pulp and liquid.

In large bowl, prepare all fruits, reserving strawberries and mint. Pour in fruit juices and cognac or kirsch, if desired. Mix.

The following fruits are suggested for the boat: watermelon, canteloupe and honeydew balls, fresh pineapple cubes, fresh peach slices, fresh plum slices, unpeeled, fresh pear slices, fresh blueberries, raspberries, blackberries and boysenberries. Use fresh long-stem strawberries and/or mint for garnish.

Bubbling lobster quiche and a magnificent watermelon boat are perfect foils for dinner featuring Rock Cornish hens, as served on American Airlines' "Americana" service non-stop between east and west coasts. Quiche, an easy-to-make recipe, can be served as an entree or in thin slices as a hot hors d'oeuvre. Watermelon boat is filled with fruits in season garnished with fresh strawberries, mint leaves and a dollop of Grand Marnier or Kirsch.

St. Alexius To Present Prenatal Class Series

The opening of another six-week series of pre-natal classes for expectant couples from surrounding communities has been announced by Brother Ferdinand Leyva, CFA, administrator for St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village.

The new series of classes begins Monday, Sept. 22, at 7:30 p.m. at the hospital, 800 W. Biesterfield Rd.

OPEN TO BOTH husbands and wives, the pre-natal classes were developed as a community service. Expectant couples from the northwest suburbs are invited to register whether or not they plan to have their baby at St. Alexius.

Mrs. Nina Saulisbury, R.N., assistant head nurse in the newborn nursery at St. Alexius, will conduct the sessions.

Based on the Red Cross program for pre-natal instruction, the series is divided into six segments covering conception through the first several months of life.

INFORMATION INCLUDED in the course concerns pre-natal care for the mother, food for the pregnant and nursing mother, clothing needs of the newborn and techniques for bathing the baby.

One session is devoted to touring the St. Alexius maternity floor and viewing a film of the birth process. Throughout the course, emphasis is placed on question and answer periods.

Classes in this series will be conducted each Monday evening through Oct. 27. The sessions are two hours long and include a rest break. For further information, prospective parents are invited to call St. Alexius Hospital at 437-5500, extension 631.

Royal blue topiary trees in silver pots, 100 in all, will dot the tables at the Fall fashion show and luncheon to be given by Northwest Community Hospital's Women's Auxiliary Sept. 23 at the Arlington Carousel. Headed by Mrs. Norman Steingraber of Mount Prospect, (left) the ten women of the decorations committee, including Mrs. Gertrude Schueren of Arlington Heights (center) and Mrs. William Plattos of Mount Prospect, with daughter Jorine, chose blue to represent the hospital colors and silver to commemorate its tenth anniversary. To obtain tickest for the luncheon, at $8.50 per person, call 359-1710 or 392-7581.

To Offer Lessons To Area 'Squares'

Residents of the northwest suburbs who are interested in learning to square dance at ten "limited basic" classes will have three choices of night and location. They are:

Monday, the Leaning Tower YMCA, 6300 Touhy Av., Niles, starting Sept. 29 at 8 p.m.

Thursday, Sayre-Rutherford Park, 6851 Belden, Chicago, starting Sept. 25 at 8 p.m.

Friday, First Congregational Church, Graceland and Marion Sts., Des Plaines, starting Oct. 3 at 8 p.m.

Registrations should be made promptly. None will be accepted after the second session. Instructors for all three classes will be the Char-Lee Weilers, 824-1464.

"Success" Story Opens Wednesday At Country Club

"Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?" will be the next production at the Country Club Theatre. The comdey, by George Axelrod, author of The Seven Year Itch, is scheduled to open next Wednesday and will run for a total of eleven weeks.

The story concerns itself with an outrageous affair between a voluptuous movie star and a very meek and guileless young writer sent to interview her for a movie magazine. How this young writer achieves the all elusive goal of "Success" and triumphs over evil everywhere is the plot around which this zany play is built.

PATRICK MULVIHILL, who first delighted Country Club Theatre audiences in our spring production of the Girl in the Freudian Slip will appear in the role of the young writer and Jeanne White will portray the beautiful if not too bright starlet. Dennis Kennedy, who needs no introduction to our audiences, is the madcap studio head. Others in the cast include, Ralph Foody, Joe Bell and Hardye Simons.

Norman Rice, the resident director will stage the show for the Country Club's intimate, three-quarter stage. For ticket information call the theatre box office at 259-5400.

A BLONDE BEAUTY, formerly Miss Alabama and a runner-up for the Miss America title, is the lead vocalist of the musical group at the Chicago Marriott Hotel's Windjammer Lounge. Gwen Harmon and the Players will entertain guests nightly with songs and music for dancing, until 2 a.m., except Mondays. Her husband, Ray Doris, is pianist and manager of the group, popular in night clubs across the country, including Las Vegas, Palm Springs, Beverly Hills and Reno. Stan Lawrence is on drums; Fred Land on electrically amplified bass.

New Innovative Concert Series

By Juergen Rusnak

It all begins on Oct. 3 when Smokey Robinson and the Miracles take the stage at the Auditorium Theatre, 70 E. Congress, Chicago. They are the beginning of the most extraordinarily innovative concert series set by a production company in Chicago.

Charles Witz and Dick Gassen are the men responsible for this new approach; the company is 22nd Century Productions. According to 22nd Century, the approach begins as soon as the customer enters the concert hall. "We feel patrons are entitled to more than just a seat. If an attraction is worth presenting, it is equally worth servicing."

Sharon O'Malley and the rest of Andy Frain's Mod Squad will help patrons find seats and make them comfortable. Ushers in the traditional blue uniforms will be used only as ticket takers and directors.

INSTEAD OF the conventional program, the patrons will receive an art poster on the featured attraction. Chicago artist Jack Hagman has been commissioned by 22nd Century Productions to create the posters so that each will capture the illusion of the performers. Notes necessary to a program book will be printed on the back of the poster.

And for the line-up...

Oct. 3: Smokey Robinson and the Miracles, 8:30 p.m. in the Auditorium.

Oct. 17: Mason Williams, Jennifer, 8:30 p.m. in Orchestra Hall, 220 S. Michigan.

Oct. 26: Blood, Sweat, and Tears, Auditorium, 7:30 p.m.

Oct. 31: Tim Hardin, Orchestra Hall, 8:30 p.m.

Nov. 2: Jose Feliciano, Auditorium, 7:30 p.m.

Nov. 21: Frank Zappa and The Mothers of Invention, Alice Cooper, Auditorium, 8:30 p.m.

Nov. 21: Glenn Yarbrough, Orchestra Hall, 8:30 p.m.

Nov. 22: Three Dog Night, Auditorium, 7 and 10:30 p.m.

Nov. 23: Janis Joplin, Auditorium, 7:30 p.m.

Nov. 27: Chicago (CTA), Auditorium, 7:30 p.m.

Nov. 30: Moody Blues, Auditorium, 7:30 p.m.

TICKETS FOR ANY of these concerts may be purchased at any Ticketron Electronic Box Office. There are more than 40 ticket terminals located in retail stores and banks throughout the Chicago area.

Every terminal is connected, via telephone lines, to a computer. When a patron purchases a ticket, he is supposed to receive the best available seat at the time of purchase.

Special attention is given to mail orders at 22nd Century, 70 W. Hubbard, Chicago, 60610. Enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope. Ticket prices are: $6.50, $5.50, $4.50, $3.50.

Each patron will be able to enjoy the performers without the problems of tone distortion and fading or even lost voices, according to technician Harry Warner. He has engineered a sound system designed to exceed the demands of each concert.

The system uses equipment that is generally found in quality recording studios but rarely in theatres and, to the best of Warner's knowledge, never before in a portable system.

THE FIRST AND only light show to featured in a Chicago concert series will be presented at every hard rock concert. With Jerry Reich's background in chemistry, he has been able to use new chemical techniques to make polarized slides and discover new uses for liquids.

The Blink Family, working as a unit, plans their presentations, listens to recordings in advance, and creates spontaneously during the concert. The object is to create a visual impression of the music, enhance it and never interfere with it.

This is the new dimension of the 22nd Century.

Massey Promoted

Robert A. Massey, 640 Murray, Des Plaines, has been promoted to assistant sales manager from sales representative for the Chicago Marriott Motor Hotel. The announcement was made today by Robert Barrie, general manager.

Massey has been with the Chicago Marriott since June, 1968, as a sales representative, and previously held the same position with the Sheraton-Chicago.

He was graduated from Michigan State University with a B.A., majoring in hotel, restaurant and institutional management. Prior to college, he joined the Pick-Congress Hotel, Chicago, in the catering department and later became restaurant manager.

He served in the U. S. Army as club manager of the staff officer's mess.

Club Observes 2d Anniversary

Seven of the original 15 members of the Des Plaines Investment Club recently celebrated the club's second anniversary with a breakfast at the Howard Johnson's restaurant.

The club has 19 members and meets once a month at the Des Plaines National Bank. Anyone interested in joining the club may contact Dan Morava at 827-1191 or Robin Hoffer at 298-5987.

Young for Congress Unit Set Up in Mt. Prospect

With less than 30 days remaining in the 13th district congressional campaign, Carl R. Hansen of Mount Prospect this week set up a special unit to advance the campaign of Samuel H. Young of Glenview.

This unit will be known as the Elk Grove Township Young for Congress Committee, and is to be headed by Warren McGovney, 819 S. See-Gwun, Mount Prospect.

IN MAKING the appointment of McGovney, Committeeman Hansen recalled that McGovney was named "Precinct Captain of the Year" in 1968 as a result of his highly effective person-to-person program which resulted in his 11th precinct having the highest percentage of paid-up members in the township's GOP organization.

The Elk Grove Township GOP endorsed the candidacy of Young early in the summer. Young plans spend an important part of his time in Elk Grove Township during the final days of the campaign.

"I AM HONORED that the Elk Grove Republican Organization has selected me to coordinate our township's campaign for Sam Young. We are going to make it possible for a maximum number of voters in Elk Grove Township to meet Young before the Oct. 7 primary.

"Plans are already underway to organize a series of home receptions in his honor. Anyone interested in having a coffee for Sam Young is invited to call me at 392-4813," McGovney explained Thursday.

YOUNG IS one of eight Republicans campaigning for the Oct. 7 primary at which both major parties will select candidates to run for the 13th congressional seat left vacant by the resignation of former Congressman Donald Rumsfled of Evanston who left the Congress to become an assistant to President Richard M. Nixon.

The Republican who wins in the Oct. 7 primary will face Rep. Edward Warman of Skokie who is unopposed in the Democratic primary. The special general election in the 13th district will be held Nov. 25.

Quicky Vacation

By Barbara Smart

There is still plenty of time and opportunity for one kind of vacation - the day in picturesque Illinois kind and the one the Harry DeGroots took keeps reminding me of Mary Poppins.

First, they did their locally famous trick of getting four strapping children and mother and dad into the Volkswagen. For their next trick they navigated Route 20.

At the start there's a cheery sign about a "deadly 50 miles ahead." At the end there is actually one that says, "Congratulations, You heve Made Rte. 20 alive."

Somewhere along the way to Galena, their destination, there appeared a sign impressively announcing a detour to "the highest point in Illinois."

Can't miss thet. "Charles Mound," was attained by paying the custodian-farm woman a dollar, "to maintain the road," a single-car number with many ruts.

The Mound was a hillock of grass with two picnic tables. Probably the highest point, though, or it couldn't be so publicly advertised.

The only Poppins feature of Galena, according to the DeGroot account, is the really quaint prettiness of it. Narrow sidewalks run along rows of old houses with a fine view all around, very unliked the usual Illinois scene in its hilliness.

Of course, the obvious attraction was Grant's home. Except for the distinct lack of plumbing, the family would have liked to move right in. Gruff, tough Grant lived among lovely things, which have been very well preserved, they say.

There is also an antique museum worth the looking, and the stockade for protection in Indian raids.

The DeGroots came home by mid-evening very satisfied with their "vacation." We can, too, during what has turned out to be such brilliant, good traveling fall weather.

COOL HAND Luke is avenged! The Bird Man of Alcatraz, too! In the first splendid movie, Luke revoles against the prison farm regulations that prevent him from attending his mother's funeral, and eventually is killed escaping. The birdman's bitterness, in some part, was deepened because he was legally prevented from selling his definitive works on birds.

The governor has signed two new laws that would have averted both the fictional and real tragedies.

Eugene Schlickman, (R-3rd) sponsor of both bills, says the first now allows a prisoner in any state penal institution to take a furlough for such a valid cause as a death in the family.

The second allows prisoners to sell whatever works of art they create. There is planned a shop in Chicago for this purpose. Other states are working on such programs.

"It's fine to create," says Schlickman, "but think of what it will do for these men psychologically to know they're good enough to "sell".

We'll go along with that.

ABOUT THIS bill signing. Governor Ogilvie started in July with 2,207 passed by both the state house and senate. As of last week, we had 1,190 signed laws, with 57 vetoed. That leaves 960, doesn't it!

To quote Democrats that Gov. Kerner was a faster man with the pen is really non-partisan. Democrats will conclude it was because he was more efficient, Republicans, he was less thorough.

Sort of like, my child is quiet because he's thoughtful and deep. Yours is quiet because he's a troubled introvert, right?

FIRST THERE came Man's fight against Nature. Quickly, then, The Battle of the Sexes (after that business with the rib). Later, the great powers struggled for supremecy. Then the industrial revolution, and Labor versus Management. To these great conflicts was added, with mass home development, The Builder verses Homeowner.

A gloating lady here tells me a certain president of a development company received a pretty little envelope at his New York office.

Assuming it was personal, his secretary sent it right in.

It was a formal Thank You note for all the attention the company would surely give to a lady's complaints, made six weeks before, and as yet ignored.

Apparently feeling such creativity was something to deal with, the gentleman fired off all kinds of orders, with carbons to her. Everything that was wrong is right.

"And I heve all those names of department heads on the carbons, for any future complaints," she chuckles, contentedly.

Rosh Hashonah Services Set

Again this year Congregation Beth Judea will hold High Holy days services at the Holiday Inn, 200 E. Rand Rd., Mount Prospect.

Their schedule for Rosh Hashanah will be Friday, Sept. 12, at 6:45 p.m.; Saturday, Sept. 13, at 9:30 a.m., and Sunday, Sept. 14, at 9:30 a.m.

All the families of the congregation are invited to shere in this beginning together. A nursery will be provided for the youngest members.

A family ticket will be required for admittance to all services, except Yiskor, when none is needed.

'Substance'

"Substance" is the subject of the lesson-sermon to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday. These verses from Proverbs are included: "He that hath a bountiful eye shall be blessed; for he giveth of his bread to the poor...Rob not the poor, because he is poor; neither oppress the afflicted in the gate."

All are welcome at services beginning at 11 a.m. at First Church of Christ Scientists, 401 S. Evergreen, Arlington Heights.

Pre-Marital Institute

Engaged couples are invited to the fall pre-marital institute conducted by the pastoral care department of Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge.

The institute begins Monday, Oct. 6, and will be held for the following three Monday evenings.

Participating in the sessions will be a physician, a psychiatrist, a social worker, a financial adviser and chaplains.

"Couples who are planning to be married in the near future are invited to attend the institute," said the Rev. Lawrence E. Holst, director of the pastoral care department.

Additional information on the institute may be obtained from area clergymen or from the pastoral care department at the hospital. A $10 tuition fee per couple covers the cost of books and instructional materials.

Northwest Consumer Union Plans Drive

Northwest suburban consumers dissatisfied with business establishments in their area can now do something about it. At 9 a.m. in the Jewel parking lot at Camp McDonald Rd., and Ill. Rt. 83, Prospect Heights, the first open membership drive for the Northwest Consumer Union will be launched.

Tha newly established union will present its constitution to new members and hold a secret ballot to elect board members.

"We intend to gain consumer rights," said Mrs. Lynn Heidt, "which heve been eroded in our complex society. We want a voice in what we buy, the conditions under which those goods are marketed and the prices we have to pay for those goods.

Mrs. Heidt has been active in the "grape boycott" in the northwest suburban area, but is putting it aside to help organize the new union. She said she believes the Better Business Bureau is not enough because it is organized by businessmen. "What we need is a union composed of "people power" to get the rights we deserve. The consumer must be represented in some form," she added.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)--Use this Saturday to increase your social contacts--but take care to stress their quality rather than quantity.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21)--Health hazards abound this morning. Take special precautions against accident should you be engaged in any new endeavors.

ARIES (March 22-April 20)--Promote your own personal interests. You can attrct the support of family and intimate friends by taking them into your confidence.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)--A good day for beginning improvements on the home front. Take care, however, not to undertake any extensive jobs.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)--Keep things on a light plane today. You can have a serious discussion with younger family members without their knowing it.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)--Be guided by your personal ambitions. This is an excellent time for drawing the family together through activities.

September Designated Cystic Fibrosis Month

September is "Cystic Fibrosis Month" in the Chicagoland area, with the week, Sept. 14 through Sept. 21 designated as "Cystic Fibrosis Week" by the Chicago Chapter of the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation.

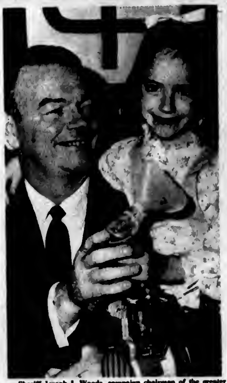
Rosemary Woods, daughter of Cook County Sheriff and Mrs. Joseph I. Woods, has been chosen for the second consecutive year as the National Poster Child for the national research foundation and for the third year in a row is the Greater Chicago Chapter's Poster Child.

According to her parents, Rosemary sleeps every night in a mist tent that brings moisture to her lungs, breaking up the thick mucus that endangers her breathing. She has been under treatment since she was 3 years old.

"I don't know what we would have done without the foundation,'' said Mrs. Woods. "Before we came to the Chicago chapter we were afraid every day for Rosemary's life. Knowing that now she has good treatment we realize that with constant care she has a chance to lead an almost normal life."

As a cystic fibrosis patient, Rosemary has been aided by the foundation's support of diagnostic, therapeutic and research programs financed by the annual appeal of the foundation. This year, for the first time, the breath of Life Campaign has been designated as benefiting children with other diseases, some of which closely resemble cystic fibrosis but are not genetically induced, as well as those with cystic fibrosis.

More than 30,000 volunteers will participate in a door-to-door solicitation to raise funds to support the Greater Chicago Chapter's for care, research and teaching centers, local research projects, and professional education



Sheriff Joseph I. Woods, campaign chairman of the greater Chicago Chapter of the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation, and his youngest daughter, Rosemary, who has Cystic Fibrosis and is the Foundation's National Poster Child for the second year. Cystic Fibrosis Week is Sept. 14 through 21.

Slaughter Season Here

According to the calendar, the slaughter season is here. From now through December, the body count will rise.

No, not in Vietnam. In the United States-on the highways.

The National Safety Council reports that the final four months of most year are the bloodiest for motorists-and this year should be no exception for the nation's 105 million drivers.

Nobody knows exactly why this is. Auto travel actually tapers off after summer months. So the suthorites are left to blame it on worsening road conditions, longer evenings, back to school and so forth.

But whatever the reason, 20,000 or more persons may be killed on the roads in the next four months.

That would be six or seven times the expected Vietnam toll.

Last year, setting still another record for carnage, the nation's drivers caused 55,200 deaths, 3,447,000 injuries and a staggering $11.3 billion in costs.

The National Safety Council records sketch an accurate-if not very lovely-portrait of the slaughter season's expected vehicular fatalities:

MOST DEATHS will happen to vehicle drivers or passengers. According to Safety Council mathematics, about four times as many motor occupants are killed as pedestrians. (In 1968: 45,400 to 9,800).

Most will happen in rural areas. Although injuries and property damage mishaps occur most frequently in urban areas, more than twice as many vehicular deaths happen outside the cities (In 1968: 37,700 to 17,500.)

Most will happen at night.

Vehicular death occurence is actually only a few thousand more at night, In 1968: 29,300 to 25,900 but the rate per-number-of-miles-traveled is, at night, three times higher than day.

Most will happen at certain hours and days. Safety Council charts indicate evening rush hours, Saturday evening (early or late) and Sunday Morning are worse. Most deadly time in general: 4 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Most will be caused by collisions. In 1968, some 22,500 died from vehicles colliding with vehicles, 9,800 died in collisions with pedestrians and 5,100 died in collisions with trains, bicycles, fixed objects, etc.

Most will happen off limited access roads. The federal interstate highway system, more than 25,000 miles complete, hed a death rate of about 3.0 per 100,000 miles traveled in 1968; the rate for other roads was 7.5.

MOST WILL BE caused by males. There are 61.5 million male drivers and 43.4 million female drivers. Last year, men had a fatal accident rate of 84 per 100,000 drivers; the female rate was 35 for every 100,000 drivers.

Many will be caused by alcoholic involvement. No figures are available (due to varying methods of accident recording) but most officials feel that drinking is a factor in at least half of all road deaths.

Many will be caused by speeding. More than three out of 10 of last year's fatalities were caused by excessive vehicle speed. "At 55 miles per hour," officials say, "a person in an accident is twice as likely to die than at 45 miles per hour."

Many will be caused by young drivers. A safety official snickers, "Never trust a driver under 30." This age group is cause for a disproportionate number of road deaths. The 20-24 bracket expecially-118 deaths per 100,000 drivers.

And finally, according to Don Lhotka of the National Safety Council's traffic department, many accidents in the coming slaughter season will no doubt be caused by people who think they are good drivers.

Says he,

"Persons will drive for 20 years with a spotless record and then, bang it'll happen. It only takes one carless moment. Nobody is too good a driver to be complacent. Nobody ever outgrows the driving hazard."

"Great American Homes"

Great Homes of Yesterday and Today... featured each Friday with the Day's Home Buyer's Guide

Featured Above:

Custis-Lee Mansion
Located in Arlington National Cemetery, Virginia

Today Arlington House, as it was formerly known, furnished with appointments of its early period, preserves for posterity the atmosphere of gracious living, typical of a romantic age of American history.

George Washington Parke Custis began building Arlington in 1778. The foundation stone and timber came from the estate. The bricks used were burned from native clay. The portico and large center section were not finished until 1817.

The central portion is divided by a wide central hall. A large formal drawing room with two fine marble fireplaces lies south of this hall. To the north can be seen the family dining room and family parlor separated by a north and south partition broken by three graceful arches. The second story is also divided by a central hall on either side of which there are two bedrooms and accompanying dressing rooms. A small room used as a linen closet is at the end of this hall. The third floor was used only for storage purposes and remained an unfinished attic. The grand portico facing the Potomac, with its eight massive Doric columns, is 60 feet wide and 25 feet deep. At the rear two buildings used as servant's quarters, smokehouse, workroom, and summer kitchen form a courtyard.

Townhouses for Free Living

"For folks who cherish home ownership, with all its tax and other advantages, yet want to enjoy leisure living, free of gardening and other chores, our townhomes are the perfect answer," said Robert C. Winkle, Centex Sales Director for Elk Grove Village. "Our new community around a 35-acre springfed lake nffers two-and three-bedroom one and a half to three bath townhouses for a life of ease and luxury!"

Five furnished townhouse models are presented in Elk Grove Estates in the $30,400 to $42,500 price range, available for late fall or future delivery.

SMALLEST, YET remarkably spacious is the two-bedroom one and a half bath Deveraux, furnished like all five townshouse models, by Richard Honquest Interiors of Addison.

"In furnishing the Deveraux, we have used light colors, nothing but eyllow, green and white from room to room, thrnughout the house," said Rosemary Kalaway of Honquest's staff of interior designers. "This idea is much like the variation of a theme in music. The basic color scheme provides the theme and each room interprets it In s different but harmonius way. These light colors create the feeling nf airiness and the refreshing atmosphere of early spring."

An entry court leads through a sheltered porch into the hallway, with a powder room on one side, kitchen and dining area on the other. The kitchen features a deluxe Tappan oven-range with Perma-Kleen catalytic soil removing oven liners,, disposal, Romance-style Merrilat cabinets - the eating space is furnished with a delicate yet comfortable dinette set in yellow and white, with black emphasis.

A MIRROR with antique yellow frame is above the yellow and white sofa in the sauterne-carpeted living room, separated from the kitchen by a carved divider.

A skirted table adds a mellowing effect. In the dining area, a round white table, enhanced by a decorative flower-shaped hanging lamp, is surrounded by matching chairs. Sheer panels with stationary tie-backs, which match the sofa fabric, cover the sliding glass door leading to the outdoor patio.

The master bedroom's multi-printed bedspread blends with the draperies and the lounge chair, done in yellow. Daughter will love her French bedroom with marigold-patterned print on the bed spread and drapes, all in white, yellow and green, and her huge walk-in closet.

The Deveraux is priced at $30,400 including landscaped site, also capreting in the living room, bedroom and upstairs hallways. All Elk Grove Estate townshouses are centrally air-conditioned and all feature garages with automatic Genie garage door openers.

LOCATED WITHIN 30 minutes to the Loop, Elk Grove Village boasts fine schools, shopping centers, a private lake, parks, forest preserves, excellent cultural, medical, social and recreational facilities for an ideal way of life.

The model townshouses are easy to reach. Take Higgins Rd. (rt. 72) to Arlington Heights road, then turning south and following signs. They are open six days a week from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

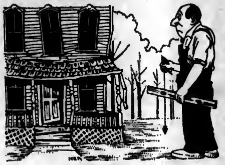
Things Go Smoothly If You Use a Level



Few walls are perfectly vertical.

By Mr. Fix

Though it seldom makes the list of basic tools, the level is an important item to have around the house. Even though you don't plan to tackle any major carpentry, you will find that it is one of the most useful tools you own.

Your familiarity with a level is the small one set in the short leg nf a try-square. This one will do for checking the level on small work, but across a long expanse it isn't much use.

WHAT YOU need is one about two feet long and that will take both vertical and horizontal readings on separate dials. The kind made of wood is fine around the house and shop. But if you have to use a level outdoors frequently, get one of metal (generally aluminum or magnesium), since these are unaffected by moisture.

When will you ever need a level?

Things are spilling in the refrigerator, or the motor is making a chugging noise. It looks O.K., but check it and you will find that level is what it isn't. Most refrigerators have adjusting screws or you can wedge it on the low side.

The point is that your eye is no judge. Few floors and ceilings are absolutely horizontal and few walls are perfectly vertical. Most of this is hidden with decoration and makes little real difference.

BUT LET'S say you are putting up a shelf. Simple enough you figure. Just set both brackets the same distance up the wall from the floor (or measure from the celinging if that is easier) and you figure they are bound to be right. But they won't be because the floor or ceiling will not be perfectly level and neither will your shelf.

Shelves, wall cabinets, floor cabinets, even wallpaper with a vertical strip will all end up wrong unless you discover the sloping walls and floors before you finish the prnject.

The refrigerator is not the only appliance that may need leveling. If your wife's cakes come out of uneven thickness, put a level across the nven and then slip a couple of wedges under it until you get it where it belongs.

Washing machines will run better is made level. Any motor-driven appliance will suffer from being out of level, since the motor will have to work harder.

IF DOORS don't open and close properly, check the level of the frame. Shrinkage and expansinn may have pulled it out of level. But before you do any sanding or planing, see if a piece of cardboard under a hinge may not solve the problem.

If you are doing a little brick work outside or putting up a fence, you will have to get acquainted with a line level. This device is a small level that hangs on a taut string. Line up your work with it, once you know you have it straight and level.

Worth New Floor

The need for more living space has been found by many families near the center of the city. They have discovered the well-built, roomy old houses left by others fleeing to the suburbs.

Naturally, some of these are in better condition than others, depending on the treatment they've received. But most are soundly constructed and well worth rehabilitating.

After purchasing a vintage home, families reported to The Better Floors Council that floors are usually the first problem they face in rehabilitation.

MANY WANT to install floor coverings themselves to save money. The council advises them to use vinyl asbestos tile.

When selecting patterns fnr various rooms in their new-old homes, these homeowners reported that they were pleasantly surprised at the variety nf designs now available. Several were delighted to discover vinyl asbestos tile in embossed wood parquet patterns, which help recreate the original, warm period atmosphere of the houses.

For installation instructions the council suggests that homemakers consult their local floor covering dealers. Or, they may send 25 cents and a lnng, self-addressed and stamped envelope to The Better Floors Council for its booklet "Installing Resilient Floor Tile." The address is 101 Park Av., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Pool for Renaissance Men

At Three Fountains Apartments, in Rolling Meadows, the residents' pool is styled with modern distinction. Yet, like the apartments themselves, the pool and cabana suggest the elegant Renaissance structures of the Old World.

The Scholz-designed Three Fountains Apartments, a group of buildings occupying some 25 acres of park-like grounds are located on Algonquio Rd. about a quarter-mile east of Rt. 53, just north of the Northwest Tollway. The main entrance is via an antique stone gatehouse, styled after the great baronial estates of 18th Century Europe. And this basic prestige design is carried through in the construction of the residents' pool.

THE POOL IS a few hundred feet inside the main entrance. It is irregular in shape, measuring approximately 44 feet by 24 feet, and has a poolside apron about 16 feet wide on all sides. The cabana entrance containing treated footbaths and other conveniences is of stone construction, with wall lamps and a high, sloped roof similar to the gatehouse at the main entrance. The entire pool area is fenced in decorative wrought iron.

A second pool and cabana, of similar design, is now under construction on the opposite side of the gently rolling Three Fountains grounds.

Apartment rentals at Three Fountains start at $200 per month for the one-bedroom suites, at $255 per month for the two-bedroom. Layouts vary, offering one, one-and-a-half and two baths.

Luxury and prestige combined with modern comfort characterize all the Three Fountains suites.

Resident privacy is a fetish in the Three Fountains concept. Floor systems are double-layered and sound-conditioned, and are designed for complete prevention of sound transmittal. Walls are thoroughly insulated. And floors in every apartment, regardless of size, are fully padded and carpeted, including the closets. Thick carpeting is found in corridors and entryways.

THE MAIN ENTRY of each building at Three Fountains is thickly carpeted, and is attractively lighted by an ornate chandelier. A wide stairway, with finely-wrought iron railing, leads to the upper floors. In halls and corridors, distinctive wallpapers and a series of formal, molded panels are found.

Of course, the formal landscaped grounds with their sweeping expanses of rolling green lawn and broad, curving avenues are completely in keeping with the overall concept of distinction and luxury.

Residents' service features include private, secured storage space; master TV outlets; modern intercom systems to the entry foyers; fully heated underground garages for each building; etc.

Model apartments at Three Fountains are open to visitors daily from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.—and by appointment.

At Three Fountains Apartments on Algonquin Rd. a quarter mile east of Rt. 53, in Rolling Meadows, the last buildings are nearing completion. The new pool for residents and guests is at left.

Homeowners Face Capital Gains Tax on House Sales

Every homeowner who sells his house and makes a profit now must pay a capital gains tax under the new Illinois State Income Tax, according to the international Society of Real Estate Appraisers.

"Illinois law differs from federal law to this respect: under Federal tax laws, a homeowner can sell his house, make a profit on it and, as long as he reinvests the proceeds in another house within a specified period, capaital gains taxes are deferred. But not under Illinois law" a spokesman for the Chicago-based group said.

THE RECENT Supreme Court decision says the taxpayer has two options for computing capital gains tax on the proceeds from sale of real estate after Aug. 1, 1969.

The first option is using the acquisition price and the selling price with capital gains computed on the difference.

Under the second option, if the property owner establishes a value as of Aug. 1, 1969, capital gains tax is computed on the profit realized between that value and the selling price at date of sale.

An example of the first option is: If a house were purchased prior to Aug. 1, 1969, for $10,000 and sold after Aug. 1, 1969, for $20,000, capital gains tax would be computed on the profit of $10,000, less selling expenses.

However, under the second option, if the property were acquired for $10,000, appraised by a professional appraiser as of Aug. 1, 1969, for $15,000, and subsequently sold for $20,000, capital gains tax would be paid on $5,000 less selling expenses.

BY ESTABLISHING an Aug. 1 value, the seller would pay less capital gains tax.

For those owning real estate for investment purposes, such as rental property, apartments, commercial and industrial property, the same options apply in computing the capital gains tax.

To illustrate, if an apartment building purchased prior to Aug. 1, 1969, for $50,000 sold after Aug. 1, for $100,000, the capital gains tax would be computed on the profit of $50,000, less selling expenses.

However, if this property owner had the property appriased as of Aug. 1, 1969, for an appriased value of $90,000, and then sold it for $100,000, capital gains tax would be computed on the $10,000 profit, less selling expenses.

Investment property owners have an additional advantage which homeowners do not. Any loss derived from the sale of real estate would be deductable as a business expense.

An example of this would be: A building purchased before Aug. 1, 1969 for $50,000. The owner has it appraised as of Aug. 1, 1969 and the appraisal shows a value of 100,000, but the property sold for $90,000, a loss of $10,000. There would be no capital gains tax, and the loss could be applied against other income thereby lowering their income tax.

The key for the property owner is to have his property appraised by a professional appraiser and have the appraisal made as of August 1, 1969. Professional appraisers are qualified to compile retroactive appraisal reports. Appraisal reports compiled in this manner are generally acceptable by courts and government agencies.

The Society issues a note of caution to those employing appraisers. The best protection when employing an appriaser is to hire an appraiser with a designation awarded by the Society, the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers, American Society of Appraisers and the American Society of Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers.

Members of these professional groups have undergone extensive examinations to certify their qualifications.

The Society of Real Estate Appraisers is the largest independent professional association of real estate appraisers and valuation specialists in North America. The Chicago-based group has 18,000 members with over 1,000 members in Illinois.

It currently awards two professional designations, SRA (Senior Residential Appraiser) and SREA (Senior Real Estate Appraiser). The SREA designation is the only professional designation awarded by any professional group that requires a re-examination every five years.

Install Tile

When installing resilient tile over an old floor, it is important that the subsurface be absolutely smooth and free from old wax, grease and dirt. Any loose floor boards should be nailed down. And, The Better Floor Council says, the adhesive recommended by the tile manufacturer should be used instead of something "just as good."

Hydronics, the All Fuel System

If you have hydronic (modern hot water) heating in your home, you can use gas, oil, or electricity. According to the Chicago Better Heating-Cooling Council, with a hydronic system you can select the fuel which offers you the best price and service and be assured that you will have optimum heating comfort.

The Day's Football Consensus

Arlington 24
Maine West 8

After finishing fourth in state last year, the Cardinals are again ranked high in preseason polls. They boast a talented backfield that will provide a supreme test foo inexperienced Warriors.

If Maina em establish any kind of running game against the Cards they could control the tempo of the game.

St. Viator 28
Hersey 24

Hersey has a fine, experienced team that should go far in the Mid-Suburban League. However, their experience so far has been on the jayvee level, and the Huskies may need this game to get going.

St. Viator will not be able to stop Hersey's potent offensiva backfield even with their talented defense, hut Hersey's secondary is untested and it looks like the Lions will come out on top in a high-scoring affair.

Maine East 14
Niles West 8

Despite the fact Maine lost to Niles 21-0 last year, the Demons figure to be much improved under new head coach Al Eck.

They will be playing on their home field and should be able to outheft the visitors. The game should be a lowscoring affair, and the outcome probably rests upon the talents of the Maine defensive secondary.

Glenbrook So. 30
Prospect 22

The Knights are a better team than last year, but so is Glenbrook, and the Titans have a better 1968 record to fall back on. Both squads boast good backfields, but Glenbrook has an antire backfield of lettermen while the Knights heva two.

A poor line hurt the Knights last year, and it remains to be seen whether it has been built up enough to beat the Titans, rated first or second already in a tough conference.

Deerfield 20
Forest View 6

Forest View will hava its hands full with Deerfield, one of the best teams in the state. Coach Paul Adams has 14 lettermen back from a team that was good enough to post a 6-2 record and a second-place finish in the Central Suburban Conference last season.

The Falcons are hurting on offense with starting backs Dava Long and Bob Kaspar doubtful because of injuries. Forest View has to hope its defense can stop the Warriors to stay in the game.

Maine South 16
Wheeling 7

Maine South is the defending champion of the tough Central Suburban League and will be too much for the inexperienced Wildcats. The score may be closer than expected, however, if Wheeling defense measures up to expectations and the passing attack can get untracked.

Wheeling will certainly improve as the season progresses, and this stern test with the Hawks can only help their situation.

Notre Dame 34
Austin 13

The Dons heve too much manpower for the Chicago entry. Despite the fact Austin boasts two good halfbacks, they will not be enough to cope with the depth and polish of Notre Dame.

The game will be played in Niles, and the big green will be out to liva up to their pre-season buildup. The final score will probably depend on just how big coach Fran Willett wants to taka his opener.

Addison Trail 28
Elk Grove 7

Elk Grova might have a shot at winning this ona if it was played later in the year, but right now inexperience and injuries will make it tough for the Grenadiers. Injuries heve hit three af coach Don Schnake's tackles and only one of injured is expected to see action.

Addison Trail should be able to put some points on the scoreboard. It has four veterans in its offensive backfield, including all-conference candidate Bob Landrum at halfback. The Blazers are expected to be contanders in the Des Plaines Valley Conference this season.

Warriors Meet Arlington on More Even Terms

By Jim Cook

and

Linda Hamilton

The Arlington Cardinals, pride of the Mid-Suburban League, and the struggling Maine West Warriors square off tonight at the Des Plaines field to renew their grid rivalry.

Last year the highly-touted Cardinals whitewashed a much smaller and inexperienced Warrior team, 26-0, but nobody is predicting that kind of a score this year.

THE WARRIORS have been burt badly by injuries this year, but the Cards were also cut down to size by graduation. Arlington has some lettermen back from the unbeaten team of last year, but they are smaller than the 1968 version of the Cardinals.

Toting most of the responsibility will he Carl Anderson, Mike Hadley, Kevin Ellertson, Mike DeZonna and Jack Holt. The remainder of the team, with the exception of transfer Terry Foy, is up from a successful jayvee unit which captured league honors.

Starting tonight for the Cards will be ends Holt and Gary Bratko, tackles Tom Harris and Ellertson, guards Anderson and Pete Harth, center Jeff Selleck, quarterback Fred Harth, fullback Foy and halfbacks DeZonna and Mike D'Angelo.

Arlington coach Bob Walther figures he's at a bit of a disadvantage because Maine West, due to the power failure that hit the school last Friday night, was able to scout Arlington's scrimmage while the Cards weren't able to reciprocate.

WALTHER SAYS he hasn't "heard anything" and doesn't "know anything" about Maine West. "We expect passes and have been doing passing drills," be said, adding that Arlington was readying their defense for the end sweep, "their bread and butter play," according to Walther.

The Arlington coach also said he didn't expect aither team to run away witb the game tonight because it was the first game. There will be "no one-sided scores" in Walther's opinion. One touchdown should do it either way, he said.

Arlington is in "very good condition" on both offense and defense, according to Walther. The only changes in the lineup for the defense will be in the backfield when Don Stump and Mike Haldey come in as linebackers, Tom Sayre enters as safety and Sam Witt joins the game as right halfback.

That backfield, both offensively and defensively, stacks up as one of the better squads around. Walther's hopes were dampened a bit in the Arlington scrimmage last week, but he contends that they have "greatly improved the passing" since then.

MAINE WEST, on the other hand, has had to introduce personnel that were not even discussed in pre-practice conversation. Early season injuries have written the names of Joe Jung, Dave Arnswald, and Jim Kulik, three returning lettermen, out of the starting lineup.

Jung suffered a knee injury which has since turned into a serious problem to put him in the hospital. Kulik is suffaring from a tender back which will cause him to miss the entire season. Arnswald, meanwhile, is one of the walking wounded on coach Kenny Olson's crippled squad.

Dave was hit in the face by a stray elbow during one of the tackling drills. The result was a broken nose which may keep him out of the initial game although he has a special cage mounted on his face-guard.

This rash of injuries is coupled with the fact that Olson is coaching a "small" team for the second straight year, The size problem is causing blocking troubles which could prove costly to the Warriors.

OLSON'S STRATEGY will be to establish a running game. After that, the airways might be opened. But in order to run against the Cards, the offensiva front will hava to open the holes.

This responsibility will fall in the hands of Mike Maloney, weak end; Bill Tillman, weak tackle; All Baccarello, weak guard; Dave Atkinson, center; Ed Haag, strong guard; Dave Bische, strong tackle; and Mark Kuzich, strong end.

Starting in the backfield for the Warriors will be tailback Bill O'Neill, fullback Larry Portman, wingback Jim Hanselmann, and quarterback Bill Priester.

"Wa've basically been a ball control team," Olson said. And if his charges can hang on to the ball, Arlington will have fewer opportunities to put their potent offense into gear.

Shut Outs Dominate Initial Week of MP Midget Football

By Frank Holan

The Mount Prospect Midget Football Association kicked off its 13th season this past Sunday on the Lions Park gridirons with a full slate of 12 games, nine of which resulted in shut outs.

The Colts and Giants blanked their opponents in the Senior Division as the Bears drew a bye. In the Junior loop, the Jets, Chiefs, Rams, Redskins and Vikings gained their first victories. The Wolverines, Wildcats, Illini, Badgers and Spartans all looked impressive in their Bantam debuts.

SENIOR DIVISION

The charging Colts scored on the ground and in the air as they whitewashed the Packers 26-0 in tha opening contest. Pete Palubicki connected with right end John Battaglia for touchdowns of 25 and 15 yards. Bruce Meige scored twice as he ripped off runs of 7 and 92 yards. Palubicki and Dick Lessner added the extra points. The tough defense was spearheaded by John Toniolo, Buddy Strobel and Paul Kitzing.

The Packers got good offensive performances from fullback John McKenney, signal caller Rich Fisher and end Bob Strasser. The trio of John Kronforst, Dino Frediani and Paul Vandeven led the defensive unit.

AFTER A TOUGH, scoreless first half, the Giants edgec the Cardinals 13-0. The winners broke the deadlock as quarterback Todd Buikema hit Tom Maher with a 30-yard touchdown pass. They got an insurance touchdown as Maher dashed 15 yards for another score.

Rod Kiolbassa converted the point after. Mark Storhaug blocked a punt and led in defensive points. He was followed by Dave Matzl, Kenny Holan and Kurt Haaland.

Halfbacks Bob Moore and Mark Wegerer provided the Cardinals with strong running as quarter-back Randy Cherwin mixed his plays well. Good tackling was displayed by Jim Wade, Paul Youngquist and Bob Stevens. Mike Clurus recovered a fumble.

JUNIOR DIVISION

The Jets overpowered the Browns 34-0 as Gregg Jacobs scampered for a pair of six-pointers, and Peter Hahn, Chris Eugenis and Steve Egesdahl added one apiece. Chip Heinemann, Tom Pavlina, Mike Mitsos and Hahn tallied the extra points. Billy Mitsos and Jimmy Gajda did well in the line. Halfback Jim Dolan, filling in for the Brown's ailing quarterback, did a fine job in an unfamiliar position. Clyde Mundt and Perry Douvris on offense and Dave Hughson and Mike Doherty on defense were stickouts.

Dala Higgason and "Bo" Broeren each scored twice as the uprising Chiefs massacred the 49ers, 34-0. End Mike Lapcewich bit pay dirt on a pass play. Tackle Jim O'Brien was outstanding on defense along with Ray Demmert. Brad Krause gathered in an enemy fumble.

Larry Ostling, Dave Carlsor and Steve Dyon were the 49ers top performers in a limited offansive action. End Mike Starkey, linebackers Mike Cantieri and Scott Viger played gallantly.

SAFETY WAYNE Kruty intercepted an enemy aerial on his own 30 and ran for a touchdown which enabled the Rams to squeeze past the Eagles by a 6-0 margin. Tim Hirz, Gary Horvath and Jim Zielinski were outstanding on the left side of the offensive line. Ken Colwell, Paul McGrath and Dan Super were the hardest tackiers.

Bucky Fischer was the Eagles' strongest runner and received good blocking from end Jim Recher and Mark O'Brill. Larry Ruane, Gary Conway and Roger Patterson were a terrific threesome on the defensive 11.

In the Junior division game of the day, the Vikings edged the Steelers 12-6 as halfbacks Jay Loos and Steve Speilmann sprinted for second-half touchdowns. Tom Hermanson, Steve Pettelle and Kirk Sneedon also performed excellantly on offense. Mike Szukalla, Pat Foley and Rich Vehe were tough defensively.

JIMMY ALTERGOTT slanted in for the Steelers' lone touchdown and led in defensive points. Nick Richardson, Jim Brown and Mark Sellers provided some fine blocking. George Bicego and George Bregar were defensive tigers.

Brian McEneely, Rick Chiupek and John Vojta accounted for all of the scoring as the Redskins ambushed the Cowboys, 13-0. Carl Spacone anchored the middle of the offensive line. Bob Lee and Cary Bergquist made five tacklas apiece and received plenty of help from Rich Carlson. The Cowboys' Hal Radike ran for good yardage and intercepted a pass. Don Arlow grabbed several nice aerials. Pat O'Connell, Ricky Reames and Don Thoma broke up many enemy plays.

BANTAM DIVISION

Rick Krumtinger's 53-yard run in the third quarter enabled the Wolverines to edge the Buckeyes 6-0 in a defensive battle. Dave Carlstedt ran well with fine blocking by Jeff Scanlon and Jim Toniolo. Dennis Clark recovered a fumble and safety Kyle Racine saved a touchdown. Brad Hiller's fine blocking helped spring Scotty Dagget and Tim Crews for considerable Buckeye yardage. "Rip" Wood pounced on two fumbles and Dan Ayres and Reid Harrison made many of their team's tackles.

The powerful Wildcats beat the Hawkeyes 25-0 on touchdowns by Scott Spielmann (2), Andy Loos and Ricky Lewis as good blocking was executed by Mark Bowen, Jack White and Dick Paulus. The defensive demons were led by Tim Doyle, Lou Munao and Pete Tuminaro. Jeff Martinski ran well for the Hawkeyes but not often enough.

Bruce Hayer and Jeff Weaver blocked hard in the line. Pat Doyle and Dennis Robbins made the most tackles and got plenty of assistance from linebacker Lon Reitz.

THE KING-SIZED Illini defeated the Boilermakers 27-0 as Jeff Layer, Louis Citro, Chris Hanson and Tim Chmura dashed or plunged for touchdowns. Up front, John Nettle, Alan Slatin and Rich Presher opened up many holes. Hard charges and sharp tackling were put on by Steve Wilkenson, Brian Gaure and John McDonough. The Boilermakers' best ball carriers were Bobby Morris, Doug Shattuck and Pat Lucansky. The tough trio on defense proved to be Tom VanWazer, Mark Lockowitz and Bobby Okuma.

Bob Cantieri, Paul Izban and Jeff Ferino ran for daylight with a touchdown apiece as the Badgers whipped the Gophers, 20-6. Randy Williams, Dan Kaller, Mark Adams, Dan Gillogly, Richard Reed and John Rohrer were the "solid six" on defense. Jarring John Mischevich put the Gophers on the scoreboard with a fourth quarter score which was set up by Dwight Squire's blocking and Tom Martindale's sprint to the three yard line. Mark Smolen gained the most yards. Tommy Smith showed tremendous pursuit.

The still-strong Spartans flattened the Hoosiers 25-6 as fullback Jeff Patterson accounted for all of the winner's points on four touchdowns and a point after. Dave Brucki centered accurately in the single-wing offense and Mark Dahle blocked well. Artie Stevens, Kurt Ringhofer and Joe Foresander kept the middle bottled un.

Rivals to Go All-Out for Non-Conference Game

By Jim Stuart
and
George Halas

"This may be a non-conference game, but you can bet we'll be going all out to win it."

That is head coach Len Burt's philosophy on Hersey's opening football game tonight against cross-town rival St. Viator. The game will be played on the Huskies' field, with the sophomore preliminary starting at 6.

BURT PLANS to use his regulars as much as he has to to win the game, just as he would for any conference encounter. He would very much like to see his Huskies win their first varsity game and will pull out all the stops toward that goal.

It is no secret that St. Viator would also cherish a victory in tonight's test. The Lions would certainly enjoy beating any of the teams in the Mid-Suburban League. Hersey just happens to be the closest school, and that makes for an added rivalry.

Burt hasn't seen St. Viator at work, but he knows the Lions are tough and will be up for the game. "All I know is that they will pass quite a bit and they move around a lot on defense," said the Hersey mentor.

HE IS CONFIDENT that his defense is quick enough, but he points out that his secondary has not yet been tested against unfamiliar pass patterns run by other teams.

The Huskies had a tough, very successful workout on Wednesday afternoon, according to Burt. "I'm a lot more confident than I was because of that practice," he said. "The boys were real pleased with it, too."

Hersey will be playing without the services of three of its regular starters. Split end Andy Pancratz, center Tom Anderson and fullback Bruce Frase are hurt, although only Pancratz will miss the entire contest.

The 6-8 sophomore end suffered a pulled tendon in his hand and will be out for at least three weeks. Frase's foot injury is almost completely healed, and the junior fullback is dying to see some action.

"I'M AFRAID I'm going to have to physically hold him back," said Burt. "Not only does he want to play fullback and kick, he wants to get in on defense, too."

Burt is naturally pleased with Frase's enthusiasm, but he will probably hold him out of most of the game so that he will be sure to see action in next Friday's Prospect game.

Junior Gordon Helcrow will fill in for Frase at fullback, with sophomore John Kulla backing him up. The remainder of the offensive backfield, one of the area's finest, will consist of quarterback Dick Powell and halfblacks Skip Peterson and Scott Feige.

Tom Brantner will take over Anderson's center slot, and he will be joined on the offensive line by tackles Bob Weber and Steva Toneff, guards Glen Rathke and Ken Morales and ends Jerry Jobst and Don Kieffer.

ON DEFENSE Don Spry and Jim Lewandowski will man the end positions with Toneff, Brantner and Gardner playing the interior line. The linebackers will be Feige, Mike Ryder and Morales and the deep backs will be Tom O'Connell and Bruce Myers. Feige and Toneff will share the punting chores.

St. Viator coach Joe Gliwa considers this the most important game of the season, mainly because of the local rivalry. He is concerned about the Hersey running game, but he flatly predicts that the Lions will win.

St. Viator will start Dennis Foreman and Mike Pettenuzzo at ends, John Vandenbergh and Pat McGrath at tackles, Steve Osterman and Mark Browning at guards, Mike Wilkin at center, Mike Abinanti at quarterback, Bill Madden and Larry Quinnett at halfbacks and Eddie Klingberg at fullback

OSTERMAN, VANDENBERGH, Foreman, Klingberg, McGrath and Quinnett will also play defense, along with Rodgers, Tom Smith and Mark Rossi.

St. Viator is usually a passing team, but this year they may rely more on a running attack after losing top-flight hurler Ken Preski.

The defense will once again be the Lions' strong suit, with Foreman at safety heading a long list of returnees on that unit. And the defense will have to be strong to stop that vaunted Hersey ground game.

"HERSEY IS A real good running team with some outstanding backs" Gliwa said. "They have been together for two years now and all their people are returning."

Knights Test CSL Favorites Sat.

By Linda Hamilton
Sports Editor

Depth and youth could become problems for Prospect's Knights this season, but if everyone stays as healthy as they have so far, the Prospectors could come up with a good season.

The Knights meet Glenbrook South tomorrow at 2 p.m. at the Titan field, and Prospect will be going with oine men playing both offense and defense. The starting lineup for tomorrow afternoon's game will see senior Bob Kline at the quarterback slot.

KLINE WILL be handing off to an all-junior backfield with Mickey Gebert and Pat Packard at the halfbacks and Don Koehler at fullback. Passes will be pulled down by right end Jim Dooley and left end John Manning, both seniors.

The only changes anticipated for defense will be the pulling of Kline and Korf and the insertion of juniors Bill Grady and Ed Anderson at safety. Gebert and Packard will move to cornerback with Loeffel and Koehler shifting to linebacker.

THE ONLY injury the Knights have to contend with is a broken bone in the ankle of Kurt Braun. That injury occurred yesterday in practice. Junior Scott Szala will be available to fill in at halfback as his injured arm has healed.

Glenbrook can also boast a healthy field, although their fullback, Chuck Jagade, had been out sick during the week but returned to practice yesterday. Coach Ken Hurlbut isn't too worried about that position because he has a second string fullback playing just as well as the regular.

Hurlbut's team is rated as one of the best in a tough Central Suburban League with only Deerfield earning more preseason praise. The coach intends to use a ground game most of the time because he has a complete backfield retuoing from last year's 5-2-1 squad.

Chuck Hansell will return to his quarterback position and will be flanked by Kevin Rielley, Jim Hughest and Jagade. Prospect coach Don Williams bas respect for Rielley, who he says was a "good back last year."

WILLIAMS ALSO is wondering about a 6-6, 275-pound tackle, but Hurlbut says the boy in question is young. Hurlbut contends that the youngster is a "pretty fair" player and is "coming."

Other letter men bolstering Glenbrook are center Mark Taylor, guard Dick Moore and tackle Carl Mulfinger.

Hurlbut is expecting a good ballgame from the Knights, a team they shut out in the initial game last year. "I think they'll be tough," he said. "We're expecting a tough game and that's what we want."

THE TITAN coach also said he hoped his team could live up to the pre-season rating, but added he was "not sure they (the predictions) are right."

Huribut figures Prospect will do a lot of passing witb Dooley playing end, but Williams claims his team "will not throw long."

"We're not going to ruo anything fancy," said the Knight coach. "We're going to do simple things and use a very simple defense. We're not going to try and outsmart anybody."

WILLIAMS ALSO said "It will be unusual for us to start (the season) well. We get better as the season goes on."

Another problem for Prospect could be the number of juniors on the starting team. "We have a lot of underclassmen," said Williams. "They might make mistakes. But," he added, "This is a game we can afford to make mistakes in."

Glenbrook may have the same problem with "five or six" of their starters coming off last year's jayvee squad.

THE ADDITION of the younger boys does give the Knights one thing they didn't have last year: speed. "Our team speed is totally better than last year, and that's one thing you can never overlook," said Williams.

He also cited a more balanced backfield as a relief, not baving to hand one man the ball all of the time.

Unlike Hurlbut's belief that the Knights will go to a passing attack, Williams contends that running will be the first task for his team. "If our running game will do well, then we'll be able to throw."

FV Tries to Break Warrior Skein at 6 This Afternoon

By Mike Imrem

Forest View's Falcons are expected to get a stiff test when they open their 1969 season on the road against powerful Deerfield at 1:30 this afternoon.

Deerfield has been mentioned among the best teams in the state and an informal poll of coaches rated them as the favorite in the Central Suburban League, considered one of the toughest this season.

FOREST VIEW has lost to the Warriors the six previous times the teams have met, including last season's 14-6 decision, and Falcon head coach Paul Jordan would like to see this skid end tomorrow.

"I understand they have a real good team this year," Jordan said. "It'll be a tough test for us, a real tough ballgame, but we think if we play well we have a good chance of beating them."

Forest View has three of its top-flight ballplayers on the doubtful list for the game. Dave Long has been out of school all week with the flu, halfback Bob Kaspar has strained ligaments on the exterior side of his right ankle and end Wayne Meier has a bad knee.

KASPAR HAD his leg stepped on last week and missed the Falcons' intra-squad game last Saturday. He is still having trouble getting down into his stance on offense, but he went at three-quarter speed on defense yesterday and had little difficulty.

"I'll tell coach Jordan that he can use Kaspar if he needs him," trainer John Porter said yesterday. "Bob's a tough kid, the kind who likes to play if it's at all possible. There's no need to rush him in against Deerfield, but if the game's tight and we need him, he can play."

Kaspar's starting halfback post on offense will be manned by Rich Possinger and Long's slotback job will go tu Howard Mock. Joining them in the backfield will be quarterback Rich Olson and fullback John Ingo.

FOREST VIEW'S offensive line will be made up of Chris Janckowski at center, co-captains Jeff Brown and Greg Swanson at the guards, Bill Michalek and George Bauer at the tackles and Gary Werner and either Meier or Rick Weaver at the ends.

On defense, the Falcons will line up with Don Reid and Mark Seasley at the guards; Tom Dendor and Bauer at the tackles; Swanson, Michalek and Possinger at linebacker; Weaver and Larry Mainzer at the cornerbacks; and Mock and Mike Pirron at the halfbacks.

Seasley is a 200-pound sophomore who won a spot on the varsity and a starting job because of a fine showing in the intra-squad game. Mike Pryor, another soph who gained 117 yards rushing in the intra-squad game, will run back kicks and punts and sub for Possinger at halfback when necessary.

DEERFIELD, SECOND in the Central Suburban conference last year when it was 6-2, has 14 letterman to build around this season. Two are all-conference performers, quarterback Mark Nelson and end-linebacker Guy Mundler. Halfback Steve Homa and center Bob Widner were honorable-mention all-conference.

Wildcats Hope to Stay Close, Capitalize on Hawk Mistakes

By Jim Stuart

Wheeling's young football team will have its work cut out for itself tonight as the Wildcats host defending Central Suburban League champion Maine South, with the preliminary junior varsity game beginning at 6.

"I know they're tough, but I definitely think we have a chance to win," said Wheeling head coach Jack Liljeberg. He feels that if the 'Cats can stay close for most of the game, a break or two for either team toward the end can pull it out.

WHEELING'S SCOUTS saw Maine South's inter-squad game last weekend, and they report that although the Hawks are not as big as last year, they have big, hard runners and a strong ground game.

Wheeling will be playing the game without fullback Mike Beissman, who injured his head and neck and will be out about three weeks. Junior Tom Holtzcopf will fill in at that spot.

Major flaws in the Wheeling passing attack were evident in last Saturday's scrimmage, and the Wildcats have worked hard all week to improve that phase of the offense.

BOTH OF OUR passers, Scott Day and Mike Groot, came along well this week, as did the eods," said Liljeberg. "I won't be afraid to go to the air if Maine South stops our running game."

He will go as far as he can on the ground, as he has one of the finest tailbacks in the area in Dan Hull, but with the big line that South has, Liljeberg says that he will have to pass some to keep the pressure off his backs.

Day will get the call at quarterback, although Groot will see plenty of actioo at that position. Joining bim in the starting backfield will be Hull, Holtzcopf and senior Gary Schweitzer.

THE REST of the offense will consist of Brian Janis and Terry Lundquist at ends, Bill Freddo and Sam Romano at tackles, Lou Lambert and John McDonald at guards and Mike Drake at center.

The defensive unit, made up of what Liljeberg calls his 11 best players, has Janis and Holtzcopf at ends, Romano and Dean Sheridan at tackles, Pat Magoon and Denois Ferris at guards, Bill Craighead at middle linebacker, Ed Niemath and Hull at outside linebackers and Steve Klopf and Groot at safeties.

Lifjeberg plans to experiment somewhat because this is the first game of the season, but he is definitely going all out to win even though it is not a conference game. If he uses reserves, it will simply be because someone on the first unit is not producing.

"This is an extremely important test for us, because it will show us exaclty where we stand and how much work we have to do for the conference games," he said.

The Wildcats had a good, tough week of practice, and whether or not they can overcome the powerhouse from Park Ridge, they will at least be ready for the important encounter.

Fremd Defeats Knights To Gain C-C HeadStart

By Jim O'Donnell

Fremd's cross-country team took a giant step toward the Mid-suburban League championship yesterday afternoon by defeating the Prospect Knights, 27-28.

Going into the meet, which was the first one of the season for both clubs, the Vikings and the Knights, along with Palatine, were the league's pre-season favorites. One of the big hurdles was yesterdav's meet.

PULLING THROUGH the chute first was Knight junior Bob Pomrenke, who was clocked in a time of 14:24. Second place went to the Vikings' Dan Pittenger, but the Knights bounced back as Bill Allen captured the third slot.

Wally Spinolas of Fremd finished fourth and was followed by Keith Matthews of Prospect. Finishing the 2.75 mile course in the seventh position was Rich Bowman.

The pattern of a Prospect runner finishing, then a Fremd runner coming in was broken in the seventh and eighth and slots where Jarocki and Chuck Porter ran on ahead of their Prospect counterparts. Ninth and 10th places went to the Knights when Ron Hankel and Al Morrison raced in front of the remainder of the field.

ON THE SOPHOMORE level, Fremd cleaned up, walking off with an easy 18-41 victory. Six of the first seven finishers were Vikings, the only Knight able to break the streak being Kurt Prinslow who finished third. First place went to Vikings Bill Gross in a time of 15 minutes, 59 seconds.

Mark Mueller copped second place while fourth place honors were carted off by Ernie Pallme. Fifth, sixth and seventh positions went to Vikings Steve McGuire, Steve Olsen and Bill Merten, respectively.

Rounding out eighth through 11th places for Prospect were Gary Rees, Mark Buttner, Scott Bernin and John Ulrich.

A RACE involving the freshmen was also ruo Thursdav. Usually, according to Fremd mentor Ron Menely, the Vikings don't run a freshman race, but Prospect coach Joe Waoner often does, so the Vikings consented.

Much to Menely's surprise, the Vikings completed their sweep of tbe dav by winning on that level also, 27-28. As on the varsity level, first place went to a memher of the losing Knights, Mark Burger. He completed the shortened 1.9 mile course in 11 minutes, four seconds.

The first Viking through the chute was Randy Barbee, who finished just seconds off Burger's pace. The Knights captured third place in the person of Clyde Peterson. Fremd took fourth, Dave Dudziak edging fifth-place Knight John Witt by a few yards.

FREMD SWEPT sixth through eighth places. John Pixius took sixth and was followed by teammates Chris Kelde and Dave Motta. The Knights once again rounded out the final spots of the top 10, as Don Anderson and Mike Young breezed through the chute to wind up meet scoring.

Skaters Start Practices

The Mount Prospect Skating Club has started practicing for the 1969-70 season. Practices are held Monday through Friday at 7 p.m. at Lions Park.

The practice sessions are patterened after the Norwegian Olympic Speed Skating team training procedures that brought the Norwegians to world skating prominence. The sessiuns provide physical conditioning keyed to speed skating in a manner that is not only effective, but fun.

President Herman Haenisch said all children in the area are welcome to attend these programs whether they join the club or not. Any further information on this program is available from Haenisch at CL 5-5561.

Walgreen's Picks President

A.A. Borg

Charles Walgreen III

Charles R. Walgreen III has been elected president and chief administrative officer of Walgreens, the nation's largest drug chain. He replaces A. A. Borg who reaches retirement Sept. 30, and becomes its fourth president since 1901.

Walgreen, 33, graduated from the University of Michigan in 1958.

The retiring A. A. Borg began his career with the Walgreen chain 41 years ago, and became a member of the Board of Directors in 1952. After various promotions he became president in 1963.

In succeeding A. A. Borg, Walgreen remains as chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the company.

Society Hears 'Prairies'

The Barrington Natural History Society will hold its first meeting of the 1969-70 year on Sept. 23 at the Grove Avenue School, 900 S. Grove, Barrington, at 8 p.m.

Charles Westcott, who is affiliated with the Cook County Forest Preserve, will speak on "Prairies."

Westcott said that two-thirds to three-fourths of Illinois was originally prairie land. The prairie is now well over 99 per cent gone. There are probably less than 500 acres of prairie land left, with only 200 acres undisturbed. Prairie areas have provided all of, Illinois agricultural land. Cook, Lake and McHenry Counties have excellent prairie areas, Westcott said.

The public is welcome to this meeting of the Natural History Society and their other meetings, which will be held every fourth Tuesday through June, 1970.

Music Teachers Set 1st Meeting

The first meeting for the year 1969-70 of the Northwest Suburban Music Teachers' Association will be held at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, at Lyon-Healy, Randhurst, Mount Prospect.

Information about the organization may be obtained from Membership Chairman Verna Dean Roberts, at 437-2067, or from the President, Suzanne Hynek at 537-0358.

Attends 2-Day Workshop

Richard J. Brown, 1314 N. Pine Av., Arlington Heights, will be a workshop panelist at the two-day marketing sessions of the Aluminum Siding Assn., in Chicago, Sept. 17 and 18.

Brown will represent Richard J. Brown Associated, Inc., of Rolling Meadows, a home building firm which he heads.

The workshop panelists will discuss the increasing use of aluminum siding by home and low-rise apartment builders.

Wheeling GOP Dinner Set Oct. 4

Wheeling Township Republican Party's fourth annual dinner-dance will be held Oct. 4 at Arlington Park.

The party will begin with cocktails in the Turf-Side Room at 6:30 p.m. Music will be furnished by Hal Munro and his orchestra. The dinner will be at 8:30 p.m. in the Mid-America room.

In the past, guests and speakers have included, the late Sen. Everett Dirksen, Sen. Charles Percy, Donald Rumsfeld, now head of the Office of Economics Opportunity, and Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan.

This year's speaker has not yet been announced, but dinner chairman Dwight Walton described him as "a young man who pulled the biggest Republican upset in 1968." The speaker will be disclosed Tuesday.

Tickets can be obtained by calling Roy Brassler, CL 5-6329, Dwight Walton, 392-9415 or Mrs. Charles Trautner, 392-2901.

EASY-TO-MAKE BRACELETS!

By Cappy Dick

Bead bracelets that fit snugly but can be stretched are easy for any girl to make. The only materials needed are the beads and a supply of elastic cord.

It is fun to make several bracelets, each of a different color, and wear all of them at the same time as the girl is doing in Figure 2. If the beads are carefully slected so the colors of a girl's costumes are represented, the set of bracelets can be worn with almost any outfit.

Use fairly large beads--wood beads will be satisfactory. After stringing enough to form a snug-fitting bracelet, tie the ends of the elastic together, or overlap the ends and sew them together.

When one bracelet has been formed, make as many others as desired.

If the supply of beads is large enough, several bracelets of each color can be made, such as three red ones, three greens and three yellows. The three red ones could be worn one day, the three greens another day, the three yellows the third day and for the fourth day a combination of one bracelet of each color could be worn.
